ZINTAK JURORS TELL OF DANCE AND 8 SALOONS

Halted Stealing Bar Stool and Radio.

Jurors, tavern owners, and a bailif coöperated yesterday to tell Judge Benjamin P. Epstein of the Criminal court of the great thirst of the jury at the second embezzlement trial of Frank V. Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court. They added that the jurors quenched that thirst at eight taverns on one week-end. In one saloon, they testified, the jurors attended a dancing party and several of them danced with girls they found there. One saloonist said he thwarted jurors' efforts to steal a radio and a bar stool.

It was revealed also that liquor was plentiful in the jury room. This jury acquitted Zintak after six hours' deliberation. At the first trial the jury was discharged after 41 hours' inability to agree. A member of the first jury testified last week that Robert W. McKinlay gave him $25 and promised him a city job to hold out for a not guilty verdict.

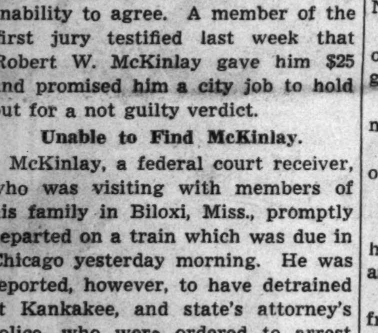
Unable to Find McKinlay.

McKinlay, a federal court receiver, who was visiting with members of his family in Biloxi, Miss., promptly departed on a train which was due in Chicago yesterday morning. He was reported, however, to have detrained at Kankakee, and state's attorney's police, who were ordered to arrest him, have not seen him.

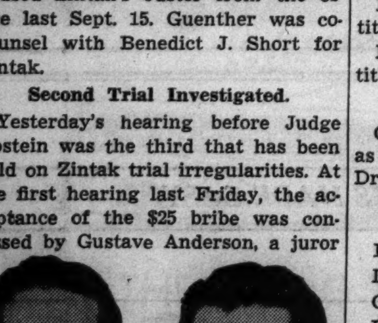
According to his attorney, George Guenther, however, McKinlay is nearby and will surrender if and when a warant is issued against him. McKinlay was a character witness for Zintak in both the embezzlement trials which followed disclosure of a $26,500 shortage in Zintak's accounts as Superior court clerk. The shortage caused Zintak's ouster from the office last Sept. 15. Guenther was cocounsel with Benedict J. Short for Zintak.



George Cameron (left) and Jules Rosenthal heard music and dropped into tavern with fellow jurors to join the party.

Second Trial Investigated.

Yesterday's hearing before Judge Epstein was the third that has been held on Zintak trial irregularities. At the first hearing last Friday, the acceptance of the $25 bribe was confessed by Gustave Anderson, a juror in the first trial, over which Judge Robert C. O'Connell presided. Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley sat with Judges Epstein and O'Connell at Friday's session. On Saturday, Judge O'Connell conducted a quiz on his case.



Harold Stanger (left) and John L. Moore were on the jury which enjoyed a bus ride to a tavern where the latter said he bought a bottle of liquor.

Among those questioned yesterday on the second trial, over which Judge Epstein presided, was Deputy Sherif Daniel Miller, 1304 South 7th avenue, Maywood, who was in charge of the jury on its week-end of fun. Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley put the questions.

On Saturday, Jan. 30, according to Miller's testimony, the jury went out

CAROL G. WRITES TO HER FIREMAN DREAM PRINCE

Love Trial Unmasks Winnetka Beauty.

Mrs. Caroline de Windt Gardner, descendant of President John Adams, member of an old Winnetka family, conspicuous in north shore social affairs, a woman of beauty, and widely acquainted in Chicago, wrote a letter.

The letter was written to David J. Wood, captain in charge of the fire station which stands across the street from the house in which Mrs. Gardner formerly lived with her family. The romance of the beautiful descendant of the Massachusetts Adamses and the fireman with the blue shirt and the brass buttons, burst into the open yesterday in divorce court.

[The details of the court hearing will be found on page 6.]

Carol G. Becomes Known.

The letter became known and also Mrs. Gardner became known when the wife of Wood, the fireman, tore the mystery from the much quoted name of Carol G. and let the whole world know that Carol G. is indeed none other than Mrs. Caroline de Windt Gardner, descendant, etc., conspicuous in society, etc., member of a well known Winnetka family, etc.

Wood, the fireman, is asking a divorce in the Circuit court of Judge Joseph Burke. He says his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Wood, has been cruel to him. Mrs. Wood is asking separate maintenance. She says her husband has given too much of his affection to the mysterious Carol G., now identified as Mrs. Gardner.

Each One a Mother.

Mrs. Wood is the mother of two children, Richard, 13 years old, and Marjorie, 10 years old.

Mrs. Gardner is also the mother of two children, Carol and William Alfred II. She and her husband and the youngsters formerly lived at 745 Ash street, Winnetka, but Mrs. Gardner now lives in Barrington.

Her husband is Albert S. Gardner, former head of the Metcalf Stationery company. He is a nephew of a former governor of Missouri. Mrs. Gardner's family, the De Windts, have lived so long in Winnetka that there is a street named for them. The name of the street is De Windt road.

Here Is the Letter.

Now this is the letter written by Mrs. Gardner to the fireman with the blue shirt in his fire station across the way. This is the letter introduced in evidence yesterday:

"Oh my Dave:

"What has made you decide this, my own darling ? I don't believe I was ever given such a jolt in my life. Every waking moment my thoughts are of and with you. Perhaps I have confided too much in you, Sweetheart, but I believe and trust you implicitly and feel that I must talk over everything with you because I live and move in your light.

[The cause of Mrs. Gardner's unhappiness as set forth in the letter was the captain's decision not to see her on the week-end after Thanksgiving, 1936. The letter was written and delivered on Nov. 24 and was found by Mrs. Wood on the same day.]

Nothing Else Matters.

"You give me strength and ambition and the desire to push on. Without you I had just as soon give up—even the children don't matter. They are all taken care of in my will and they would manage somehow.

"Always I am happy working when I think of you and plan what to do till I next see you. It truly wasn't the letter that started me—but as soon as you said you and Mr. Werner would be out tomorrow I became weepy—because I knew I wouldn't be able to see you and I did so want to go to church with you.

"My precious Dave, I simply idolize you and I guess you know it. I have become so dependent on you that I don't believe I'd turn around without asking you if it was all right.

Relies on His Advice.

"Perhaps I shouldn't have discussed all these matters with you because it was hardly fair. However, I would take your advice in preference to my lawyer's.

"Never in my life has any one been so understanding and true to me as you, Sweet. You have never hurt me—oh, maybe for a moment, once or

BRITISH ISLAND RULER TRACES SITDOWNS TO INDIAN OCEAN'S HEAT

Boston, Mass., March 29.—[Special.]—Sir Gordon James Lethem, British governor of the Leeward Islands, part of the British West Indies group, today declared the idea of a sitdown strike probably originated in the faraway Seychelle Islands in the Indian ocean, where the natives won't work after 11 o'clock in the morning.

He said the condition resulted from the intense heat rather than from any economic issue. He believes, however, that the thirty hour, six day week originated in the Seychelles, the natives working from 6 in the morning until 11, when they quit.

Sir Gordon was in Boston today as a passenger on the Canadian National steamer Lady Drake.

Wisp of Gray Hair Clew to Rapist Slayer

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Secrets of "the murder of the artists' model," New York's most recent, most revolting and most mysterious crime of sex and violence, tonight were wrapped up in a few wisps of gray hair. These, comprising virtually the only tangible clew in the hands of police, came from the fingernails of Veronica ["Ronnie"] Gedeon, beauteous blonde artists' model, who with her mother, Mrs. Mary Gedeon, and a roomer, Frank Byrnes, were found slain in their apartment on East 50th street, early Easter Sunday.

Another slim clew on which harried investigators pinned slender hopes of solving the triple murder were the stains they found on the bed where the gay commercial model's life drained out with a strangler's fingers at her throat.

Depend on Crime Laboratory.

As in the spectacular Nancy Titterton murder case of about a year ago and in the more recent murder of young Mrs. Mary Case, the police looked to the test tubes of the crime laboratory to trap the killer in the triple slaying of Beekman Hill. Dozens of suspects were quizzed during a day of feverish activity by 200 detectives—but with two exceptions all suspects emerged with "perfect alibis." Tonight, police officials said they were "groping in the dark."

Despite the refusal of detectives to discuss it, there was a plentitude of evidence that the investigators were more than hopeful of finding the answer to the fiction-like triple murder in the scrambled private life of the beautiful model, "Ronnie." Among the suspects released today were several of her close male friends, artists' models who were her friends and colleagues, and her youthful ex-husband.

According to the story of the slain girl's father, who was estranged from her mother, fair, carefree 20 year old Ronnie played with the heart strings of several men. It was his belief that one of these, driven by maniacal jealousy by her indifference, killed her. Mrs. Gedeon, he believed, and the roomer, Byrnes, died because they stood in the frenzied murderer's way.

She Made Fools of Men.

"Ronnie made fools of lots of men," the father said. "It's hard to say now, but Ronnie was wild, and she was willful. She wouldn't listen to her mother or me."

Miss Gedeon had been having an affair with a married man with three children, according to a report fur-

WHO'S LOONY NOW? BIG CITY FELLERS NO MATCH FOR OTTILLA

"A woman with a gun won't let us go to our cottages on Loon lake," two frantic Chicagoans telephoned yesterday to the Lake county sherif's office in Waukegan. Deputies Joseph Welch and Stanley Christian rushed to the battlefield, a side road half a mile from the Loon Lake-Milburn highway, and about three miles from Antioch.

The deputies found Mrs. Ottilla Frank, 68 years old, standing guard with a hoe and a pair of hedge clippers over O. H. Langash and Alfred Logan, who sat meekly in their automobiles. This armament and three parallel ditches across the road effectively blocked the Chicagoans' approach to their lake cottages. Mrs. Frank swished the hoe in the direction of Deputy Welch, who hastily exhibited his badge.

"It's these furriners," she snorted. "They don't help keep up the road. My husband and I work it all year 'round and I spent $110 for gravel. These furriners ain't going' to use it till they promise a day's work on it. No, I didn't have no pistol."

After being booked in Waukegan for disorderly conduct, Mrs. Frank was allowed to go home.

Winds Blow Gently Upon Chicago; It's 17th in Nation

Chicago had remarkably little wind in 1936, according to Frederick Rex, municipal librarian. A survey of forty-four major cities showed that Chicago ranked seventeenth. During 1936, said Mr. Rex, Chicago had only seven days on which the wind reached a velocity of 32 miles an hour or better. New York had 106 such days.

WRECKS ARGUMENT FOR PACKING SUPREME COURT

Senator Glass Calls Revision Scheme National Peril.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—In a blistering attack tonight on President Roosevelt's scheme to pack the Supreme court with New Dealers, Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] accused the President of fostering a project which, if realized would wreck our democratic form of government.

For an hour the ether quivered and crackled with the forthright adjectives and sizzling epithets of the invective the fiery 79 year old Virginian hurled into the microphone to give expression to his repugnance for the administration's judiciary bill, his contempt for its authors and his fears for the fate of the nation if the move succeeds.

Speaks from Hotel Room.

"Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg," Senator Glass concluded, "thought that the civil war was a test of whether a 'government of the people, by the people, for the people' should perish from the face of the earth. Just as profoundly are some of us convinced that no threat to representative democracy since the foundation of the republic has exceeded in its evil portents this attempt to pack the Supreme court of the United States and thus destroy the purity and independence of this tribunal of last resort."

The senator delivered his address in the hotel room to which he has been confined for several weeks with illness due to overwork. It was his second radio speech, his first having been made in support of Mr. Roosevelt in the closing days of the 1932 campaign. A few months later, he declined Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to become secretary of the treasury because he distrusted Mr. Roosevelt's monetary views.

Swings on Brain Trusters.

Again and again in his speech tonight, Senator Glass turned his sarcasm upon the young brain trusters who framed the New Deal laws knocked out by the Supreme court. He pleaded for "legislation for social and economic security, painstakingly drafted by competent lawyers with a clear conception of the constitutional prohibitions against invading the rights of business and individuals by a species of confiscation and by utter indifference for reserved powers of the states."

"Why," he demanded, "should we not quit legislating by pious preambles and conform our enactments to the requirements of the constitution and thus put upon notice the cabal of amateur experimenters that we will have no more of their trash?

Would Meet Issue Squarely.

"Let us have no more bills for unfettered delegation of authority, so obviously unconstitutional as to have prompted the President to make an unhappy appeal for disregarding all 'reasonable doubts.' Let us meet the issue confidently, but with a determination to promote the general welfare of the nation and not merely to surrender control of the government to special groups.'

If, then, it turns out that the constitution is not ample to the purpose, Senator Glass asserted, let the constitution be amended in the manner

Wage, Debt Holiday and Rail Labor Laws Validated.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—In three momentous decisions, the foremost of which upholds the right of the states to fix minimum wages, the Supreme court today swung over to the "liberal" side and deprived President Roosevelt of a major argument in support of his scheme to pack the tribunal with New Dealers.

Not only did the court reverse its position taken a year ago in the New York state minimum wage case by upholding, in a 5 to 4 opinion, a similar statute enacted by the legislature of Washington. It unanimously upheld both the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act of 1935 and the railway labor act of 1934, which is a companion of the Wagner labor relations act for railroad workers.

No Wagner Act Decision.

No decision was forthcoming in the five pending cases involving the constitutionality of the Wagner act itself, most important New Deal statute to be tested at this term, but the opinion in the railway labor case indicated that the court will uphold the Wagner act as applied to clearly interstate activities.

The opinion in the Washington minimum wage case was read by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who was one of the four dissenters in the case invalidating the New York state law. Justice Owen J. Roberts was the man who switched and swung the balance of the court.

A vigorous dissenting opinion, read with great vehemence by Justice George Sutherland on behalf of himself and Justices Pierce Butler, James Clark McReynolds, and Willis Van Devanter, virtually accused the majority of the court of following the election returns, as Mr. Dooley used to say.

McReynolds Walks Out.

Obviously with the Supreme court packing bill in mind, Mr. Justice Sutherland also deplored the theory that the constitution can be changed by judicial construction. Mr. Justice McReynolds, who cried out, "The constitution is gone!" when the majority of the court upheld the New Deal's repudiation of the gold clause, refused to stay on the bench and hear the majority opinion read today. He left just before the chief justice began reading.

"The meaning of the constitution does not change with the ebb and flow of economic events," said Mr. Justice Sutherland. "The judicial function is that of interpretation; it does not include the power of amendment under the guise of interpretation. To miss the point of difference between the two is to miss all that the phrase 'supreme law of the land' stands for and to convert what was intended as inescapable and enduring mandates into mere moral reflections.

Call Amendment the Remedy.

"If the constitution, intelligently and reasonably construed in the light of these principles, stands in the way of desirable legislation, the blame must rest upon that instrument and not upon the court for enforcing it according to its terms.

"The remedy in that situation—and the only remedy—is to amend the constitution. Judge Cooley pointed out that 'a court or legislature which should allow a change in public sentiment to influence it in giving to a written constitution a construction not warranted by the intention of its founders would be justly chargeable with reckless disregard of official oath and public duty. . . .'"

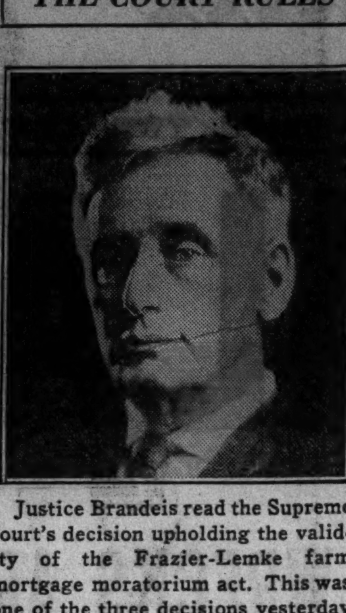
The opinion of the chief justice, read before a distinguished audience that packed the new marble and gold leaf courtroom, was promptly reported to the senate, where a debate was in progress on the President's bill to pack the court.

"I am glad that the Supreme court has completely faced about," bellowed Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

Wheeler Blames Law Framers.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], who was denouncing the packing measure, said the court's decision upholding the revised Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage act, the original of which had been declared unconstitutional, made it clear that "if some of the New Deal legislation had

THE COURT RULES



Justice Brandeis read the Supreme court's decision upholding the validity of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act. This was one of the three decisions yesterday with which the court swung to the "liberal" side on New Deal legislation.

Justice Sutherland read with vehemence a vigorous dissenting opinion on the 5 to 4 decision upholding state's rights in setting minimum wages.

Justice Roberts (left) was the man who switched from a previous 5-4 stand, when the New York wage law was invalidated, and gave the "liberals" the decision. Before Chief Justice Hughes could finish reading the majority opinion Justice McReynolds (right) rose and left the bench.

"I am glad that the Supreme court has completely faced about," bellowed Joseph T. Robinson, senate majority leader, who is backing the President's court packing plan.

been written by legislators instead of being sent up here by inexperienced boys the results would have been different."

Senator Henry F. Ashurst [D., Ariz.], chairman of the judiciary committee and manager of the President's bill, pulled from his pocket his tract on the virtues of inconsistency and declared:

"The Supreme court must have read my homily. I applaud their lack of consistency in reversing themselves today. They have taken the advice I so humbly gave them."

Obliterates "No Man's Land."

The effect of the court's decision in the Washington minimum wage case is to obliterate what President Roosevelt has called "a no man's land" in which neither the states nor congress can legislate on the subject of wages and hours of labor. In the famous Adkins case decided more than a decade ago—which was reëxamined and overruled today—the Supreme court held that congress had no power to fix minimum wages for the women and children of the District of Columbia.

In the NRA and the Guffey coal cases the court held that congress could not invade the reserved powers of the states to regulate the wages and hours of labor. Then in the New York minimum wage case it held that the states themselves could not exercise this power because it violated "freedom of contract" and hence the due process clause of the 14th amendment.

President Roosevelt then raised his cry about the "no man's land." The effect of today's decision is to give the states unquestionable power to deal with social and economic problems, a power which constitutional authorities like Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] have always contended the states had.

Kills Court Packing Argument.

Moreover, the Supreme court has charted a course whereby all of Mr. Roosevelt's social and economic objectives could be attained under the constitution as it is now construed and without legislation to put six New Dealers on the bench.

In its recent decision upholding the Ashurst-Sumners prison goods act, the court laid down the principle that congress, through the exercise of its interstate commerce powers, can prohibit the shipment of goods which are in themselves harmless into states which have laws prohibiting their receipt or sale.

In the light of this decision and the one today upholding the power of the states to enact such legislation, Senator Borah and Senator Wheeler contended that congress and the states, acting together, could abolish child labor and regulate wages, hours, and labor relations.

The decision today grew out of an appeal by the West Coast Hotel Company of Seattle from a decision of the Washington Supreme court upholding the state's minimum wage law for women and minors. Elsie Parrish, employed as a chambermaid by the hotel, sued the hotel company for the difference between wages paid her and those fixed by the state commission in pursuance of law—$14.50 for a week of 48 hours.

The Washington statue, enacted in 1913, was similar to the District of Columbia law in that it sought to assure the payment of wages sufficient to protect the health and morals of the workers. The New York minimum wage law, which was held unconstitutional by a 5 to 4 decision, went even further by setting up the additional standard of "a fair and reasonable return for services performed."

Chief Justice's Opinion.

The hotel company relied upon the court's decision in the Adkins case outlawing the District of Columbia minimum wage law, but the opinion of Chief Justice Hughes said:

"The recent case of Morehead vs. New York, ex rel., Tipaldo, 298 U. S. 587, came here on certiorari to the New York court which had held the New York minimum wage act for women to be invalid. A minority of this court thought that the New York statute was distinguishable in a material feature from that involved in the Adkins case and that for that and other reasons the New York statute should be sustained. But the Court of Appeals of New York had said that it found no material difference between the two statutes and this court held that the 'meaning of the statute' as fixed by the decision of the state court 'must be accepted here as if the meaning had been specifically expressed in the factment.' Id., p. 609.

"That view led to the affirmance by this court of the judgment in the Morehead case, as the court considered that the only question before it was whether the Adkins case was distinguishable and that reconsideration of that decision had not been sought. Upon that point the court said: 'The petition for the writ sought review upon the ground that this case [Morehead] is distinguishable from that one [Adkins]. No application has been made for reconsideration of the constitutional question there decided. The validity of the principles upon which that decision rests is not challenged. This court confines itself to the ground upon which the writ was asked or granted.'"

Question Is Reopened.

After thus opening the way for a reconsideration of the New York case, the chief justice proceeded to the reconsideration of the Adkins case:

"We think that the question which was not deemed to be open in the Morehead case is open and is necessarily presented here. The Supreme court of Washington has upheld the minimum wage statute of that state. It has decided that the statute is a reasonable exercise of the police power of the state. In reaching that conclusion the state court has invoked principles long established by this court in the application of the fourteenth amendment. The state court has refused to regard the decision in the Adkins case as determinative and has pointed to our decisions both before and since that case as justifying its position.

"We are of the opinion that this ruling of the state court demands on our part a reëxamination of the Adkins case. The importance of the question, in which many states having similar laws are concerned, the close division by which the decision in the Adkins case was reached, and the economic conditions which have supervened, and in the light of which the reasonableness of the exercise of the protective power of the state must be considered, make it not only appropriate, but we think imperative, that in deciding the present case the subject should receive fresh consideration.

"The District of Columbia minimum wage law [40th stat., 960] was enacted in 1918. The statute was sustained by the Supreme court of the district in the Adkins case. Upon appeal the Court of Appeals of the district first affirmed that ruling, but on rehearing reversed it, and the case came before this court in 1923. The judgment of the Court of Appeals holding the act invalid was affirmed, but with Chief Justice Taft, Mr. Justice Holmes and Mr. Justice Sanford dissenting, and Mr. Justice Brandeis taking no part. The dissenting opinions took the ground that the decision was at variance with the principles which this court had frequently announced and applied.

"The principle which must control our decision is not in doubt. The constitutional provision invoked is the due process clause of the fourteenth amendment governing the states, as the due process clause invoked in the Adkins case governed congress. In each case the violation alleged by those attacking minimum wage regulation for women is deprivation of freedom of contract.

Discusses Freedom of Contract.

"What is this freedom? The constitution does not speak of freedom of contract. It speaks of liberty and prohibits the deprivation of liberty without due process of law. In prohibiting that deprivation the constitution does not recognize an absolute and uncontrollable liberty. Liberty in each of its phases has its history and connotation.

"But the liberty safeguarded is liberty in a social organization which requires the protection of law against the evils which menace the health, safety, morals, and welfare of the people. Liberty under the constitution is thus necessarily subject to the restraints of due process, and regulation which is reasonable in relation to its subject and is adopted in the interests of the community is due process.

"One of the points which was pressed by the court in supporting its rulings in the Adkins case was that the standard set up by the District of Columbia act did not take appropriate account of the value of the services rendered. In the Morehead case, the minority thought that the New York statute had met that point in its definition of a 'fair wage' and that it accordingly presented a distinguishable feature which the court could recognize within the limits which the Morehead petition for certiorari was deemed to present. The court, however, did not take that view and the New York act was held to be essentially the same as that for the District of Columbia.

Cites New Considerations.

"The statute now before us is like the latter but we are unable to conclude that in its minimum wage requirement the state has passed beyond the boundary of its broad protective power.

"There is an additional and compelling consideration which recent economic experience has brought into a strong light. The exploitation of a class of workers who are in an unequal position with respect to bargaining power and are thus relatively defenseless against the denial of a living wage is not only detrimental to their health and well-being but casts a direct burden for their support upon the community.

"What these workers lose in wages the taxpayers are called upon to pay. The bare cost of living must be met. We may take judicial notice of the unparalleled demands for relief which arose during the recent period of depression and still continue to an alarming extent despite the degree of economic recovery which has been achieved.

"It is unnecessary to cite official statistics to establish what is of common knowledge through the length and breadth of the land. While in the instant case no factual brief has been presented, there is no reason to doubt that the state of Washington has encountered the same social problem that is present elsewhere. The community is not bound to provide what is in effect a subsidy for unconscionable employers. The community may direct its law-making power to correct the abuse which springs from their selfish disregard of the public interest."

Farm Mortgage Act Amended.

The original Frazier-Lemke act, which was held unconstitutional as an unreasonable exercise of the bankruptcy power, in violation of the 5th amendment, provided for a five year moratorium on farm mortgages, during which time the debtor retained possession of his land, for a scaling down of the interest rate and for a reappraisal of the property.

The act upheld today provides for a three year moratorium during which time the debtor pays a "reasonable rental" as fixed by the court.

The case came up in a suit brought by Robert Page Wright, a Virginia farmer, for a stay of his debt to the Vinton branch of the Mountain Trust company. The District court and the Circuit Court of Appeals both held the act unconstitutional, but the Supreme court, in an opinion read by Justice Louis D. Brandeis, upheld the law.

Railway Act's Provisions.

The railway labor act upheld by the court, in an opinion by Justice Harlan F. Stone, provides for compulsory collective bargaining with the agency selected by a majority of any voting unit of railway workers. The act set up a national mediation board, with power to designate the voting agency, to conduct elections, and to issue orders requiring the railroads to bargain exclusively with the agency selected by a majority of the workers. The orders of the board are enforceable by injunction in the federal courts.

The act is virtually identical to the Wagner labor relations act except that it applies only to railway workers, while the Wagner act seeks to reach all workers on the theory that activities local in their immediacy affect interstate commerce.

The Virginian Railway company appealed to the Supreme court from a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals upholding an order of the national mediation board. The order of the board required the road to bargain with system federation No. 40, a unit of the American Federation of Labor for railway shop craft employés, and specifically prohibited the road from bargaining with any other agency.

Interstate Commerce Question.

The chief question at issue was whether shop craft employés, car cleaners, repairmen, etc., are engaged in interstate commerce. The opinion of Mr. Justice Stone declared:

"The activities in which these employés are engaged have such a relation to the other confessedly interstate activities of the petitioner that they are to be regarded as a part of them. All taken together fall within the power of congress over interstate commerce. Baltimore and Ohio R. R. Company vs. Interstate Commerce Commission, 221 U. S. 612, 619; cf Pedersen vs. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Co., 229 U. S. 146, 151. Both courts below have found that interruption by strikes of the back shop employés, if more than temporary, would seriously cripple petitioner's interstate transportation.

"The relation of the back shop to transportation is such that a strike of petitioner's employés there, quite apart from the likelihood of its spreading to the operating department, would subject petitioner to the danger, substantial, though possibly indefinable in its extent, of interruption of the transportation service. The cause is not remote from the effect. The relation between them is not tenuous. The effect on commerce cannot be regarded as negligible."

OFFER OF JUDGE FOR COURT VOTE, CHARGE BY HOLT

Black Asks for Proof and Gets It.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] charged on the senate floor today that Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan offered him the privilege of naming a federal judge if he would agree to support Roosevelt's bill to pack the Supreme court.

Senator Rush Holt (right), who charged in the senate that Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan (left) tried to influence him in favor of President Roosevelt's bill to pack the Supreme court.

Holt's charges were made in the course of a long senate argument on the Supreme court question, during which Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] assailed the patronage activities of the administration and said that President Roosevelt and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings had assumed "the attitude of pettyfogging lawyers" in condemning the Supreme court.

Black Demands Proof.

"So far as all this talk about patronage is concerned, let those who say it prove it," demanded Senator Hugo L. Black [D., Ala.]. "Let those who charge that there is an effort made to buy a senator or a congressman by patronage, prove it."

"I will tell the senator," Holt replied. "An official in the department of justice—Judge Keenan—very generously wanted to know if I was interested in suggesting some one for federal judge in West Virginia. He talked about the present administration. He did not say, 'I am going to give you a judge for your vote.' I hope he did not think I was that dumb. But I know what he meant and he knew what I meant. He meant if I went along I would get a judge.

"Knowing the department of justice group as I do, I had the conversation on the telephone taken down—both ends of it."

Black Defends Keenan.

Defending Keenan as a man of "intelligence and integrity," Black replied to Holt: "I would be ashamed to rise on the floor of the senate and admit that I had a reputation that would jusify anybody in thinking I could be bribed with a federal judgeship. So far as I am personally concerned I wish to state that I would have no respect for anybody who would try to use any such influence, and I have less respect for the man who would permit it to be offered."

COURT'S DECISION SPURS STATES TO PUSH WAGE LAWS

Reports to the Associated Press from many parts of the country indicated last night that minimum wage legislation, previously held up in state legislatures, would be pushed for prompt enactment as a result of the Supreme court's decision validating the Washington state law providing minimum wages for women in industry.

At Albany, N. Y., Gov. Herbert Lehman said the decision "clears the way to the prompt enactment" of a similar law now before the legislature there.

Minimum wage and other labor legislation embodied in a program "to make strikes unnecessary" will be introduced in the Michigan legislature "very shortly" Gov. Frank Murphy said in Detroit.

Sponsors of a wage and hour bill pending in the Colorado legislature said they would press for early action.

Texas State Labor Commissioner Fred Nichols said he would seek to have a minimum wage bill brought before the legislature.

State Representative Raymond Julkowski, sponsor of major labor bills in the Minnesota legislature, was optimistic over prospects of obtaining passage of a bill at the present session for a constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to enact wage and hour laws.

BROOKFIELD APE MAULS KEEPER; CHILDREN FLEE

The big ape's assault on Aitken sent 150 children, free from school on spring vacation, and 30 adults fleeing in terror through the exits of the building. Added to the din of screaming women and children was the shrill clamor set up by the monkeys as Mike bashed the keeper against the cage bars.

A thick plate glass partition and a stout guard rail prevent the public from approaching too near the cages of the apes. Between the rail and the cages is a runway used by the keepers.

Considered a Docile Chimp.

Aitken, who is 35 years old, was passing down this runway with a bucket of fruit and vegetables for some distant cages. Since 1934, when the zoo purchased Mike from Cuba, Aitken and the others had considered him a docile chimp, a pet of all.

But as the keeper passed yesterday Mike thrust a powerful hairy arm through the bars, pulling Aitken off balance. With a quick jerk the chimpanzee dragged Aitken against the bars, then began clawing his arms and slamming him back and forth.

Mike chewed at the keeper's left arm. Desperately Aitken tried to fight him off with his free arm, but Meshie, Mike's mate, clutched his right arm.

Calls for Help.

Pinioned against the bars of the cage by the enraged apes, Aitken cried for help. Abe Parratt, his assistant, was in another room of the house. He heard the uproar and hurried to the rescue. With a club he beat at Mike until the big ape and his mate backed away, freeing Aitken.

Aitken, both arms mangled, was taken to the West Suburban hospital in Oak Park. There his condition was reported to be serious.

INCOME RETURNS EXPECTED TO CUT REALTY TAX LEVY

Assessor John S. Clark predicted yesterday that the 1937 real estate assessment in Cook county will be about 20 per cent lower as the result of millions of dollars in taxable personalty he expects to uncover in an examination of federal income tax returns.

For the first time this year the returns have been made available to the assessor. He began work yesterday photostating the 300,000 schedules They arrived too late to be of use in the 1936 personalty assessment, which will be completed April 10, but are to be used in compiling the 1937 personal property tax.

"Access to the returns does not mean more taxes for the city and county to spend," the assessor declared. "It will result in lower taxes for real estate, business concerns, and manufacturing establishments who are paying the other fellow's share."

The tax on the newly discovered personalty, Clark said, will be levied on an assessed valuation of 20 per cent of its reputed value.

RECOVERS AUTO

GEORGE GREEN.

Miss Geraldine Mills, 23 years old, 12 South Parkside avenue, played detective yesterday and recovered her missing automobile. It was taken Easter morning while she was at services in St. Catherine's church, Austin avenue and Washington boulevard.

After reporting the car stolen, Miss Mills began trying to figure out who might have taken it. She remembered that three months ago George Green, 53 years old, of Atlanta, Ga., an acquaintance, had taken one of the duplicate car keys as a joke, but had not returned it.

Miss Mills and her mother traced Green to the Great Northern hotel yesterday and, learning that he had taken the automobile, called police. After being questioned at the First district station Green surrendered the car. He is a promoter. Police quoted him as saying that he had given her the car. Miss Mills denied this, declaring she bought the car with her own money. Green told her, she said, that he needed a car on some business and took hers, having the key. Green was released.

EX-GOV. ALLEN WARNS AGAINST COURT PACKING

Former Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas asserted before 300 members of the Chicago district of the Illinois Bankers' association at their annual banquet in the Palmer house last night that President Roosevelt's plan to pack the Supreme court is the way to a dictatorship. He spoke against the court plan in a debate with Dr. Carl B. Spaeth, professor of law at Northwestern university, who talked in behalf of the plan.

YOUTH BUNGLES EASTER HOLDUP; KILLS HIMSELF

Trapped After New Suit Theft in Maywood.

No one in Maywood knew just how important the new Easter suit was in Clifford Hanthorn's life. He was old enough at 18 to know his widowed mother could not buy it for him. He wore his old clothes on Easter without complaint.

But early yesterday he went into Charles Gollay's clothing store at 111 South 5th avenue, Maywood, and ordered the suit. It must be perfectly fitted. Clifford Hanthorn gave a $1 deposit and said he would be back when the alterations were finished.

Returns With Revolver.

At noon he returned. But it was not the $21.50 balance he had in his hand. It was a revolver.

"This is a stickup!" he told Clothier Gollay, who is 60 years old. "Give me the suit."

Carrying his treasured new clothes over his arm, Clifford Hanthorn fled from the store, through the streets of downtown Maywood, hoping to reach his home at 209 South 4th avenue, Maywood, by a circuitous route.

It had not occurred to him, in his first robbery, that his home was so near the merchant might have recognized him as a neighbor boy. He may never have known that the police station was only three doors from the store, for he had never before been in trouble, the police said.

Wrests Suit from Youth.

After him raced Gollay. He overtook the boy and wrested the suit from him. Clifford Hanthorn ran on, north to Lake street and east in Lake street to 2d avenue, getting even farther from home.

Policemen August Creuter and Harry Klug took up the chase in their squad car. In an alleyway at 215 North 2d avenue, Maywood, they trapped him.

Clifford Hanthorn raised his weapon, a police revolver stolen six years ago, and fired into his brain a bullet from which he died in the Westlake hospital.

Sergt. William Miller broke the news to the boy's mother. She said her son had been ill, unable to work or go to school. She had supported the family working in Maywood homes. Where he got the gun she did not know.

4 NAVAL VESSELS ARE DAMAGED IN TEST CRUISES

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Four new United States naval destroyers have returned here with damages, including cracked plates, from unusually rough weather met in "shakedown" cruises, naval officials disclosed today.

Although it is not determined whether faulty construction is wholly or partly responsible, they denied a statement made yesterday by Harry B. Ahrens, Kings county commander of the American Legion, that three of the vessels would have to be reconditioned at a cost of $2,500,000 because of faulty construction.

Some structural changes will be made in the destroyers Mahan, Reid, and Cummings, it was explained, because they were found advisable as a result of the earlier "shakedown" of the Flusser, which is a new destroyer of the same class. Naval officers familiar with the destroyers estimate that changes will cost not more than $100,000.

WAR OVER CHILD

MRS. ANN HOUGH.

JOHN HOUGH.

Harmony was restored to the Hough household yesterday when a mother-in-law, in the privacy of Judge Joseph B. Hermes' chambers kissed the cheek of the daughter-in-law she allegedly slapped last week.

Mrs. Margaret Hough, 67 years old, 8228 Marshfield avenue, was the slapper. Mrs. Ann Hough, 23 years old, 5522 Aberdeen street, was the slappee. The slapping took place, according to the younger Mrs. Hough, when she went to get her baby, Joseph, 6 months old, who was at his grandmother's home. Her husband, John, a city fireman, left it there, she charged, when he left her.

Judge Hermes instructed the elder Mrs. Hough to return the baby and continued a charge of assault and battery against her until April 8. If all remains harmonious, he will dismiss the charge, he indicated.

TOWNSEND ASKS $5,000,000 LOAN FOR CAMPAIGN

Followers of Dr. Francis E. Townsend were asked yesterday by the Townsend National weekly to lend the doctor $5,000,000 to finance a campaign to have his $200 a month old age pension plan enacted into law. Dr. Townsend promised each lender a promissory note bearing 4 per cent interest and payable in two years. As collateral, the announcement said, Dr. Townsend offers total assets of $500 and his unsecured note.

PUNISH 5 U. OF C. STUDENTS FOR RED AGITATION

On Probation for Attempt to Disrupt Broadcast.

Five University of Chicago students accused of distributing radical literature intended to disrupt an entertainment at the university, were placed on probation yesterday by Leon P. Smith, assistant dean of students.

In letters sent the students and their parents, Dean Smith warned that any future violations of university rules concerning organization activities would mean summary dismissal.

Those on Probation.

Those placed on probation are Miss Ann M. Borders, 18 years old, of McLean, Va., a freshman; Leonard Karlin, 22, of Peru, Ill., a senior; Miss Joan Shalit, 18, of New York, a freshman; Miss Beatrice Schonberg, 20, also of New York, a sophomore, and Daniel House, 22, a transfer student from New York, a sophomore.

The offense charged against the five students occurred on Jan. 29 when the Pontiac Motors corporation, a division of General Motors, broadcast a program from Mandel hall on the university campus. General Motors was tied up by sitdown strikes at that time. The students handed out pamphlets to those going to the broadcast, urging them to make a vocal demonstration against the corporation.

The Organizations Involved.

The pamphlets bore the names of the Young People's Socialist league, and the Young Communists' league. Neither one has ever been authorized as a campus organization. Neither is associated with the American Students' league, an authorized organization.

Dean Smith conducted a long investigation into the matter. The inquiry included more than the five students placed on probation. These five were certainly guilty, the dean said last night. There were others about whom a reasonable doubt existed, he added, and they are known. He intimated the inquiry was not yet concluded.

The five definitly involved, said Dean Smith, admitted their part but believed they were helping John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. Smith's investigation showed, he said, that they were more or less dupes of the two radical groups whose names appeared on the pamphlets and which were not, he added, connected with the C. I. O.

ZINTAK JURORS TELL OF DANCE AND 8 SALOONS

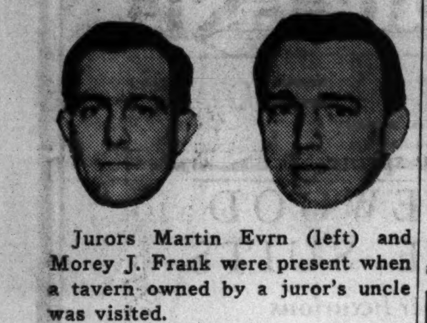
for a morning walk. Some of the jurors insisted on going into a tavern on 26th street, two blocks from the Criminal courts building, where they had two beers.



Jurors Martin Evrn (left) and Morey J. Frank were present when a tavern owned by a juror's uncle was visited.

Beyond Control, Says Bailif.

"On the way back," said Miller, "they saw another place near Kedzie avenue and 24th street and walked right in. I couldn't stop them. They had three or fcur beers there."

That night, when the jury again went out for a walk, Miller said they passed a tavern near Kedzie avenue and 26th street and heard music. They dropped in and joined a party.

"Several of them picked up girls and began to dance, but I was watching them and they didn't talk about the Zintak case," continued Miller.

"I think Cameron [Juror George Cameron, 6933 Eggleston avenue] tried to date up one of the girls."

Q.—[By Crowley]—You knew this was wrong? A.—Yes, but they insisted on drinking and dancing.

Q.—Was anybody intoxicated? A.—No, but they were feeling jolly. We stayed there two hours.

Granted Freedom Over Night.

Miller was on the stand when the hearing adjourned until tomorrow. Crowley immediately asked that a writ of attachment for contempt of court be issued, saying Miller's own testimony had shown his conduct was in contempt of court. Judge Epstein issued the writ, but allowed Miller to go free until today, when he will have to furnish $2,000 bail.

Miller has been discharged by Sherif John Toman along with Deputies Harry Kirch and Edward Cohen, in charge of the jury room. It was testified Cohen brought cans of beer ordered by the juror to the jury room.

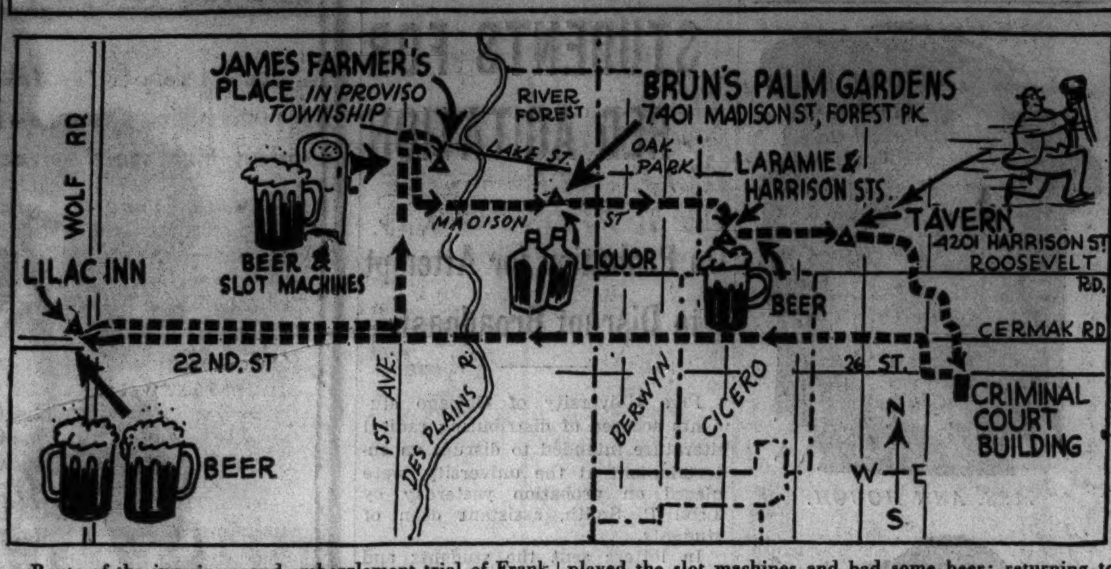
Sherif Toman last night ordered strict enforcement of rules which forbid the taking of liquor to the jury room or any conversation between a juror or an outsider. He also said three men, instead of two, will be assigned to guard juries in the future.

BEER TOUR OF THE SECOND ZINTAK JURY



Route of the jury in second embezzlement trial of Frank Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court, while on a five-stop thirst quenching trip on Sunday, Jan. 31. Starting at the Criminal courts building, the jurors moved west on 22d street to Wolf road, where they had two steins of beer at the Lilac inn; doubling back and sidetracking to the north, they visited James Farmer's place, where they played the slot machines and had some beer; returning to Madison street and proceeding eastward, they bought two bottles of liquor at Bruns' Palm Gardens; in a tavern at Laramie and Harrison streets they had more beer, and moving on toward their base in the irregular return, they stopped in a drug store and tavern where one of the jurors tried to run off with a stool.

THE BUS JOY RIDE

Earlier in the day Cameron gave details of the tavern tour. First, however, he admitted he was acquainted with Attorney Theodore J. Reinert, one of the character witnesses for Zintak at both trials. Cameron said he was a nephew of Attorney John Devine, law associate of Reinert.

The jury bus ride of Sunday, Jan. 31, in which five taverns were visited, then was brought up by Mr. Crowley.

Q.—Who suggested the places you went to? A.—Nobody that I know of.

Q.—Did you go to 22d street and Wolf road and visit a tavern there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have anything to drink? A.—I think we all had two beers.

Second Saloon on Itinerary.

Q.—Did you go to another tavern, in Maywood? A.—I guess it was in Maywood. [It is in Proviso township just outside Maywood.]

Q.—Is that owned by James Farmer? A.—It might be.

Q.—What did you do there? A.—Some of them played the slot machine. Some drank beer.

Q.—Was the Zintak case discussed? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Did you next visit a tavern in Forest Park operated by an uncle of one of the jurors? A.—Yes. [Bruns' Palm Gardens, 7401 Madison street.]

Q.—Did you meet William Bruns, the proprietor? A.—Some did, but not me.

Q.—Did anybody talk to the jurors? A.—I saw Bruns talking to his nephew. [Juror George Bruns, 306 Des Plaines avenue, Forest Park.]

Q.—Did anyone buy pints of liquor? A.—Yes.

Recounts Purchase of Pint.

After a recess Cameron told of the jury's having beer at two other taverns, one at Laramie avenue and Harrison street. This story of the tour was corroborated by another juror, John L. Moore, 3023 Irving Park boulevard, who said he had purchased half a pint of liquor to take back to the jury room.

At intervals, Moore added, some of the jurors would take up a collection and send a bailif out for liquid refreshments. Both Cameron and Moore made mysterious references to a radio, which was not cleared up until Nathan Hoffman, owner of a drug and liquor store at 4201 Harrison street, was called to the stand.

"The jury made a terrific commotion when they came into my place," said Hoffman. "Some of them were singing. I went out to see what the racket was about."

Comforting Words.

He said he was acquainted with Frank De Long, 619 South Keeler avenue, one of the jurors, who said: "Don't worry; this is the Zintak jury."

"One or two of the jurors were staggering," Hoffman related. "One of them tipped me off that they were going to try to steal a little white radio I had in the store. Somebody started to turn the lights off and on, but I kept an eye on the radio.

"Then, while I was doing a little window trimming, I saw one juror going out the door with a bar stool hidden under his coat, I called to my partner, who chased the man and got the stool back."

Leo Fahey, 2103 51st avenue, Cicero, was put on the stand and testified he was the only teetotaler on the jury.

Q. [by Crowley]—I understand you don't drink. A.—That's right.

Teetotaler's Memory Fails.

Q. — Then I guess you're best equipped to tell us what happened. A.—O, I was only interested in the ride.

Fahey admitted there had been some drinking and dancing by the jurors, but said he couldn't remember details. "You have done a good job of forgetting," said Crowley.

Judge Epstein took up the questioning, asking Fahey whether he saw or heard anything suspicious relative to the Zintak case during the tour. Fahey said he did not.

Q.—Didn't you think these tavern visits by a jury were unusual? A.—They might be, but the bailif didn't seem excited.

Fahey said he had gone to several parties with the jurors after the verdict. At one of these, in Bruns' tavern on March 9, he said he saw Bailifs Miller and Cohen.

Club Owner Tells Version.

William Kapustaka, proprietor of the Gingham club at 2900 West 25th place, around the corner from the Criminal Court building, told of a post-verdict party at the place attended by the jurors, Zintak, and fifty or seventy-five others.

Asked if Zintak paid for the drinks, Kapustaka replied, "No, everybody paid for their own."

Attorney Reinert gave the same testimony he had offered last Saturday when questioned about the jury list for the second Zintak trial, which he and an associate, Attorney Scott Hogan, had scanned in their office at 155 North Clark street.

REBELS EXECUTE 30 AS PLOTTERS AGAINST FRANCO

Unrest Spreads Among Flyers in Morocco.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, March 29.—Signs of discontent and plotting within the ranks of Gen. Francisco Franco's Spanish Fascist rebel organization were revealed today by news reaching Tangier, International Zone, Morocco, that thirty rebel officers and men had been executed as plotters at Tetuan, Spanish Morocco.

The Spanish civil war began at Tetuan last July, and the city long was the headquarters of Gen. Franco. The men executed were attached to the Tetuan aviation base.

A Reuters [British] report from Malaga says twenty Italian carabineers and a number of noncommissioned officers and recruits of the Pavia regiment, now at Algeciras, were shot during the week-end on suspicion of attempted conspiracy against the insurgents there. According to one authority, the reported conspiracy was discovered by the German espionage service.

Loyalists Spring Surprise.

MADRID, March 29.—(AP)—Madrid government troops today repulsed a Fascist rebel sally toward the capital. The rebel attack centered around Aravaca, suburb northwest of the capital, but defense militia gained the advantage in a sharp counter offensive.

Thirty-eight miles northwest, Madrid artillery was directed at strategic Navalperal de Pinares, rebel communication center. The artillery had moved up during the night in a surprise maneuver to cover a general advance on the El Escorial front.

Rebel batteries outside the capital meanwhile dropped eight shells in central Madrid during a morning bombardment, causing a number of casualties and breaking a gas main in the Gran Via.

Rebels Bomb Own Town.

On the Guadalajara front, 50 miles to the northeast, warplanes and artillery broke up rebel contingents which sought to attack government outposts. Loyalists were reported to have stormed and captured the town of Miralrio and a strategic hill on the banks of the Henares river. The hill dominates the road to Cogolludo.

Government fighters still pressed their offensive 150 miles southwest of Madrid against Alcaracejos, seeking to force rebel evacuation of that town and of nearby Villanueva del Duque. Rebels were fighting almost at the gates of Alcaracejos and mustered all available forces to keep it from falling into government hands.

Accounts reaching here said that fifteen bombs dropped by rebel planes in a raid on their own Villa del Rio last night fell inside the town. The pilots apparently mistook it for Andujar.

BRITAIN 'ACCOMPLICE' OF VALENCIA, SPANISH REBEL NOTE CHARGES

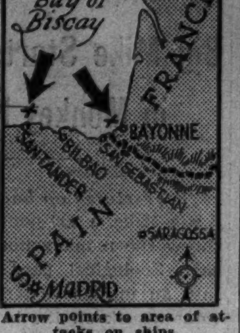
SALAMANCA, Spain, March 29.—(AP) — Newspapers in Fascist rebel Spain today published what they described as an "official note" accusing Great Britain of becoming "an accomplice" of the Valencia government by her "silence and lack of reaction" over alleged use of the British flag as a disguise by Spanish government steamers.

The note cited the case of the Mar Cantabrico, munitions ship which was captured with nearly $3,000,000 in airplanes and war materials by rebel warcraft in the Bay of Biscay. The Mar Cantabrico allegedly took the name of a British ship and flew the Union Jack to evade suspicion.

The flag ruse is "a fact of frequent occurrence," the note said. "Red [government] ships at Santander and Bilbao continue their illicit trafic in flying the British colors. The hour seems to have arrived for England, so proud of her sovereignty, to put an end to this trickery and not continue to make herself an accomplice by her silence and lack of reactions of so many illicit and criminal proceedings."

Rebel Gunboats Drive Spanish Ship Aground on French Shore

BAYONNE, France, March 29.—(AP)—Spanish Fascist rebel gunboats carried the Spanish civil war outside Spain in two incidents reported tonight—grounding of a Spanish government freighter in French waters and attack against a British steamer off Santander.



Arrow points to area of attacks on ships.

The British Magdalena was fired upon by rebels Saturday, her commander said upon arrival here tonight.

[Although within Spanish waters, the incident was regarded as another of those tending to handicap the European neutrality committee's efforts to localize the civil conflict.]

Naval authorities ordered vigorous investigation of the grounding of the Spanish Mar Caspio within French territorial authority. The Mar Caspio was abandoned off Bayonne tonight.

Inspect Ship's Papers.

Six shells were fired at his ship, the Magdalena commander said, before he was permitted to proceed with his cargo of minerals from Tunis after establishing identity of his vessel.

Capt. Laureno Ugarte of the Mar Caspio said a French warship responded to his S. O. S., but he was so close to shore his ship ran aground and the two rebel gunboats disappeared before help could arrive. He said the Mar Caspio, while carrying the Spanish government flag, was in regular commercial service between England and France. She left Newcastle Wednesday with a cargo of coal.

Three shots were fired at the Mar Caspio when she was barely a hundred yards off the port's entrance, causing considerable alarm among the populace of Bayonne.

Resort to Big Guns.

Two trawlers appeared when the Mar Caspio was a mile off Cape Breton and gave chase, the captain said.

"The trawlers, realizing our ship was faster and was about to escape, opened fire with machine guns," the captain asserted. Later, he continued, the bigger guns went into action, firing more than twenty shells. The pilot boat Marie Rose came upon the listing Mar Caspio at dawn.

The thirty-four members of the ship's crew escaped the gunboats' fire, but two of them were burned by steam from pipe's riddled by the shots. The crew put off in small boats and reached shore safely.

IT'S SWELL TO FEEL SWELL!
FRESH Cigarettes are Better for You!

Food tastes better . . . Since changing to Double-Mellow Old Golds, always so fresh and smooth, food tastes better, and so do life and living. Edith Gibson (dancer), Brooklyn, N. Y.

Smooth as a head-barber's shave . . . Stale cigarettes don't do a barber's shaving hand any good. That's why I like those fresh Old Golds (they are easy on the nerves), smooth as my best shave. Nicholas Leva (barber), Philadelphia, Pa.

Throat relieved . . . In the morning, particularly, my throat used to bother me from too much smoking. Those velvety smooth and fresh Old Golds have taken that throat scratch away. Hurrah for that double-wrapped package! Grace Ashley (designer), St. Louis, Mo.

YOU CAN'T BUY A STALE OLD GOLD

IN LITTLE country towns, in the biggest cities, at cigarette counters from coast to coast, wherever and whenever you buy Double-Mellow Old Golds . . . you'll find them absolutely fresh.

Their freshness is due to a weather-tight, climate-proof package . . . an exclusive package with an EXTRA wrapping of Cellophane! Two jackets of moisture-proof Cellophane instead of one. That extra jacket completely safeguards Old Golds against dust, dampness, dryness and every other foe of cigarette goodness.

Fresh as the instant they were rolled, Old Gold's prize crop tobaccos taste better and are better for you. They retain all the appealing flavor and enticing fragrance which have won for them the name "Double-Mellow."

And, because they are fresh, Old Golds are cool and slow burning. They never develop (as stale cigarettes do) those harsh acrid qualities which irritate the mouth, the throat, and the smoker. They never leave you "fagged" out at the end of the day.

You'll never go stale on fresh Old Golds!

CITIZENS PRAISE OFFICIALS FOR SIT STRIKE BAN

John D. Black.

Chicago's experience in the peaceful ending of three sitdown strikes by orderly and coöperative action of the law enforcement agencies was reduced to an epigram yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney at a law and order luncheon of the Association of Commerce in the Stevens hotel.

"There would be no sitdown strikes if all public officials would stand up," he said.

Courageous Action Commended.

"Their direct and courageous action has saved the community from disgrace, trouble, expense and incalculable loss of business and respect," read the resolutions, which were offered by John D. Black, former president of the Chicago and Illinois Bar associations.

In introducing Mr. Courtney, C. L. Rice, president of the association, said one reason for the gathering was to crystalize the attitude business men should take in these times toward their problems.

"The greatest asset a law enforcing agency can have," said Courtney, "is support of the public of Chicago. We can get nowhere unless the public gives active and alert support. By the way, I'd suggest one thing business men might improve, and that is by showing greater willingness to serve on criminal trial juries.

Minimizes Menace Here.

"I don't believe there is any menace in the industrial situation in Chicago—nothing to be greatly aroused about. We've had a number of controversies in years past and all were handled satisfactorily.

"In my experience there are a number of fine, upstanding, upright, energetic men leading the labor movement in Chicago. I think the law enforcement agencies owe them thanks.

"The public must at all times be protected. We have taken an oath of office to carry that out. But the thing at all times is to do what conscience tells you is right. Men with ambition, perhaps, at times let their ambition overshadow other things. In a situation such as this, with the public to be protected and the statutes saying what is our duty, the thing is not to sit idly by and see what the people demand, but to step out and do it. No matter about popularity, a man's conscience will tell him he has done the right thing.

"While I'm state's attorney my office will strive to protect the right of labor and business at all times to occupy homes and places of labor and business in peace and happiness."

Allman Pledges Enforcement.

Commissioner Allman spoke briefly. "It's the sworn duty of every police officer," he said, "to preserve peace and secure good order. As head of the police department, I can and do assure the people that the police department is prepared at all times to do its duty, no matter what occasion arises."

After speakers had commended leaders of organized labor, Chief Justice Sonsteby presented a plan for a conciliation commission representing employers, employés, and the public. Sherif Toman also spoke, pledging his coöperation in law enforcement.

LEWIS ASSAILS GREEN OVER SIT STRIKE ATTACK

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization and president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared today that the statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, condemning sitdown strikes, was "characteristically cowardly and contemptible."

Lewis, whose organization is staging a bitter battle for control of American labor with the A. F. of L., has sponsored sitdown strikes in the automobile industry. He arrived here from Detroit today to resume conferences with bituminous coal operators on a new contract.

"The Green statement is characteristically cowardly and contemptible," he asserted. "He again sells his own breed down the river and receives the thanks of the National Association of Manufacturers. He bends the pregnant hinges of the knee, that thrift may follow fawning."

ASSAIL SIT STRIKES

"There would be no sitdown strikes if all public officials would stand up," State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney told members of Association of Commerce yesterday.

"I . . . assure the people that the police department is prepared at all times to do its duty, no matter what occasion arises," Police Commissioner James Allman said at the law and order luncheon meeting.

UNION CONTROL SNAGS CHRYSLER STRIKE PARLEY

Company Will Protect Its Nonunion Workers.

Lansing, Mich., March 29:—[Special.]—New proposals which Gov. Frank Murphy said might settle the whole labor situation in Michigan and most of the motor industry's difficulties were being considered today by representatives of the Chrysler corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America.

The conferees are seeking an agreement that would reopen the strike closed Chrysler plants and send about 80,000 workers back to their jobs there and in dependent businesses.

Union Recognition Is Snag.

Although numerous forms of agreement understood to have been suggested have failed of acceptance, Gov. Murphy said the opposing sides are separated by only a small margin. The main difference concerns the degree of recognition to be accorded the union as bargaining agency for Chrysler employés.

At the outset of the conferences that have lasted for six days, the union demanded sole bargaining recognition, but it now seeks some form of control over whatever relations the corporation might have with its nonunion workers.

Leaders Fear Discredit.

It was said the union has sought without success to have the corporation agree to notify it of any agreement negotiations with nonunion employés. Union officials fear the corporation might discredit them by making more favorable contracts with nonunion workers.

While Gov. Murphy, in whose offices the conferences have been held, said it was possible the strike can be settled without John L. Lewis, but it was not expected that a final settlement, if reached, would be announced until Lewis' expected return from New York Thursday. He is in New York to participate in negotiation of a new coal mine contract.

C. I. O. TO INVOKE LAW TO COMBAT A. F. OF L. GROUP

Newark, N. J., March 29.—(AP)—Samuel L. Rothbard, C. I. O. lawyer, said tonight the Committee for Industrial Organization planned to seek an injunction restraining American Federation of Labor organizers from what he called "strike breaking" in the radio and electric industry.

"We are not going to permit the A. F. of L. to continue strike breaking activities," he declared. "I have been authorized to take whatever legal steps I deem necessary to restrain the A. F. of L. Probably within the next few days suit will be filed either in chancery or federal court."

Rothbard's charge grew out of a struggle between the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an A. F. of L. affiliate, and the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, a C. I. O. group, for membership among employés in the industry.

The plant of the Condenser Corporation of America in South Plainfield and the Best Manufacturing company in Irvington were the centers of the contest.

The C. I. O. charged the Best firm locked out 150 employés to avert a C. I. O. strike and then fostered formation of an A. F. of L. union to combat the C. I. O. local.

YOUTH'S DEATH AFTER EASTER VISITS STUDIED

Berwyn police and the coroner's office last night were investigating the death of Frank Kolar Jr., 18 years old, 2711 Highland avenue, Berwyn. He died at home early yesterday after returning from Easter night visits with friends.

He appeared in good health on his return, but within a few minutes became unconscious. Two hours later he died.

An investigation by a coroner's physician indicated that Kolar died of poisoning. Police questioned his friends, who reported that he had seemed in the best of spirits. Kolar was graduated recently from the Morton High school.

THERAPISTS SEE FEVER BOX AS SYPHILIS CURE

New York, March 29.—(AP)—A new medical instrument, a box in which a human body is converted into an electromagnet 15 million times a second, was exhibited to the first international conference on fever therapy here today.

The magnetic box creates an artificial fever for use in treating syphilis and other diseases. The magnetic fever is made by a small electric current, not more than that required to heat a flatiron.

Its results on a full grown man are fevers running from 105 to 110 degrees Fahrenheit. The new box was exhibited to the medical profession for the first time at this meeting.

It was designed by Dr. Clarence Neymann, associate professor of psychiatry, Northwestern university medical school, Chicago, and built by the General Electric company.

In the box, shaped like a miniature auto trailer, the patient lies with his head protruding outside through an inch thick curtain. He lies on a two inch deep mattress. Beneath it is a single loop of wire roughly the outline of a human back from neck to waist.

A current alternating 15 million times a second flows through this wire, making it an electromagnet. The patient's body lies in the magnet's "field."

SOCIALIST PARTY DELEGATES VOTE TO SUPPORT C. I. O.

The Socialist party, in convention yesterday at the La Salle hotel, cast its lot with the Committee for Industrial Organization as opposed to the American Federation of Labor. In a resolution unanimously adopted Socialists were urged to support the new labor movement headed by John L. Lewis.

The resolution, however, advised against hasty abandonment by the workers of their affiliation with the A. F. of L. so as not to endanger the well being of the labor organization headed by William Green. The A. F. of L. will continue to hold a substantial section of organized workers, the Socialist delegates declared.

The party went on record in favor of joining with Farmer-Labor parties.

THINGS OF INTEREST

By CALEB

THERE are many interesting products of human skill and genius. That a machine can peer into our bodies and on a piece of glass record what it sees there—is wonderful. That men can make lightning and rubber and radios—is something to wonder about.

A transport plane cutting the sky at two hundred miles an hour or more is beautiful to behold. Men in planes can do things the birds themselves can't do.

A great ship plowing through heavy seas intent on a distant goal is something to captivate the imagination. In the perspective of the vast ocean it is a fragile egg-shell, but man has made it outdo the denizens of the sea.

The intricate organization of steel and stone known as a skyscraper is a wonderful thing. Descending with its foundations and its intricate engineering equipment far into the earth—and soaring with daring height into the sky, there is something about a skyscraper that dignifies man—who made it.

The human mind has evolved from a peculiar gray clump of substance that had little more original intelligence than a head of cauliflower. It awes us that men can make and operate such interesting and complex things.

It is because we have so sprightly an interest in the things other men make and do that we can understand the reason, a little, for the interest people show in trips and "tours" through our store.

Our thousands of sales people come and go, and carry on their tasks, while thousands more smoothly do their work behind the scenes. It is interesting to see the vastly varied functions of all these sections and workshops and departments and groups fusing into an intelligible whole aimed at one thing—service for you.

CAROL G. WRITES TO HER FIREMAN DREAM PRINCE

Divorce Trial Unmasks Winnetka Beauty.

twice—but nothing to cause me to be beside myself.

"Ever since you have known me, Precious, you have gone out of your way to lift my burdens and make everything quite blissful and ideal.

"Only this morning while I was counting the moments until I could call you I was thinking what a perfect romance we had had—quite idealistic and almost ethereal.

"You I had called my dream prince because I had to keep pinching myself to see that you were really mine. Now surely my dream isn't going to fade into the horizon—the dream that I have loved and worked for!

Dave Her Greatest Joy.

"I will do anything you want me to, my beloved Dave, but please don't deprive me of the greatest joy in my life—You.

"Was this what you tried to tell me in bed last night?

"How bleak and dreary the future will look without you, Dearest. I don't believe I can take it. I had never in my wildest moments dreamt of anything like this.

"I know you are not jealous, but I wonder what has made any such idea as this come into your head. I have never had anything make me feel so utterly ill in my life. I shan't be able to do a thing the rest of today.

Too Good to Be True.

"My precious Darling, won't you please change your mind, and be with me over the week-end? I have absolutely been walking on air because of my happiness in the thought of seeing you three successive days. Perhaps the well known statement, 'It was too good to be true,' is right in this case.

"I am not going to give up hope—because I trust, my beloved Dave, that you will have a change of mind. Excuse the scrawl, but my eyes are so swollen from crying that I can't see very well. However, I am not going to cry any more because I know you don't like it, Sweet.

"Somehow I think I may have the extreme pleasure of your charming company and so I had better get busy and make something I know you like.

Kisses for Dave via Sunbeam.

"I'll send you a thousand kisses on each ray of the sun and ten thousand on each moonbeam, my beloved.

"My sweet, I hope you have a lovely time at your sister's tomorrow. Needless to say, my thoughts will be with you each moment all day and my heart will be full of love for the finest and truest man I know.

"God bless you, my beloved sweetheart. On this Thanksgiving eve I am thankful that I have you and I'll die for you, sweet, because you are all I care about in this whole world. I'll be true to you forever. Do you think these are only idle words?

"Please, I ask you again, reconsider about our week-end. I want to be with you. I am about having a chill now, I am so cold from being nervously upset.

"I hope you will change your mind, my dearest Dave. I love you so truly and tenderly. May nothing ever change this.

"Your own adoring Carol.

"P. S.—I don't worry for myself. I only want the children to be happy and contented. Do you think they will be?"

LETTER GOES INTO RECORD

The letter was put into the court record and Carol G. was identified as Mrs. Gardner after Mrs. Wood had told how she came into possession of the letter. Mrs. Wood's story was told on the witness stand before Judge Burke.

Until the letter was read in court, "Carol G" and "Mrs. G." were the only designations given by Mrs. Wood to the Mary Roe she named as co-respondent. Mrs. Wood's cross bill for separate maintenance charged Wood had committed adultery with the mysterious woman on Nov. 23, 1936.

She accused him also of "for a long time prior thereto, for more than two years previous, carrying on a clandestine affair with her and squandering his money on her."

Morris K. Levinson, attorney for Mrs. Wood, won permission of the court to reveal the co-respondent's name, such permission being necessary under a new law.

Calling Mrs. Wood to the witness stand, Mr. Levinson asked her:

"Under what circumstances did you find the letter from Mrs. Gardner to your husband on Nov. 24, 1936, as you testified previously?"

Mrs. Wood had announced to reporters before court opened: "Everything will come out in the wash—not that there hasn't been too much said about washings anyway." Now she pursed her small mouth, narrowed her eyes, and testified:

"Dave Wood was in my house on a visit. We were separated then."

"Well, tell what he said, and what you said," Attorney Levinson asked impatiently.

Mrs. Wood, a little black haired woman, hung back modestly. At last she was persuaded to reveal what happened, however. Her husband had made love to her in her boudoir.

"I didn't think it was the right thing to do, but he reminded me I was still his wife," she said, adding that she then had yielded.

Goes Through His Pockets.

Later, when he had gone into an adjoining room, she went through his pockets, she said. She found the letter.

Q.—And was it signed 'Carol?' A.—Yes.

Q.—And what is the full name of the person he admitted wrote it? A.—Her name is Caroline de Windt Gardner.

The full name was pronounced with apparent relish by the grim faced little Mrs. Wood, who previously had testified that she used to take in washing for some of the best families in Winnetka, some of them sizable accounts.

Long before she discovered the letter, Mrs. Wood testified, she knew Mrs. Gardner often telephoned the captain. According to Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Gardner would say, "Have Dave call me right away." The questioning continued:

Q.—And did he tell you what he was doing over at the Gardner home all this time? A.—Only after I found the letter did he tell me.

Q.—What did he say? A.—That she had been his mistress for three years.

Sharp Cross-Examination.

Later, under cross-examination, Mrs. Wood was questioned sharply by Attorney J. H. Heinzen, counsel for Capt. Wood. At one point he shouted at her:

"Do you know what a mistress is?"

"Yes, I do," snapped Mrs. Wood.

"What is it then?" he asked.

"You should ask me!" she said bitterly.

Attorney Heinzen had other pointed questions to ask Mrs. Wood, but she was a match for him, retorting so quickly her attorney had no time to object.

Q.—In your bill you claimed that you were afraid your husband would leave the state. He hasn't gone south, has he? A.—No, he threatened to, but that was when she was in town. He said the town wasn't big enough to hold the two of us.

Capt. Wood, called as a rebuttal witness after counsel for his wife had closed the defense case, denied that he ever had made admissions of intimacy with Mrs. Gardner to his wife.

Weeps as Son Testifies.

After she left the witness stand Mrs. Wood sat at the counsel table weeping and twisting her hands as her son, Richard, testified in her behalf.

"You don't like your father, do you?" he was asked.

"Sure I do," he replied. "But I don't speak to him because of the things he has done."

Richard's sister, Marjorie, remained in a court anteroom. She is to be a witness later.

Mr. Gardner denied last night that either he or Mrs. Gardner contemplates divorce action. Asked if they are living apart, he replied:

"Not necessarily. We are living in separate residences, but only for business expediency. Barrington is too far from my work. We are on the friendliest terms."

Asked if he thought Mrs. Gardner loves Wood and intends marrying him, Mr. Gardner replied:

"I will let the letter speak for itself. I will say this, however: Most people do some fool thing once in their lives."

"The Season" is Under Way

Right now, at THE HOMESTEAD, it's spring.

And with the coming of spring begins a new life, a galvanized, reawakened life of the place.

Riders canter along the trails, golfers spot the links of both courses, the terraces provide sunny havens for people in steamer chairs who want to "just sit" and be permeated with the feel of spring in the Virginia mountains.

There's much to be said for any of those occupations.

And, surrounded by and luxuriating in the so-comfortable life of THE HOMESTEAD, the people who have already come to us, up here, are being made over and renewed. Are you planning to join them? Do let us know.

Bad Breath
That Comes from Constipation

Don't try to cover up bad breath with pleasant-smelling preparations, for it often comes from a deeper-lying cause—constipation. In such cases conquer the constipation and your breath will become fresh and sweet and your health and spirits will improve also.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol and insist on the genuine.

Northern Route Dodges Entry Laws, Say Clubs.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chicago Motor club and the Automobile Club of Southern California yesterday advised pleasure trafic between the central west and the Pacific coast to avoid the highways of New Mexico and Arizona because of the strict port of entry laws in these two states.

In their efforts under these laws to collect mileage and license fees on outstate trucks and passenger cars which have a commercial purpose in using their highways, these states have been accused of harassing pleasure trafic and imposing unjust fees on tourists.

Tourist Business Endangered.

The more northerly route, U. S. 30 from Chicago to Salt Lake City and thence on U. S. 91 to Los Angeles, is now free of snow and the detour around the rigorous policing of the more southerly states has already begun. After the advice from the two automobile clubs, it was estimated that New Mexico and Arizona will lose almost a third of their 130 million dollars a year tourist business.

This estimate of the prospective loss was made by Don Doig, touring bureau manager of the California club. He just completed a two weeks' investigation in New Mexico and Arizona. His findings were similar to those of the Tribune's transcontinental trafic survey last month. He reported that motorists are resentful of the inquiries and inspections to which they are subjected in these two southwestern states.

Halted Eight Times.

"From Raton, N. M., to California," Mr. Doig wrote, "I was halted and questioned eight times, each time as if I were crossing an international boundary. Tourists suspected of transporting a car for a dealer or of a commercial errand or of receiving part of their expenses from a passenger are subjected to taxes.

"A young couple on a honeymoon trip to California in an automobile borrowed from the bridegroom's grandfather had to pay $4.50 to New Mexico and $7.50 to Arizona."

"The situation is significant," said Bert Vanderwarf, manager of the Chicago Motor club's touring bureau, "because the port of entry system, collecting more revenue for politicians, is growing. The state of Washington has passed such a law this year and Oklahoma and Kansas are planning to tighten their borders where stations now halt trucks only."

HIS BIRTHDAY

Louise Collins bestowing a flower on Oscar Mayer, her grandfather, when his 78th birthday was celebrated at his plant with a party yesterday.

Oscar F. Mayer, packer, was given a birthday party yesterday in his packing plant at 1241 Sedgwick street by more than 400 of his employés. He was 78 years old. Mr. Mayer was cheered when his granddaughter, Louise Collins, 9 years old, pinned a flower on his coat. Mr. Mayer was born in Bavaria, Germany. He came to the United States in 1871. Seven years later he founded his packing business in Chicago.

Loop Throng Runs to Fire; Restaurant Smoked Out

Fire drove twenty patrons and fifteen employés from the Vesuvio restaurant at 51 East Wacker drive last night. A 2-11 alarm was sounded and fire apparatus racing through loop streets attracted several hundred spectators to the scene. The damage was put at $3,500. The fire started in the basement storeroom of the Morrison Electrical company and sent billows of smoke into the restaurant on the street level.

BANKER'S SON, 5, SERIOUSLY HURT BY HIT-RUN AUTO

Car Hits Playing Boy, Then Speeds On.

Edmund Butler, 5 years old, 25 North Marmora [Mayfield] avenue, son of Thomas J. Butler, a vice president of the First National bank, lay critically injured last night in the West Suburban hospital, Oak Park, the victim of a hit-and-run automobile driver.

With his brother, Thomas J. Jr., 10 years old, his sister, Mary Lou, 7, and several friends, Edmund was playing on the parkway opposite his home. He ran into the street between two parked automobiles and was struck by a passing car, which the other children described as a dark green sedan. The driver speeded on.

Mrs. Butler heard the children scream. She rushed out, picked up her unconscious son, and hurried him to the hospital.

Boy Killed by Car.

Ernest Davis, 3 years old, colored, 5203 Calumet avenue, was fatally injured last evening when he ran from behind a car parked in front of his home and was hit by an automobile driven by Roy Wright, 29 years old, colored, 5232 Prairie avenue. The boy died in the Provident hospital. Wright was held for the inquest today.

Victim of a hit-and-run driver, James Cullen, 70 years old, 4511 North Artesian avenue, died last night in the Ravenswood hospital. He was found suffering from skull and leg fractures at Western and Sunnyside avenues the night of Jan. 28.

Walks Into Car; Dies.

Edwin Thompson, colored, 40 years old, 1940 Jackson avenue, Evanston, died in Evanston Community hospital yesterday of injuries incurred on Sunday when he walked into the side of a moving automobile in Green Bay road near Asbury avenue in the suburb. Charles Ryan Jr., 20 years old, 7332 North Oakley avenue, driver of the car, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury.

A coroner's jury also decided yesterday that the death of Miss Jeannette Held, 20 years old, 1125 Wesley avenue, Evanston, was accidental. She was fatally injured early Sunday when the car in which she and five friends were riding overturned at Lincoln and Laramie avenues in Niles Center.

Policeman Richard Grace, 57 years old, 7543 South Sangamon street, was seriously injured last night in an unusual accident at Prairie avenue and 61st street. He started to cross the street behind a parked car just as the driver backed out. Grace was knocked down and his skull was fractured. The driver left, probably not aware of the accident. The policeman lay on the street 20 minutes before being found. He is attached to the Woodlawn station.

From Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday 250 persons were killed by motor vehicles in Cook county, the coroner's office reported. Of this total the toll for Chicago alone in the same period was 201 deaths and 4,691 injuries.

FEBRUARY TRAFIC DEATHS 24 PER CT. HIGHER OVER U. S.

Last month's trafic death toll for the nation was 24 per cent above that for February, 1936, largely because of unseasonally heavy trafic during the mild winter, the National Safety council reported yesterday.

There were 2,350 motor vehicle fatalities in the United States last month, the report shows. This is a decrease from January's 3,150 deaths, but a sharp increase over the previous February total of 1,900 deaths.

Tweedsmuirs Leave Canada for Visit with Roosevelts

SENTENCE SIX WILD DRIVERS TO JAIL TERMS

Five motorists charged with driving while intoxicated and one accused of reckless driving were sentenced to jail by Judge George B. Weiss in Safety court yesterday.

Tony Cafele, 740 South Bell avenue, a taxicab driver whose cab struck two automobiles on the west side last week, was sentenced to thirty days. Cafele admitted, police said, that he had been drinking for four days.

Edward Albiniak, 24 years old, 4915 Parker avenue, whose car struck another at Rockwell and Division streets on Saturday, got a twenty day sentence.

Ten day sentences were imposed on Henry Washington, colored, 27 years old, 208 East 45th street, arrested after a crash at Halsted street and Archer avenue on Sunday; Anthony Starcevich, 23, of 10400 Avenue N, seized at 105th street and Ewing avenue on Saturday, and Victor Enander, 41, of 7811 South Park avenue, after a crash in front of 60 East 76th street.

Stanley Michalski, 27 years old, 8326 Brandon avenue, who was arrested at 91st street and South Chicago avenue on Sunday, got five days for reckless driving.

Sixty automobile speeders, most of them college students home for the Easter holidays, visited the morgue and County hospital yesterday by order of Judge John Gutknecht of Trafic court.

Sleeper Held to Grand Jury for Shooting Noise Maker

Accused of firing a shotgun through a door and severely wounding another roomer at 2533 Monroe street, Harvey Thomas, 59 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000 yesterday in Felony court. Thomas told the judge that the other roomer, Carl Anderson, made so much noise he couldn't sleep.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Insurance Plans

March 29, 1937.

MEN at THE TRIBUNE's experimental farms who have been studying some of the puzzling problems in connection with the proposed government wheat insurance plan now pending in the United States senate have found partial answers to many of their questions in a study of the report of the President's committee on crop insurance.

This committee, headed by the secretary of agriculture, made a careful study of past attempts at crop insurance by private companies and proposed a plan that is expected to be closely followed in putting the federal program into operation in case the Pope senate bill to create a Federal Crop Insurance Corporation becomes a law.

Details of Operation.

The committee's report discusses, among other details, the methods of determining the amount of insurance that could be carried by a given farm, the rates of premiums, and indemnities, and the means and manner of payments of each, the actual operation of the program within a given territory, the application of the plan to an individual farm, and the eligibility of farms and farmers to take part.

Under the proposed plan the amount of insurance on any farm would be determined by the average yearly yield of wheat on that farm over a period of years. The committee claims that Agricultural Adjustment administration records show the production of wheat on many farms for each year since 1930. These figures would be used to determine the amounts of insurance for those farms.

The rates of premiums and indemnities would be established for the individual farms by using the same figures, and the insurance policies would be written to cover 75 per cent of the expected yield, based on the past production records.

Payable in Kind or Cash.

Both premiums and indemnities would be paid either in wheat or cash, the discretion being left to the farmer. Money from cash premiums would be used by the government to buy wheat for storage. When farmers asked for cash indemnities, enough wheat would be sold to make the payments. This plan, the committee thinks, would tend toward an "ever normal granary" without allowing burdensome surpluses to pile up in government warehouses.

The eligibility of a farmer to take part in the plan would depend chiefly on two things—whether enough of his neighbors wanted the insurance to justify establishing a local administrative office in his county, and his past participation in other government farm programs.

The committee recommends that participation in adjustment and soil conservation programs or the following of equivalent farm practices should be required for eligibility to participate in crop insurance.

SENATOR GLASS BLASTS ROOSEVELT'S SCHEME TO PACK SUPREME COURT

PREDICTS DOOM OF DEMOCRACY IF PLAN PASSES

Views Crisis as Gravest in Nation's History.

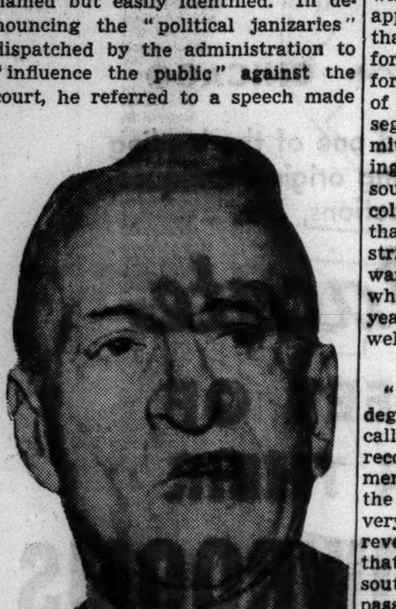
The senator called the President's scheme to control the court "utterly destitute of moral sensibility and without parallel" in our history. It is an "unabashed proposition to pack the Supreme court for a specified purpose," he said, to revive the AAA," which lost American farmers their export markets and necessitated importation of foreign foodstuffs to feed our own people," and to revive the NRA, which suspended the laws against monopoly and created a reign of terror.

Assails Secretary Ickes.

Mr. Glass uncorked the vials of his wrath upon a number of persons not named but easily identified. In denouncing the "political janizaries" dispatched by the administration to "influence the public" against the court, he referred to a speech made in North Carolina by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, "one of these visionary incendiaries." The senator crticized Secretary Ickes for reproaching the south for segregating the races in schools and for proposing another force bill.



Senator Glass of Virginia, opposing the Supreme court packing proposal in a radio address: "I am speaking tonight from the depths of a soul filled with bitterness against a proposition which appears to me utterly destitute of moral sensibility."

Senator Glass declared himself impressed by the popular indignation "at the proposal to make an executive puppet of our supreme judicial tribunal." He exploded over the attempt to cite Thomas Jefferson's attitude toward the court as a valid precedent for Mr. Roosevelt's. Although Jefferson hated Chief Justice Marshall, he never "would have done such an abominable thing,' Mr. Glass declared.

Those "responsible for this attempt to deprave the Supreme court and to make a political plaything of the constitution" will suffer the fate, Senator Glass predicted, that was pictured by Woodrow Wilson when he said that such outrages are made impossible by a public opinion "standing ready to curse them."

The senator quoted Grover Cleveland, whose centenary this month the Democratic party is conspicuously not observing. He quoted Mr. Roosevelt's defense in 1930 of the state rights he would now override.

Had it not been for decisions adverse to the President's measures there would not have been, said the senator, "this unprecedented attempt to flank the constitution by putting on the bench six judicial wet-nurses to suckle the substance out of the opinions of jurists whose spirit of independence keeps pace with their profound knowledge of the law."

TEXT OF GLASS' SPEECH

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Following is the text of the radio address made tonight by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia in opposition to the Supreme court packing proposal:

"The speaker this evening is Carter Glass, senior senator of Virginia in the congress of the United States. Never in my career until now have I ventured to debate before the public a measure pending in the senate and awaiting decision there; but the proponents of the problem to which I shall address myself tonight have seemed fearful of a deliberate consideration of the proposal to pack the Supreme court of the United States; they have defiantly avowed their purpose to take the discussion into every forum, with the unconcealed intention of bringing pressure to bear on members of congress to submit obediently to the frightful suggestion which has come to them from the White House. The challenge has been accepted by those who oppose the repugnant scheme to disrupt representative government in the nation; and the battle is on to the end.

Finds Scheme Without Parallel.

"Confessedly I am speaking tonight from the depths of a soul filled with bitterness against a proposition which appears to me utterly destitute of moral sensibility and without parallel since the foundation of the republic. However, I am not speaking my own mind alone; the character and intelligence of the nation are aroused and I am reflecting as best I can the indignant protests of thousands upon thousands of individual citizens whose telegrams and letters to me as a single senator are on the desk before me as an inspiration against any faltering in this time of extreme peril to that charter of our liberties which Gladstone pronounced 'the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man.'

"There has been some talk about 'organized propaganda' against this unabashed proposition to pack the Supreme court for a specified purpose! Propaganda was first organized in behalf of the scheme right here in Washington and has proceeded with unabated fury from the White House fireside to nearly every rostrum in the country.

Raps "Visionary Incendiaries."

"Political Janizaries, paid by the federal treasury to perform services here and charged with no official responsibility for determining questions affecting the nation's judiciary, are parading the states in a desperate effort to influence the public against the Supreme court of the United States. One of these visionary incendiaries spoke recently in a southern state and exceeded all bounds of rational criticism in his vituperation of the eminent men who have served with great distinction on the Supreme bench.

"He is said to have been applauded by the audience of his partisans, which caused me to wonder if they could have known the type of person to whose unrestrained abuse of the Supreme court and the great jurists who constitute its membership they approvingly listened. Did they know that he recently reproached the south for providing separate public schools for the races; that he urged repeal of every statute and ordinance of segregation; that he virtually committed the administration at Washington to a new force bill for the south, declaring that not since Lincoln's day has it better been realized than now the necessity of laws to strictly enforce the three post-civil war amendments to the constitution which kept the south in agony for years and retarded its progress for well nigh half a century?

Only One Aspect of Case.

"This infuriated propagandist for degrading the Supreme court practically proposes another tragic era of reconstruction for the south. Should men of his mind have part in picking the six proposed judicial sycophants very likely they would be glad to see reversed those decisions of the court that saved the civilization of the south and in spite of the menace of passionate partisans, with their violent threats to 'reorganize' the court, prohibited the seizure and confiscation, without pay, of the estates of private citizens. It was the Supreme court of the United States that validated the suffrage laws of the south which saved the section from anarchy and ruin in a period the unspeakable outrages of which nearly all the nation recalls with shame.

"This, however, is merely an incidental aspect of the case, reflecting my intense personal resentment and sharply revealing the sectional animosity of some of the fierce defamers of the Supreme court. Infinitely graver questions are presented. This entire nation is aroused over the many definite proposals to reverse the deliberate judgments of an independent court and to substitute for them the previously pledged opinions of judicial subalterns. With men of this undisguised radical type campaigning the country, and freely applying their wretched opprobriums to the Supreme court, these who resist the shocking movement are impertinently reproached with 'organizing propaganda!'

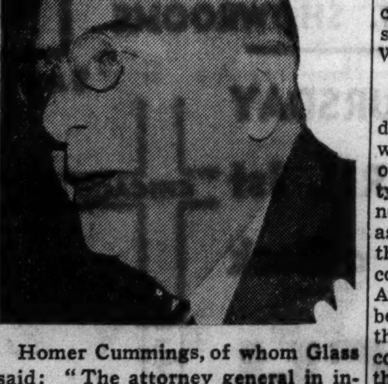
Tells of Many Protests.

"I challenge any proponent of this packing contrivance to examine the thousands upon thousands of personal letters and telegrams sent to me and find in them anything but individual indignation at the proposal to make an executive puppet of our supreme judicial tribunal. For myself, I think we should right now have 'organized propaganda'—in the sense that the men and women of America who value the liberties they have enjoyed for 150 years should, with unexampled spontaneity, exercise their constitutional right of petition and, with all the earnestness of their souls, protest to congress against this attempt to replace representative government with an autocracy.

"Aside from these observations, let us consider the glaring proposal of the White House to pack the Supreme court immediately with the President's own legal adherents for a specified purpose, and to enable him during his present term, even should there be not another, to entirely reconstitute the court with persons entertaining his extraordinary views of government.

Plan Without Precedent.

"The attorney general in inaugurating 'organized propaganda in behalf of the project undertook to identify the names of Washington, Jefferson, and other eminent Americans with expedients akin to the unprecedented proposal of the President. Already I have publicly pronounced the assertion an indefensible libel on the fame of these great men, and was glad to note that the attorney general omitted in his statement before the senate judiciary committee to repeat the aspersion. The White House proposal is without precedent in the history of American jurisprudence. Its consequences portend evils beyond the anxiety of any person concerned for a decent administration of justice in this country. There is a precedent, dating back to the infamous star chamber processes of Great Britain, to which I shall presently refer.



Homer Cummings, of whom Glass said: "The attorney general in inaugurating 'organized propaganda' in behalf of the project undertook to identify the names of Washington, Jefferson, and other prominent Americans with expedients akin to the unprecedented proposal of the President."

"George Washington, of course, was compelled to nominate a full Supreme court at the very beginning of our national life, but no reputable person charged then or has ever believed since that Washington 'packed' the court with men pledged to any certain line of conduct beyond faithful compliance with the required oath to uphold the constitution in the sight of God, uninfluenced by the machinations of politicians or the self-interest of any groups of men intent on draining the federal treasury.

Praises First Appointees.

"The men he selected for chief justices and associates were not only persons of eminence in the profession of the law, but in character literally incapable of going on the bench to submit obediently to executive decrees.

"I here and now challenge the proponents of this startling scheme to pack the Supreme court for the avowed purpose of validating acts of congress already decided to be unconstitutional to produce one word written or spoken by Thomas Jefferson in advocacy of such a thing. If there ever was a public man who, aside from an unimpeachable character, could have been suspected of a desire to do such a frightful thing, it was Thomas Jefferson. He hated John Marshall, chief justice of the court, who was his kinsman, and Marshall hated Jefferson. The latter bitterly condemned Marshall's opinions. Recently emerged from under the tyranny of a mad king, Jeffersonians of the period dreaded the transformation of this republic into a monarchy.

"They suspected Marshall of a desire, if not the purpose, to do this 'step by step, insidiously,' through judicial interpretations. They knew Alexander Hamilton, who was Marshall's powerful political associate, could well wish it to be done. Jefferson was incensed at the obiter dicta in Marshall's famous opinion in the case of Marbury vs. Madison and other notable causes. Perpetually afterward he bitterly censured this and other opinions of Marshall. However, for six years after the delivery of Marshall's celebrated federalistic opinion, concurred in by the court, Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States, with full opportunity to propose reorganization of the Supreme court to compel obedience to his views; but, with overwhelmingly supporting congresses, never then or at any time in all his life would he have done such an abominable thing.

Quotes Woodrow Wilson.

"Aside from his clear discernment of the vital importance of the checks and balances incorporated in the constitution and his conception of judicial propriety, Jefferson never would have suggested such a thing for the reason subsequently stated with characteristic clarity and force by Woodrow Wilson when he said:

"What Woodrow Wilson (above) pungently described as an expedient to 'overwhelm the Supreme court' by 'an outrage on constitutional morality' is . . . the exact thing now proposed," said Glass.

"'It is within the undoubted constitutional power of congress to overwhelm the opposition of the Supreme court on any question by increasing the number of justices and refusing to confirm any appointments to the new places which do not promise to change the opinion of the court. But we do not think such a violation of the spirit of the constitution is possible, simply because we share and contribute to that public opinion which makes such outrages upon constitutional morality impossible by standing ready to curse them.'

"'Standing ready to curse them!' That vividly describes the attitude of thinking men and women everywhere in America today toward this hateful attempt to drive eminent jurists from the bench in order to crowd into the court a lot of judicial marionettes to speak the ventriloquisms of the White House.

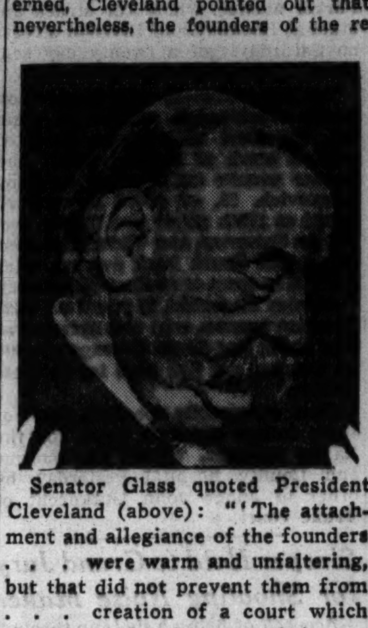
Cites Wilson's Prophecy.

"What Woodrow Wilson pungently described as an expedient to 'overwhelm the Supreme court' by 'an outrage upon constitutional morality' is, in my view, the exast thing now proposed, and it requires little astuteness to predict with confidence that the prophecy of Wilson would come true and the curses of the American people, in the end, would be visited upon those responsible for this device to deprave the Supreme court and to make a political plaything of the constitution of the United States.

"In like tenor with views entertained and frequently expressed by Woodrow Wilson were the profound convictions of another illustrious Democrat of the modern era. A practical student of government, a lover of his country, preëminent for courage and common sense, Grover Cleveland had a reverential regard for the constitution and the courts. Nothing on the earth could have induced this stern patriot to lay impious hands upon either or to say or do anything designed to inflame uninstructed public opinion against them.

Recalls Cleveland's Words.

"Just prior to his second election to the presidency, Cleveland made a notable address at a centennial celebration of the Supreme court. Reciting the sacrifices of the American people to be free and admonishing his hearers that the writers of the constitution knew from bitter experience how readily instrumentalities of government were prone to trespass upon the liberties of the governed, Cleveland pointed out that, nevertheless, the founders of the republic 'calmly and deliberately established as a function of their government a check upon unauthorized freedom and a restraint upon dangerous liberty.' Said he, 'the attachment and allegiance of the founders to the sovereignty of their states were warm and unfaltering, but that did not prevent them from contributing a fraction of that sovereignty to the creation of a court which should guard and protect their new nation, and save and perpetuate a government which should, in all time to come, bless an independent people. Let us be glad in the possession of this rich heritage of American citizenship, and gratefully appreciate the wisdom and patriotism of those who gave to us the Supreme court of the United States.'



Senator Glass quoted President Cleveland (above): "'The attachment and allegiance of the founders . . . were warm and unfaltering, but that did not prevent them from . . . creation of a court which should guard and protect their new nation, and save and perpetuate a government which should . . . bless an independent people."

"God Bless the Court."

"Telegram after telegram, letter after letter, sent me by the thousands, have said 'God bless the Supreme court.' But who wants God to bless a packed Supreme court? Who wants to invoke divine blessing on a court not constituted to put 'a check upon unauthorized freedom and restraint upon dangerous liberty,' but reorganized to validate acts of congress in contravention of the constitution as now interpreted and to expound the constitution in subservient obedience to the whims or obsessions or misguided judgment of a President of the United States? Woodrow Wilson said such a court and those responsible for it would receive the curses of the American people. Grover Cleveland said the Supreme court was created for no such sinister purpose.

"Our God still being in the heavens, it is my belief he would regard as unhallowed any invocation of his blessing on a court like that. We would better abolish the Supreme court and, by the required process, do away outright with the constitution if they are to be made the playthings of politicians.

Points to Admonition.

"What did Cleveland mean by checks and balances against 'unauthorized freedom and dangerous liberty?' He was uttering a monition against legislative or executive invasion of the rights of the states, reserved to them under the constitution, and to be 'guarded and protected' by the Supreme court. He meant what a governor of a great state, afterward President of the United States, meant when seven years ago he made a vehement plea for respecting state rights and unsparingly denounced government by 'commissions and regulatory bodies and special legislation.' The governor warned that:

"'To bring about government by oligarchy—masquerading as democracy—it is fundamentally essential that all authority and control be centralized in our national government. We are safe from the danger of any such departure from the principles on which this country was founded just so long as the individual home rule of the states is scrupulously preserved and fought for whenever they seem in danger.'

Roosevelt in 1930.

"This was Franklin D. Roosevelt in March, 1930. When before, may I venture to ask, in the history of the country has this nation more nearly approached the situation thus deplored? With federal regulatory bodies in every community of the states and federal bureaus in Washington bursting the bounds of marble palaces and overflowing into business houses and private homes, and with the states required supinely to submit their legislative statutes to the approval of burocratic boards here before they can get back a pittance of the prodigious sums picked from the pockets of their people in the form of taxes, state rights, as well as the security and independence of private enterprise, are fast disappearing.

"What does this court packing scheme signify if it does not reflect the fury of its proponents against the Supreme court of the United States for certain of its recent decisions asserting the rights of the states and individuals and private business under the law and prohibiting the proposed invasion of these by ill digested congressional legislation, largely devised by inexperienced and incompetent academicians? That is precisely what it is all about.

Senses Purpose of Plan.

"Had the judicial decisions sanctioned these rankly unconstitutional measures, who believes there would have been this unrestrained abuse of the court and this unprecedented attempt to flank the constitution by putting on the bench six judicial wet nurses to suckle the substance out of the opinions of jurists whose spirit of independence keeps pace with their profound knowledge of the law.

"That the purpose of the court project has accurately been stated by me is no longer in serious question. The President in his message to congress implicitly conceded the proposition when he said if given legislative sanction for this irregular scheme there would be no necessity of appealing to the people so to amend their constitution as to authorize the things for which the Supreme court had said there is now no authority, as well, perhaps, as unmentioned schemes of 'unfettered' delegation of legislative power.

"That can mean nothing else than that it was then the executive determination to select six new judges who would validate acts of congress already pronounced unconstitutional and contemplated acts of a similar kind.

"Every speech made since, whether at the fireside or elsewhere, has confirmed this interpretation of the President's message to congress. If that, in plain terms, isn't 'packing the Supreme court' for well defined purposes, I confess my inability to supply a better definition.

"Moreover, the advocates of the scheme themselves reveal this purpose—some of them warily enough to have produced merriment in the committee room, while others have bluntly, and with evident lack of shame, said outright that this is the ghastly object of the proceeding. Still others specify some of the voided acts they propose to revive and render valid by the votes of the six new justices whom the country is assured will be selected for their 'bias.'

"One of these acts, which lost American farmers their export markets and necessitated the importation of foreign foodstuffs to feed our own people, was nullified by two-thirds of the Supreme court; but by adding to the minority the six 'biased' votes to be packed onto the court, this decision may be overridden.

Recalls NRA Decision.

"Another of the acts, voided by a unanimous vote of the Supreme court and proposed to be revived for reversal, would severly test the persuasive powers and great legal attainments of the six 'biased' justices, since it is difficult for six votes to subvert nine, no matter what the disparity of ages. All nine Supreme court justices threw out the so-called NRA as an 'unfettered' delegation of power, as it was an amazing thrust of federal jurisdiction into every conceivable private business of the country.

"Among its other vices it actually suspended for a period the laws of the nation against the depredations of monopoly and confided to executive discretion, under a hateful species of coercion, involving fines and imprisonment, the fate of every business interest in the United States. Its administration was confided to a man, long a respected friend of mine, of unsurpassed accomplishments, with no selfish interest whatsoever to subserve; but in circumstances he was as ruthless and harsh as human nature ever gets. The act and its administration created a reign of terror in the country; and everybody except the large industries, which profited by the enforced failure of the smaller, hailed the decision of the court with satisfaction.

Refers to Guffey Bill.

"We are told this is to be revised, along with the Guffey coal bill of somewhat a like nature, also declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court; and I am wondering if we are to witness the same sort of organized propaganda in their behalf as distinguished one oracle of the NRA, now prominently mentioned as one of the 'biased' wet nurses of the Supreme bench. In his first speech this man impudently denounced every American citizen as a 'slacker' who should not volunteer obedience to the NRA.

"He urged the women of the country to pin white feathers on every person who would not willingly coöperate with enforcement; thus he would have put a badge of disgrace on all men and women who would not submit to the atrocious exactions of an act of congress which all nine judges of the Supreme court, young and old alike, pronounced unconstitutional.

"The effrontery of this attempt to terrorize the people was in no degree abated by the fact that this valiant propagandist, now conspicuously pictured as one of the probable selections for the Supreme court bench, sat in a swivel chair during the whole period of the world war, never hearing a percussion cap pop or sensing the smell of gunpowder or getting near enough to a training camp to learn the difference between 'order arms' and 'forward march.'

What People Can Expect.

"With Jacobins of this type constituting the wet nurse section of the Supreme court, what an era of peace and contentment could the American people confidently anticipate with the revival of the NRA and kindred vagaries of the brain truster variety!

"What other and how many peculiar schemes of government are to be presented for submissive legislative action in confident expectation that they will meet with the favor of the 'biased' half dozen who are to adorn the bench, is left to our imagination, because not exactly specified in the proclaimed program. We are simply given to understand that the President has a 'mandate from the people' to so reconstitute the Supreme court as to have it sanction whatever the White House proposes to an agreeing congress, particularly if it involves no 'check upon unauthorized freedom,' to quote Grover Cleveland again, or 'restraint on dangerous liberty.'

"But we know there has been no such mandate from the people to rape the Supreme court or to tamper with the constitution. The constitution belongs to the people. It was written by great representatives of the people, chosen for the purpose, and was ratified by the people as the supreme charter of their government, to be respected and maintained with the help of God.

"With the consent and by mandate of the people their constitution provides how it may be amended to meet the requirements of the ages. It has always been so, and no administration in the history of the republic has attempted to flank the constitution by a legislative short cut so vividly denounced by Woodrow Wilson as 'an outrage upon constitutional morality.'

"The people were not asked for any such mandate. They were kept in ignorance of any such purpose. They were told that the liberal aims of the President could very likely be achieved within the limitations of the constitution; and if not, we would suggest to the people amendments that would authorize such certain things to be done.

"When once it was intimated by political adversaries that the Supreme court might be tampered with, the insinuation was branded as a splenetic libel. No word in the platform of the prevailing party could be interpreted into advocacy of any such abnormity as that now in issue.

Calls Assertions Inaccurate.

"Quite the contrary, every platform declaration on the subject gave promise of the customary constitutional procedure. But somebody badly advising the President was evidently afraid of the people. The attorney general apparently feared to 'ask a mandate from the people' for his wretched scheme, defended so weakly in reason as to invite expressions of contempt. Convicted by his own official reports of inaccurate assertions about congestion of the Supreme court calendar, and now flatly contradicted on this and other points by the chief justice and associates, there is nothing left of his bitter assault on the court more notable than the brutal contention that six eminent members 'get out' and give place to six others of a compliant type, in the selection of whom the department of justice would probably have a cunning hand.

"Of course the proposal being discussed will not contribute to the efficiency of the court. It will do in this case particularly what Thomas Jefferson pungently deplored when he declared 'the multiplication of judges only enables the weak to outvote the wise.' The fact is their proposed bill will cure none of the alleged evils which offend their ideas of judicial reform.

Suggests Way to Do It.

"Why should we not proceed, as in honor we are bound to do, by first contriving legislation for social and economic security, painstakingly drafted by competent lawyers with a clear conception of the constitutional prohibitions against invading the rights of business and individuals by a species of confiscation and by utter indifference for reserved powers of the states? Why should we not quit legislating by pious preambles and conform our enactments to the requirements of the constitution and thus put upon notice the cabal of amateur experimenters that we will have no more of their trash.

"Let us have no more bills for 'unfettered' delegation of authority, so obviously unconstitutional as to have prompted the President to make an unhappy appeal for disregarding all 'reasonable doubts.' Let us meet the issue confidently, but with a determination to promote the general welfare of the nation and not merely to surrender control of the government to special groups.

Ask People to Act!

"If it then be found that we were mistaken in the expressed belief that the constitution is ample to our purposes, let us do what we promised to do and appeal to the people to amend their supreme law. Let the impatient proponents of the pending scheme turn to the advice of George Washington in his famous farewell address in which he admonished against disregarding 'reciprocal checks in the exercise of political power,' saying: 'If in the opinion of the people, the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way in which the constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this in one instance may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed.'

"Let those who would confide to the President complete control over the Supreme court by sanction of an obedient congress reread the farewell address of Andrew Jackson in which he cautioned the country against the jeopardy to their liberties of a consolidated government and the evil consequences of 'permitting temporary circumstances, or the hope of better promoting the public welfare, to influence, in any degree, our decisions upon the extent of the authority of the general government. Let us abide by the constitution as it is written,' he urged, 'or amend it in the constituioual mode if it be found defective.'

Jefferson's Attitude.

"And, in this connection, it might be well for the proponents of this court packing scheme, who started their campaign by taking the name of Thomas Jefferson in vain, to remember that Jefferson's bitterness against the Supreme court was provoked by the very thing they now advocate.

"Jefferson condemned the court for its failure to void the unbridled actions of congress in invading the rights of the states, whereas the court packers are incensed against the court for restraining the unconstitutional actions of congress in disregarding individual and community rights. Their position is in sharp antagonism to that of Jefferson, who never dreamed of packing the Supreme court to compel obedience to his views. Evidently Jefferson thought, as Woodrow Wilson afterward proclaimed, that such a thing involved 'constitutional immorality."

Warns Public.

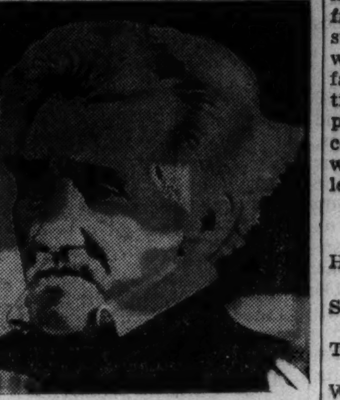
"I venture to beg the public not to be diverted from the real issue involved in this controversy. Contesting the court's constitutional authority to void acts of congress is idle surplusage. The court has exercised this implied power for 130 years. It has been regarded as an indispensable power in government under a written constitution. There must be a Supreme tribunal to which every citizen, high or humble, rich or poor, may appeal for the vindication of his rights and the preservation of life, liberty and property.

"Long before the Supreme court was established this principle was presented by Chancellor Wythe, Jefferson's law teacher, with respect to acts of parliament and decrees of the crown. It is a waste of time to discuss now this and other moot questions not touched in the remotest sense by the pending proposition. Under the bill sent up to congress, prepared by God knows whom, the six substitute justices would exercise the established power to rule finally on the acts of congress; and the dangerous circumstance faces the nation that we know pretty well in advance what their rulings would be.

"The question of majority or other numerical decisions is not comprehended in the White House proposal nor the question of congress to review and reverse the court's decisions. The predominant question is whether the practice of a century under an independent judiciary is to be abruptly terminated by authorizing the President to seize the court by the process of packing in order to compel agreement with the Executive views.

Urges a People's Mandate.

Should this be done with a mandate from the people? Should the people be ignored and, without asking their consent in the usual way, submit helplessly to having their constitution tortured into meanings which have been declared in contravention of the fundamental law? If Andrew Jackson was right in asserting that 'eternal vigilance by the people is the price of liberty,' God knows that never before since the establishment of the republic could the people better be warned to preserve their priceless heritage. The talk about 'party loyalty' being involved in the opposition to this extraordinary scheme is a familiar species of coercion. It is sheer poppycock.



Glass continued: "Let those who would confide to the President complete control over the Supreme court . . . reread the farewell address of Andrew Jackson in which he cautioned the country against the jeopardy to their liberties of a consolidated government."

"No political party since the establishment of the government ever dared make an issue of packing the Supreme court.

"But a single one of the Presidents of the United States ever was accused of doing such a thing, and the mere suspicion, however ill founded in truth, has proved a taint upon his reputation which his memorable military achievements have not been able entirely to wipe away.

Historians Quoted.

"Moreover, his alleged offense was inconsequential in contrast with that which now threatens the nation. As Warren says in his history of the Supreme court: 'To the proposal advanced at various times of intense party passion, that the court be increased in number to overcome a temporary majority for or against some particular piece of legislation, the good sense of the American people has always given a decided disapproval.'

"And as James Bryce in his 'American Commonwealth' says, whenever such a thing should occur 'the security provided for the protection of the constitution is gone like a morning mist.'

"Thomas Jefferson in a single sentence comprised the unalterable detestation of honest men for the packing of the court when he said: 'It is better to toss up cross and pile in a cause than to refer to a judge whose mind is warped by any motive whatever in that particular case.' Later he wrote: 'An officer who selects judges for principles which necessarily lead to condemnation, might as well take his culprits to the scaffold without the mockery of trial.' This Jefferson said of packed juries. How infinitely worse would be a packed Supreme court, albeit in one case the penalty is imprisonment and in the other the universal abhorrence of mankind!

Touches on British Incident.

"I have said this proposal to pack the Supreme court is without precedence in American jurisprudence and that we must go back for a corresponding scheme to the infamous processes of the British star chamber. Macauley gives us the incident. When the king wanted a servile court to sanction his purposes, contrary to decisions rendered, he summoned the chief justice to the palace and told him peremptorily that he would be dismissed unless he changed his opinions. 'Sire,' said the courageous chief justice, 'my position is of little concern to me, since I have not many years to live; but my convictions are of vital importance, and I am humiliated to find that your majesty could think me capable of altering my mind merely to retain my place!.'

"The chief justice then bravely admonished his kingly master: 'Your majesty may find twelve judges of your mind, but hardly twelve honest lawyers.' Needless to say, the chief justice was dismissed, just as the offending members of the Supreme court have been rudely told to 'begone' if they do not relish the proposed mortification of being supplied with six judicial wet-nurses; and well might any one or all of these eminent jurists, in imitation of that fearless Englishman, say to the appointing power: 'You may find six judges of your mind, but not six constitutional lawyers.' Should the iniquitous scheme go through, the intelligence and character of the nation will be interested to know what lawyer of notable attainments or independent spirit would be willing to go on the Supreme court bench in such circumstances or could regard such an appointment as an honor.

Doubts People's Trust.

"Doubtless there are practitioners eager for such recognition; but are they men whom the nation would prefer or who could feel comfortable in association with those now constituting the court. I am but an unlearned layman, untrained in the ethics of the legal profession; nevertheless, I can not escape the conclusion that any man of approved sensibility who should accept such a distinction would experience trouble in outliving the mistake. Moreover, I have a distinct premonition that the people of America would not confidently trust to the supreme decision of such a court the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness guaranteed by the constitution.

"I am far from intimating that the President of the United States is incapable of selecting suitable men for the Supreme court. I am simply accepting his own word and that of his spokesmen to the effect that he wants men 'biased' in behalf of his legislative and administrative projects, who may be counted on to reverse the Supreme court decisions already rendered and give such other decisions of policy as may be desired. This is not my view alone; it is the conclusion of millions of alarmed citizens throughout the nation.

Rudyard Kipling's Reply.

"The assumption of the proponents of this scheme to tamper with the court and the constitution that only they are the President's real friends has no justification in fact. He is not a friend of the President who would subject him to the biting indictment which Rudyard Kipling applied to a famous autocrat who answered a petition from his people with the imperious assertion that 'This is my country. These are my laws. Those who do not like to obey my laws can leave my country.' Wrote Kipling:

"'He shall break his judges if they cross his word;
He shall rule above the law, calling on the Lord.
Strangers of his counsel, hirelings of his pay,
These shall deal out justice—sell, deny, delay.
While his hired captains jeer us in the street.'

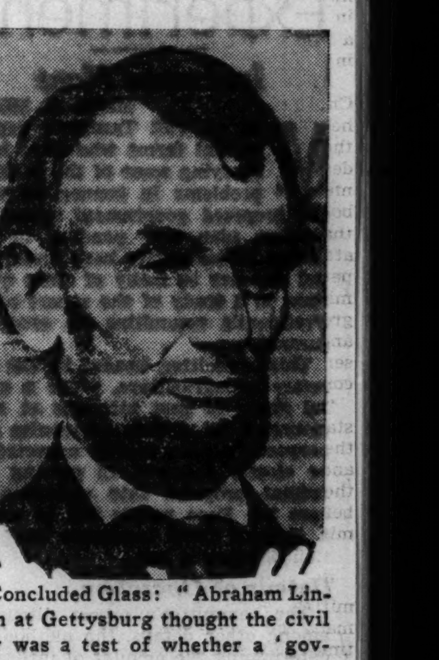
"Rather is he the real friend of the President who will command to his serious attention the ringing words of Thomas Jefferson when he proclaimed himself 'against writing letters to judiciary officers,' because he thought them independent of the executive, not subject to its coercion and therefore not obliged to attend to its admonitions.'

Renowned Students Quoted.

"In conclusion, my friends, let me press upon you the solemn warning of a world renowned student of representative government, John Stuart Mill, when he said:

"'A people may prefer a free government; but if from indolence, or carelessness, or cowardice, or want of public spirit, they are unequal to the exertions necessary for preserving it; if they will not fight for it when directly attacked; if they can be deluded by the artifices used to cheat them out of it; if by momentary discouragement, or temporary panic, or a fit of enthusiasm for an individual, they can be induced to lay their liberties at the feet of even a great man, or trust him with powers which enable him to subvert their institutions—in all these cases they are more or less unfit for liberty.'

"Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg thought the civil war was a test of whether a 'government of the people, by the people, for the people' should perish from the face of the earth. Just as profoundly are some of us convinced that no threat to representative democracy since the foundation of the republic has exceeded in its evil portents this attempt to pack the Supreme court of the United States and thus destroy the purity and independence of this tribunal of last resort."



Concluded Glass: "Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg thought the civil war was a test of whether a 'government of the people, by the people, for the people,' should perish. . . . Just as profoundly are some of us convinced that no threat to representative democracy since the foundation of the republic has exceeded in its evil portents this attempt."

SABATH'S TEARS HALT DEFENSE OF BOND QUIZ

Charges Are Not Denied, Says Rep. Church.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Adolph J. Sabath.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—As he was about to demand an apology from Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] for charges leveled against him last week, Representative Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.] today burst into tears, was unable to continue, and finally was assisted from the house chamber.

After resting half an hour in the cloakroom, Sabath was able to go home. He was given permission to insert in the record the entire speech he had prepared. He had made most of the address when he was overcome by emotion.

For more than an hour Sabath had been making his reply to the accusations made last week by Church who called for a halt to Sabath's investigation of bondholders' reorganizations, declaring that small bondholders were receiving no benefit from the committee's activities, while committee employés were contributing to the abuses they were supposed to correct.

Asks Financial Explanation.

Church also requested an explanation from Sabath concerning financial benefits reported to have been reaped by Sabath's law firm, Sabath, Perlman, Goodman & Rein, as a result of the committee investigation.

Sabath said Church's charges were without foundation and "a distortion of facts." He read from a lengthy statement in support of his denial. Then, as he was about to read a challenge to the Evanston congressman to apologize to the house and also to request indorsement of his request for an extension of the investigation "as a mark of confidence," Sabath's head slumped on his chest and he swayed, gripping the stand before him to keep from falling.

Tears streamed from his eyes. Representatives crowded around him and finally helped him to walk slowly from the chamber. In the cloakroom, he sank onto a lounge, exhausted. It was some time before he regained composure.

House Reception Chilly.

Observers believed the chilly attitude of listening members was partly responsible for Sabath's breakdown. He was applauded at no time during his long talk, an unusual occurrence in the volatile house especially when a member of long standing is speaking.

After a review of Sabath's remarks, Church issued a statement in which he noted that "not a single one of the direct charges made by me was denied. He admitted that his committee had sent out letters soliciting bonds," Church said. "He admitted that at least one of the committee attorneys [Newell Mecartney] had petitioned the court for fees; he admitted the presence of his firm in a great number of reorganization cases and he admitted that his firm represented the Chicago Title and Trust company in some 75 cases.

"As an excuse for these actions he states that they were not done with the specific consent of his committee and that his law firm represented the Chicago Title and Trust company before the appointment of his committee.

Church Promises Reply.

"If the chairman of the select committee ever answers the charges made by me I shall reply at that time and also correct categorically the misstatements which he made today on the floor of the house."

Sabath told the house that J. L. Tupy, chief investigator of his committee, never was a member of a bondholders' committee and that the committee for the Chicago Park Cemetery company bondholders did not enter into an agreement whereby they would receive $45,000 for their services in reorganizing a $150,000 issue.

This statement was a "gross error," Church commented. He issued a complete statement of the facts in this case, citing the specific court records and the Cook county recorder's records which showed Tupy as a member of the bondholders' committee.

Move for Legislation.

Sabath's breakdown stopped further discussion of the charges in the house today, but several members indicated their intention of taking up the issue tomorrow. Meanwhile the house judiciary committee took cognizance of Church's demand for legislation instead of continued investigation by agreeing to consider a bill, introduced by Sabath several months ago, which would set up a federal "conservator" with whom protective bondholders' committees would be required to register.

Since the appointment of his special committee, the Sabath law firm has not represented the Chicago Title and Trust company "in any matter in which it had an individual interest," Sabath declared. Prior to that time, he said, his law firm did represent the company "in some matters."

"I deny that my firm has in any way profited financially or otherwise because of my chairmanship of the house committee," Sabath declared. "In fact, the contrary is true, since my firm has consistently avoided business that had the remotest connection with matters in which the committee was active."

Sabath became associated with the law firm of Sabath. Perlman, Goodman and Rein on Oct. 15, 1931, he said.

Tells About $6,400 Fee.

Sabath made certain references to Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who set aside a $6,400 legal fee granted to the Sabath law firm.

"Before I explain this matter of the $6,400 fee, I must digress a bit," he said. "On Oct. 25, 1932, foreclosure was instituted against the Northwest Building corporation in the state court. A year later, Sabath, Perlman, Goodman and Rein appeared as counsel for the reorganization committee. Please note, Mr. Speaker, that that was almost a year before the Sabath committee was created. Later, the matter was transferred before Judge Barnes.

"On July 10, 1936, George S. Marks, a staf attorney of the select committee, intervened in the Harding theater case which also was before Judge Barnes. Because of the connection of Judge Barnes with the Chicago Title and Trust company just prior to his elevation to the federal bench and his concurrence in the transfer of $2,900,000 of cash belonging to bondholders from the Garard Investment Trust in exchange for impaired securities in the portfolio of the Garard bank so that its officers could avoid prosecution by lapse of time and because of Mr. Barnes' fee for representing the Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver in the matter, of $35,000 for 69 eight-hour days, and later of another $25,000 fee paid to Judge Barnes' brother in the same case, Mr. Marks asked for a change of venue. This was refused and Mr. Marks appealed.

Balked by Technicality.

"Because Judge Barnes refused to allow Mr. Marks to file his intervening petition in the first instance, the Circuit Court of Appeals found Mr. Marks not properly before it, and on that technicality denied his prayer.

"In about the middle of November, 1935, in the Garfield Arms case before Judge Barnes, a new lease to the old lessee was being given consideration. The select committee received complaints that the lessee was conducting a questionable business on the premises, was keeping two sets of books and was filing perjured statements of income with the court to avoid paying sufficient rental.

"Mr. Powers of the select committee cautioned the trustee to investigate before agreeing to a new lease. Judge Barnes heard of it and summoned Powers and inferred that Powers intimidated the court or the trustee.

Investigator Arrested.

"The judge demanded information held by the select committee. When the chief investigator endeavored to discuss this with the judge, he was arrested on a contempt charge. All details are contained in the printed records of the select committee, available to whoever cared to know the truth.

"Now mind, Mr. Speaker, and note the dates. The change of venue matter was in July, 1935; the contempt incident, November, 1935. Then suddenly a new angle developed. The Northwest Building corporation case before Judge Barnes previously had been concluded and fees allowed. Sabath, Goodman, Perlman and Rein were in the case since October, 1933, nine months before the creation of the select committee.

"The firm was allowed a fee of $6,400. Suddenly, on Dec. 5, 1935, the judge vacated approval of the $6,400.

"What was the reason for this?"

Finally Allowed $2,500.

"The property had been reorganized with the approval of the judge some time before, right after the change of venue and the contempt incidents.

"Later the court must have repented. On April 27, 1936, he found—and I quote part of his order—'That Sabath, Perlman, Goodman and Rein have rendered services in this matter . . . that said services were of value . . . and that said services are reasonably worth . . . the sum of $2,500'—unquote.

"But there is an aftermath that I must mention. During the time of this 'off again, on again' matter of the fee, the judge started a one-man inquisition of the legal fraternity to ascertain who was soliciting 77B cases and which lawyers were splitting fees. He appointed a 'friend of the court,' he developed a 2,300 page, legal size, stenographic record. No prosecution followed. The 'friend of the court' was paid $3,000, the court reporter $400, all out of the bondholders' estate. Out of the 2,300 pages, 187 appertain to the Northwest Building corporation case; the rest has nothing to do with it. But the bondholders paid the bill."

Sarasota, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—The door of their trailer home wasn't big enough to allow the bride to be carried across the threshold, but Mr. and Mrs. James Tate made the most of the situation. They compromised on a kiss. They were married as the culmination of a romance started two years ago when they met in a trailer camp at Savannah, Ga.

CHARGE SABATH BILL WOULD ADD TO COURT COSTS

Instead of decreasing the cost of reorganizations to real estate creditors and owners, the bill sponsored by Congressman Adolph J. Sabath to amend the federal bankruptcy act would have the opposite effect, according to a report of the Chicago Bar association's committee on administration of bankruptcy law. The report, made public yesterday, will be presented today when the bill has a hearing before the house judiciary committee in Washington.

"No item of expenses in reorganization is eliminated," the report states. "To the usual expenses is added the fee of the conservator, the fee of his counsel, and the cost of obtaining the approval of the conservator's office, a quasi-judicial hierarchy with jurisdiction apparently intended to be concurrent with that of the district court and its referees and masters."

The office of conservator proposed by the Sabath bill would be so susceptible to abuse of patronage, the bar committee says, that this alone is reason enough for its opposition to the measure.

BEATS HUSBAND IN COURT TO SHOW HOW HE BEAT HER

John Bochniacz, 44 years old, 4920 West 28th place, Cicero, was arraigned before Magistrate Henry Sandusky yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. His wife, Frances, said John beat her last Saturday morning.

"Just how was that?" asked the magistrate.

"Like this," said Mrs. Bochniacz, seizing her husband by the hair and shaking him violently.

"I get it," said Sandusky. "I'll fine him $200 and suspend it if he stops drinking and goes away from home for a while."

John said he would visit a relative in Niles Center but wants to be back by the April 6 election. He's running for constable.

KILLED ON C. & E. I. TRACKS.

Vincennes, Ind., March 29.—[Special.]—Oliver Kelley was killed early today by a C. & E. I. train north of Vincennes while walking along the railroad track. An inmate of the county infirmary, Kelley had visited relatives in Sullivan and was returning to the county home.

INVENTORS SHOW WONDERFUL AND TRICKY GADGETS

Inventions ranging from a springboard to exercise baby's feet while he eats to an emergency auto horn tooter that goes into action whenever brakes are applied went on exhibition at the La Salle hotel yesterday as the National Inventors' congress opened.

The high chair which, its inventor claims, exercises and gives needed support to babies' legs and feet, is a footrest suspended at an angle by springs and lether straps. If baby kicks in anger the device utilizes the tantrum to develop the legs.

Earl Jacobs of Seattle exhibited his "water walking" shoes with which, he says, ambitious persons can walk across Lake Michigan. They are made on the old water wing principle, with two wings attached to each shoe.

The congress will open officially today, although the Inventors women's auxiliary held a preliminary meeting last night. Mrs. Alma Houghton, whose son, David, 8 years old, is the youngest inventor at the congress, was the principal speaker.

PALL MALL
THE MODERN BLEND

Why you will adopt Pall Malls

Because The Modern Blend of Pall Mall, true to the English tradition of the Turkish Pall Mall, scorns the inexpensive short-cut of artificial flavouring. Among cigarettes of its type it stands alone in this respect.

Because Pall Mall, without artificial flavouring, must use only the finest domestic tobaccos, enriched in flavour and aroma by the best Oriental types.

Because the straight tobacco flavour of Pall Mall will leave no unpleasant after-taste of artificial sweetening.

Because the special English wrapping provides a tab on the back of the packet with which to open the corner, leaving the rest of the cellulose for continued protection.

A message from the president of Chicago's oldest milk company

• This Company, founded by my father, Sidney Wanzer, in 1857, is still owned and operated by the Wanzer family. In these 80 years, during 56 of which I have been identified with the Company, our primary objective has been to deliver direct to Chicago homes the finest, purest milk it is possible to produce. We give you our pledge that under no circumstances will our high standards be lowered. We are convinced that the Chicago public, through its ever increasing patronage of the Wanzer Company, has clearly demonstrated that it recognizes the sound principles under which we operate, and approves our 80-year-old policy of service and quality first.

• Come and visit us at any time at our Sunlight Plant, at Garfield Boulevard and La Salle Street, and see how our milk is protected under the most modern and sanitary conditions.

GOERING VS. ARITHMETIC.

Col. Gen. Goering spoke the other day at the opening of the German textile fair in Berlin. He said Germany was not going to be dependent in future upon foreign textiles. Steps are already being taken, he reminded his listeners, to obtain an adequate domestic food supply. A four year plan is being devised to make Germany equally independent of foreign supplies for cloth.

Germany can now fill a third of her textile requirements from home grown materials, he said. "The National Socialist state will not tolerate having its people remain under the domination of fluctuations of foreign crops, the access thereto, or the price dictatorship of foreign speculators."

Those are brave words, but they will be read with a good deal of skepticism. Fabrics can be made of many substances, but the world, including Germany, must continue to place its chief reliance upon cotton, wool, linen, silk, and wood. Germany can never expect to grow cotton or silk at home and even if her colonial empire were restored tomorrow decades must elapse before the colonies could begin to supply her needs. Germany's wool production is not large enough to meet her requirements and never will be until sheep thrive on air and water. Germany's production of flax cannot be greatly increased without running counter to Gen. Goering's other policy of an independent food supply; flax quickly exhausts the soil and, in any event, linen is expensive and of limited usefulness in a cold country.

That leaves wood. Rayon is made from wood and German chemists are said to have produced a wool substitute from the same material. If Germany's forest resources were limitless the goal of independence might be attained, but the fact is that much of the pulp for Germany's rayon mills has always been imported from Sweden and other exporting countries. Under Gen. Goering's leadership the sound policies of forest management which Germany has pursued for generations have been forgotten. The forests are now being cut down faster than new plantings replace them. If Germany expects to supply herself with wood pulp substitutes for the wool, cotton, and silk required by a nation of 60 million people her forests will be exhausted within a few years. Then her dependence upon foreign suppliers will be greater than ever. Meanwhile her machinery for spinning and weaving cotton, wool, and silk will have to be adapted, at great expense, to work the substitute fibers.

There is no reason to doubt that through subsidies German chemists and engineers can do their part. Probably German consumers can be forced to accept the substitutes. But there is no reason to expect that the accomplishment will leave Germany materially better able to withstand siege than she was before.

Arithmetic is a stubborn opponent. The land, labor, and capital which are diverted from other purposes to producing textiles cannot be used for producing food and munitions. Nor for manufacturing goods for export to provide the exchange with which to buy raw materials abroad. A great German chemist [who died in exile] did discover a way to manufacture nitrates for munitions and fertilizers inexpensively. Air was the raw material. It is not probable that many other synthetic substances can be made from anything so cheap. For the most part the raw materials will be relatively scarce and costly. Many of them, like wood pulp, will have to be imported from abroad.

Modern chemistry is capable of performing miracles, but they are not always economic miracles. Another German chemist learned to make gasoline from coal but his substitute costs a good deal more than gasoline made from petroleum. The textiles which Gen. Goering talks about probably will be more costly than the originals and they may be less serviceable as well. The substitute for wool may not be as warm and it may not wear as well.

It is far easier to hope for economic independence than to achieve it.

BENDS IN THE OUTER DRIVE.

Apparently automobile highways are "built to be rebuilt," if experience with the south approach to the new outer drive bridge is to be taken as a criterion. When the viaduct was planned back in 1926 there was no particular objection to the right angle turns in the section that carries the highway across the railway tracks. Vehicular movement could be slowed to twenty miles an hour without producing congestion. Now it is certain that the deceleration necessary to turn sharply eastward with a second northbound turn occurring before the machines can pick up speed will produce crowding, the influence of which may be felt for a half mile on both sides of the bridge.

The correction of these bends is going to prove quite expensive, but the park board should resolutely face the problem. It will be evident to anybody that the turns must be changed to curves eventually, so why not commence preparation of plans and set in motion the necessary legal machinery for securing additional air rights before the annoyance becomes acute? The experience also contains a lesson to be borne in mind when detailed plans of our elevated highway system are drawn. Acute angles in road construction are a thing of the past.

PATRONAGE AS PERSUASION.

The great controversy over Mr. Roosevelt's plan to put six new judges on the Supreme court has brought out many admirable political qualities in the United States senate and also in the house of representatives, although that body has been more or less marking time to await the turn of events in the upper chamber.

Men who had pre-commitments on measures to be promoted by a court which would not say No have rejected the opportunity to reach their objectives by means their consciences will not accept. They have put the greater good above what otherwise they would regard as desirable.

These senators have broken with the administration at a time when the popularity of Mr. Roosevelt seemed greatest. They have accepted the consequences of his displeasure and have given the senate a prestige which congress had been losing in recent years. Whatever comes of the debates and the final vote these men will have done a good service.

There is another side of the picture and it is not so pleasing. There are senators who pretended that they were uncertain and searching for the better reason to guide them. Their doubts have been resolved in favor of Mr. Roosevelt's plan. They were shown the light by appointments made to help them politically and to gratify their desire to put favored men in office. Some of these seductive favors have been appointments to the federal bench made since the debates started.

Illinois reluctantly admits that one of the recruits thus obtained was its own Senator Dieterich, whose mind was cleared and his silence broken when a judge was named for the federal Circuit Court of Appeals here, and whose enthusiasm for the President's plan grew even greater when a District court judge was named. Other men also have been so influenced, but in Illinois we feel concerned with our own particular instance.

EUROPE IN THE GOLDEN GLOVES.

The annual intercity Golden Gloves tournament has been brought to its conclusion in a manner satisfactory in large part to what is called Chicago, and attention now looks forward to the international bouts which will come in May. What is called New York, meaning anything from Alabama to the top of Maine, took seven fights and what passes for Chicago took nine. There might have been greater satisfaction here if the Chicago boy from Omaha, fighting in the heavyweight class, had been able to defeat the New York boy from Pittsburgh.

In previous international tournaments single nations have been invited to send their champions, and thus France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, and Poland have been represented by teams. This year all of Europe has been challenged to select representative boxers and the American team will tackle the best from over the water. The European champions will be the winners of an international tournament at Milan.

In the former international bouts here Germany won a tie and all other visiting teams were defeated. This year the going undoubtedly will be tougher for the American boxers than it has been and, if what happened in Berlin last year in the Olympic games is repeated, we'll be lucky to come out of the ring with a single winner.

Something happened to what had been regarded as a very fine team of American amateur champions. Only one of them reached the finals and he was well plastered and beaten. The reputation which American amateur boxing had built up went under a cloud and none of the explanations given at the time seemed to account for it.

The work of the ring officials was said to be a bit fantastic, but there was no real complaint that bouts were lost because of manifest partiality or stupidity. It was also said that the intense nationalism, particularly in the authoritarian countries, had made the boxers afraid to lose and go home, and further that their vain taskmasters had trained them professionally, so that they were merely technical amateurs and in reality polished professional fighters.

The explanation which gives European boxing a tinge of professionalism must be laid alongside the fact that some of our own Golden Glove boxers have only been one step from professional championships when they entered the ring for their last amateur fights. The amateur boxer who met Joe Louis certainly did not get a break, nor did the boy who put his gloves up against Barney Ross. The American boys should be on notice that the going will be tough and rough if the foreign gloves are loaded with anything like they were in Berlin.

STEAMBOAT'S FIRST LAUGH.

[Nashville Tennessean.]

Assuming that Harry [Steamboat] Johnson, veteran umpire of the Southern league, hasn't lost his grip on the realities of life, one can only judge from his latest press release that he, too, knows the value of personal publicity, even though it provides more ammunition for his best friends and severest critics—the fans.

On what other basis could he have prepared for his twenty-seventh year in organized baseball, and his nineteenth in the Southern league, by visiting an eye specialist and getting a certificate of this kind?

"This is to certify that I, Dr. T. W. Edwards, have examined the eyes of Harry [Steamboat] Johnson, umpire for the Southern Baseball association, and have found them to show right eye 20-20 and left eye 20-20. Army perfect. [Signed] Dr. T. W. Edwards, Memphis, Tenn. License 294. Sworn to me, a notary public, this day, March 15, 1937. [Signed] W. P. Prichard. My commission expires Jan. 21, 1940."

No one should know better than Mr. Johnson that possession of this guarantee of army perfect vision is not going to silence the wits in the bleachers and grandstands. On the contrary, it is calculated to inspire new and original comments. We doubt if he will hear the last of it for many years to come. Like as not there will be a demand for medical certificates covering such delicate matters as working of his mental processes, as unkind and unjust as such criticism may be.

We are constrained to believe that Steamboat Johnson is too well acquainted with the mass mind at baseball games to hope that the millennium will be brought about by a mere scrap of paper. Rather, it looks as if he has had the first laugh on his critics before the season begins, which is quite an achievement for one of his profession.

BEST WISHES FOR A MUG.

This is an aftermath of the cab strike; some of that "now-it-can-be-told stuff." . . . A couple of the strikers were waiting with open arms and chunky fists for one of the "scabsie cabs" to come their way. They waited and waited, but the cabbie they wanted so badly didn't come. Said one of the patient ones to the others: "Gosh, I hope nothing's happened to the poor mug."

BA"L"LAD.

"You'll live to hang some day," she'd cry
In tones of mock despair:
"Yes; mark these words, my fine young man,
You'll dangle in the air."

I did not take this thought amiss
Nor heed much when she'd scold,
But reveled on as highwayman,
Or scowling pirate bold.

But now I know those easy words
Said then by my old nurse
Foretold a dreadful destiny
And held a fearful curse.

For many years have passed and I
Must swing, and gasp, and sway,
And dangle from a loop, as I
Commute from work each day.

WHERE SALOONS ARE HOMELIKE.

Don't let The First Tulip be misinformed by the recent outburst of Oakton Main about Niles Center. I doubt he lives there in the first place and if he does he probably is a recent refugee from Rogers Park. We old timers (circum 1930) know enough to stay off the escape valve routes from Evanston and Chicago. Heck, the optimists who subdivided this garden (truck, but still garden) spot covered the prairie with nice, wide, smooth and unencumbered (except for overdue special assessments) concrete streets, and a lady with a perambulator and a Pomeranian can walk up the middle of one of those in perfect safety for all concerned. Note the initial letter combination. Doesn't sound reasonable, does it, but that's the carefree Niles Center air. (Should have written it the other way, for the Pomeranian arrived first, back on Trask boulevard.)

And the taverns! They're all on Dempster and McCormick where the wild eyed fugitives from the Chicago cops and the Evanston safety rules can drop in and play the slot machines while waiting for the wrecking truck. Back away in the village, where the foreigners rarely penetrate, we have nice, old fashioned, homelike saloons, where mamma takes the kids in the afternoon and dad takes 'em on Sunday morning. Guess I'll have to tell you about Niles Center some time.

DESTROYING INFECTION WITH X-RAYS.

EVER since the discovery of the X-ray by Roentgen in 1895 physicians and scientists have been finding new uses for this powerful force. At first, an interesting toy for the making of shadow pictures of coins within pocketbooks or showing the bones of the hand, it has come to be the chief reliance of the surgeon in fractures and of the physician in his search for diseases along the alimentary tract. Through the coöperation of physicists, equipment has been greatly improved and many of the hollow structures are now rendered visible through the aid of special dyes. X-ray movies have been made showing the internal organs in action—the stomach, the intestine, and the heart.

The early years of experiment, however, were marked by tragedy. We learned all too late that in some instances these puzzling rays would damage the skin and that the ensuing disfigurements [burns] were permanent. Physicians and technical men suffered frequently and many a life was sacrificed to the lure of discovery.

Later with more knowledge came control, a harnessing, as it were, of forces which, if unleashed, would prove disastrous. More accurate information as to dosage, filters, etc., has come as the result of experiment.

The destructive power of the rays on abnormal or malignant cells has been shown to be helpful. Tumors [both cancerous and benign], Hodgkins' disease, leukemia, and many sorts of skin lesions have been benefited by this new type of therapy. Perhaps not curative in all, it has proved to be so in some. Occasionally life has been prolonged measurably and pain and suffering allayed.

Within the last few years the question, "If diseased cells can be destroyed by this force, why not bacteria?" has come to the fore. Is it possible to give light doses to microbe laden areas and thus destroy infection?

More than 15 years ago P. M. Hickey showed that individuals who had recovered from diphtheria but who still retained the organisms in the throat and nasal passages could be freed of these "beasties" by X-ray treatments. In addition, boils, carbuncles, infections about the finger nails, erysipelas, and even pelvic inflammation in women, if treated early, often react favorably. The invading germs are apparently destroyed, thus preventing pus formation and the absorption of bacterial toxins.

Cases have been reported in which definite relief has been secured through exposures of but light intensity. Sometimes, even though pus has formed, radiation appears to assist an abscess to localize and become more accessible to drainage. Writers on the value of such treatment indicate that the effect is similar to that of heat.

In one of our large hospitals all cases of erysipelas are treated at the bedside with a portable apparatus. The X-rays are filtered through aluminum and a low voltage is used.

A man aged 25 suffered an injury to one of his hands. First aid treatment was followed by swelling and red streaks showing inflammation of the lymph channels extended upward along the arm. At the same time the lymph glands in the axilla [the armpit] were swollen and tender. Radiation of the affected area resulted in a fall of temperature to normal and marked recession of the inflammatory process. Only one exposure was required.

Of course, it is not difficult to understand that so powerful an agent, if it can destroy cells, can also bring about the death of bacteria, which are composed of the same elements. Whether the pain is abated because certain nerves are put to sleep temporarily is really beside the point. The important thing is that inflammation will recede if the situation is carefully managed.

No one would wish to go back to the time when X-ray scars were caused needlessly, and the administration of this form of therapy should be entrusted only to the most skilled and experienced physicians.

BRAIN TUMOR.

Y. T. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of brain tumor?
2. How long could a person have such a tumor before he himself or the average physician would know it?
3. Does it develop over a long or a short period of time?
4. What is the cause?
5. Does it cause pressure in the head?
6. Would a spinal X-ray or an X-ray of the head show it?
7. Does this condition end a person's life slowly or quickly?

REPLY.

1. Mental dullness, difficulties with speech, twitchings or convulsions, intermittent paralysis, headache, vomiting, or diminishing eyesight.
2. Several months, usually.
3. Long period.
4. Infection plays a role, although the cause in many instances is unknown.
5. Sometimes, and this may lead to convulsions.
6. X-ray of the head may show it. Lumbar puncture with careful pressure determination is a help in diagnosis.
7. Slowly, as a rule.

SPRAINED HIP.

Mrs. R. B. writes: Three weeks ago I sprained a hip. For the first few days I stayed off my feet. It seemed to improve slowly, but I am now at a standstill. I still have to use a cane when walking, otherwise the pain is severe. Should I disregard this discomfort and walk without the cane?

REPLY.

Sprains are serious and take a long time to heal. Do not try to walk without support and do not walk unless it is imperative. Rest, heat, and physiotherapy are advised. I assume that the X-ray pictures disclosed no fracture.

COLIC.

Mrs. K. writes: My baby is subject to colic. Is a belly-band necessary? What should the temperature of her room be? Should the crib sheets be warmed?

REPLY.

Colic may be due to wrong food, too much food, too little food, or to badly spaced feeding intervals. The application of heat may give temporary relief and sometimes a simple change of posture will expel the gas. The room temperature should be 70 degrees F. Unless the sheets are cold to the touch they need not be warmed. A band is needed by the newborn infant until the navel is healed.

20 Years Ago Today

MARCH 30, 1917.

BERLIN.—War with the United States is farthest from Germany's wishes, and if hostilities come the blame for the result "will rest with the American government." This was, in substance, the attitude taken by Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, German imperial chancellor, in an address before the reichstag.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Hope of averting war between the United States and Germany has been dissipated by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's address to the reichstag, according to the practically unanimous opinion of administration officials. The chancellor's speech was searched in vain for any hint of an intention to yield to the demands of President Wilson.

CHICAGO.—Hundreds of persons, a large number of them women, engaged in food riots in the congested districts of the west side. Butcher shops were besieged, many persons attacked and more than fifty arrests made. All day long crowds stormed the groceries. Speeches denouncing "food grafters" were made to the rioters.

NEW YORK.—In order to offset a possible move to paralyze the efforts of congress in dealing with the war crisis, groups of citizens in New York, Chicago, Boston, and Philadelphia undertook to organize a Pilgrimage of Patriotism to Washington to attend the opening of the extraordinary session of congress.

CHICAGO.—Chicago is leading every other city in the country in the number of recruits received for the United States marine service. Seventy-three enlisted during March and the total number since Jan. 1 is 179. New York enlisted 37 this month, Philadelphia 34, and Buffalo 53. The marine service is in need of 4,000 additional men.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary of War Baker announced his department would ask congress to appropriate at once for reserve supplies of ammunition, machine guns, rifles, and other war supplies. The secretary said congress will be asked to pass the regular army appropriation bill which failed last session. Then emergency legislation will be passed in supplemental bills.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports the capture of an entire divisional staf, along with 900 men, of the Fifty-third Turkish division in Palestine. British advance fifteen miles after battle with force of 20,000. London reports capture of another village in France with heavy German losses. Martial law declared throughout Spain as result of protest by people of food shortage.

NOTIFIED: REPAIR OR WRECK.

Chicago, March 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to call your attention to a hazard which exists in my neighborhood in the form of a house that appears to be on the verge of collapse. There is a public and a parochial school in the immediate vicinity and it presents a danger to the children who play around this house. Knowing of your interest in public welfare I am asking that you have an investigation made, and if warranted refer it to the proper authorities.

Our inspector reports this is a vacant three story brick store and flat building which is open to vandalism, but is structurally safe at this time. The owner has been notified to repair or wreck the building. This department will proceed according to law in the event repairs are not made.

TIME FOR SETTLEMENT.

Chicago, March 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother died leaving no will. He has four children, all of age, and their lawyer claims that it will take seven years before the final settlement of the estate. Is this true? There are no outstanding bills and all of the real estate is clear.

REPLY TO DEAN GREEN.

Washington, D. C., March 28.—Dean Leon Green of the Northwestern university law school says my account of his testimony in support of the Supreme court packing bill was "tortured," thus lifting a word from President Roosevelt, who lifted it from Mr. Justice Stone.

Chairman Henry F. Ashurst of the senate judiciary committee, who has the courage of his own inconsistencies and who called Dr. Green to testify, says the witness fully qualified for membership in the Resourceful, Shifting and Expedient Order of Chameleons, and Mr. Ashurst, the founder of that order, imposes rather rigid requirements.

The stenographic record, supplied to members of the committee before there was any opportunity for correcting or revising the proof sheets, shows that in response to a question by Senator Neely as to whether the witness submitted his statement to the justice department for censorship, he replied: "It is not correct, and no inference, no such possible inference, is correct."

It further shows:

Senator Connally—Did you submit it to anybody in the department of justice?

Mr. Green—He [the witness had mentioned Mr. Black] is in the department of justice, and so is Mr. Arnold. . . . I submitted it there yesterday afternoon. [Forrest Black and Thurman Arnold are special assistant United States attorneys general.]

Senator Connally—Did they make any suggestions?

Mr. Green—Well, they made a pretty good suggestion.

Senator Connally—And you made the change in accordance with that suggestion?

Mr. Green—I cut out a couple of citations.

Dr. Green says the statement that he became a convert to Mr. Roosevelt's plan on Feb. 6 was "wholly false." He could not have been converted much earlier because the plan was divulged to the world on Feb. 5. He testified that "the President's message came out on Saturday morning" in the newspapers and that he was "delighted." He said that the next morning, Sunday, he wrote his editorial, which was published in the New Republic, the same journal which published his opinion [unique among lawyers] that the sitdown strike is legal.

Dr. Green implies that there was no inconsistency between his views in 1934 and those he now professes on "the integrity and impartiality of our courts," but he explained to the committee that his 1934 speech was "extemporaneous, made in a very hot room. . . . I can say that I reserve the right, after I have given some study and reëxamined the premises, to restate my own view."

CHESLY MANLY.

PLEA FOR BROTHERHOOD.

Chicago, March 20.—Why do these domineering and greedy rich people that own big factories cry so loud when their employés step on their toes, as their employés' toes have been stepped on for years by them? Why can't we get together and live as God wants us to by helping one another? Give us starving people a living wage. You won't miss it.

OTTO PAGENKOFF.

SPAIN AND NEUTRALITY.

Chicago, March 23.—At last some of the foreign correspondents have begun to refer to the "rebels" in Spain as invaders. Only this word truly describes the nature of what has until now incorrectly been called a revolution.

Even the pro-Fascist press has ceased to mention Spaniards in Franco's army. It is either the Moors, the foreign legion, the Germans, or the Italians.

The legitimate people's government of Spain has defeated these foreign armies in turn. First the loyalists licked the Moors and the foreign legion, then they licked the Germans, and now they have licked the Italians. Obviously, one does not mention human standards in war, but even by war standards Franco has been defeated, he has lost his so-called revolution three times over. That the war continues is beyond question the most scandalous and atrocious event in modern history. Spain is being subject to a continuously renewed foreign invasion.

It is high time that we recognize the enormous gallantry of the Spanish people, it is high time we give them back their thrice-won rights as a nation among nations. The governments of the great powers, if there is any pretense at civilization left on this earth, must at least restore to Spain the right to buy munitions and supplies in order to expel foreign invaders from her territory.

MEYER LEVIN.

AMEN, BUT—

Chicago, March 24.—Sunday I read your platform and mentally said "Amen." I then read the editorial regarding trade pacts. Is it not rather incomplete? Or do you subscribe to the doctrin that the consumer is the property of the industrialist? I suggest you have Reuben D. Cahn compile a report showing the benefits to the consumer before pronouncing final judgment on the merits of Mr. Hull's program.

The net result of a continuing balance of trade against us would be the transfer of some of our gold from a hole in the ground to Europe or some other country.

I fear for the future of this country when such fine papers as THE TRIBUNE insidiously prolong the protective tarif fallacy. You prate of love for the constitution but not a word against our rotten banking system and unconstitutional money. Not a word in favor of a scientific system of taxation in our own state.

You fool many people, but not me.

LEO BROWN.

NO BETS OVERLOOKED.

Chicago, March 25.—If L. H. Branch had visited a legitimate greeting card dealer instead of "every dime, drug, cigar, and racket store," no doubt he would have found St. Patrick's day cards.

The greeting card houses have not overlooked St. Patrick's day. On the contrary, they make a very complete line, including such special captioned cards as "Your St. Patrick's Birthday," "Your Anniversary on St. Patrick's," etc.

Perhaps it is the dealers in De Kalb who have overlooked the day.

N. Y. ATTEMPT TO FIX MILK PRICES ENDS IN FAILURE

Expiring 4 Year Old Law Widely Denounced.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Condemned almost universally as a failure, the four year old experiment in milk price fixing by New York state will come to an end this week.

Farmers, dealers, and consumers alike today were hailing the switch of the milk industry from under the thumb of political control to the economic law of supply and demand. Milk price fixing has proved to be both unsound and unenforceable. So unpopular has the scheme become that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who guided the writing of the law in 1933, has refrained from pressing the legislature for the enactment of even a face saving measure. The law expires Thursday.

Retail Price to Drop.

The retail price of fluid basic milk, the kind used for drinking, cooking, and kindred purposes, is expected to drop from 12 to 10 cents a quart for advertised brands with the law's expiration. Some price cutting below this level is expected with independent dealers seeking to obtain a part of the city's 3,000,000 quarts a day market.

A joint legislative committee appointed by the governor to look into the price control situation recommended in a unanimous report last week that the scheme be discontinued because it had "broken down" and was "incapable of enforcement."

The minimum price was fixed for the farmer as well as the retailer under the scheme, but some dealers found ways of obtaining milk at lower prices, it was learned.

Bogus Coöperatives Used.

Some went out of the state for their supply. Others joined bogus coöperatives, and the dealer, by leasing his plant at an exorbitant rental, was able to recoup a substantial proportion of the minimum price which he apparently paid. Others achieved the same ends through fictitious management charges. Still others enjoyed secret rebates from brokers.

One large company which was said to be conforming to the law in every respect was hailed into court and threatened with the revocation of its license by the milk board after the concern had pointed out the defects of the price fixing scheme.

On the other hand, dealers whose licenses were revoked for flagrant violations of the law continued to operate anyway. Farmers parted with their surplus at bargain prices and this milk finding its way into circulation served further to demoralize the market.

Farmers Sense Losses.

The farmers found the law vitiated by the unequal enforcement of the political pay roll inspectors and came to the conclusion the system was losing money for them. Approximately 1,000 farms were advertised for tax sales in Chenango county in the heart of the dairy country in the fall of 1936, a tremendons increase over the number in previous years.

Fred H. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's league and farmers' spokesman, told a milk control conference last Dec. 29 that "regulatory control is necessarily political—the policies of control naturally become prejudiced by political considerations." The scheme, according to Sexauer, "encourages the dairy farmers to compete with each other for markets rather than uniting them for the protection of all." He demanded a return of the industry to a normal competitive condition.

Consumers' Protest Raised.

Consumers' organizations raised a howl as milk prices went up. In this connection it was pointed out that the consumption of fluid milk in New York City dropped 200,567,000 quarts in the five year period from 1931 through 1935. There was an increase of a scant 6 per cent in 1936, but no one credits the price fixing plan for it.

The big milk dealers, who had been charged with profiting by the law, came out squarely against it, however. H. A. Cronk, president of Borden's farm products division of Borden company, told the legislative committee on Jan. 10 that the plan could not possibly work.

Grocers appearing at the hearing told the committee they could sell milk much cheaper to the public than the price fixed by the control board and still make a profit.

MODEL'S HUSBAND

Robert Fowler, whom Veronica Gedeon wed when she was only 16 years old, was questioned by New York police in the girl's Easter murder, but could shed no light on the case. Their marriage later was annulled.

AWARD DIAMOND PINS TO VETERAN MILK DEALERS

Twenty-one veteran milk dealers of Chicago were honored at a banquet given by the Associated Milk Dealers in the Congress hotel last night. L. J. Janata, president of the association, gave each a diamond pin.

Among those who recalled early days of the milk industry were E. M. Bowman, Howard H. Wanzer, Charles J. Wieland, and Robert Wieland. The other dealers honored are Alfred Demaris, Julius Glick, Henry Jessen, William Devine, Herman Reiter Sr., Conrad Reitz, Sam G. Peck, Frank Sefcik, Peter Brucer, Joseph Weidig, James Perksen, Arnold Christiansen, Frank Betz, B. N. Hunding, Michael J. Metzger, G. H. Olson, and August Hartmann.

Two Blocks Are Destroyed by Fire in Lewiston, Me.

Lewiston, Me., March 30 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Fire early today destroyed two wooden blocks in the business section causing damage estimated by Police Chief John H. Ashton at $125,000. Woman Falls from 2d Floor as She Asks Boys to Hush

Mrs. Mary Ann O'Rourke, 72 years old, stepped out on the back porch of her second floor apartment at 6622 Drexel avenue yesterday to ask some boys to be less noisy. As she leaned against the railing, it gave way and she fell to the ground, suffering serious injuries.

WISP OF GRAY HAIR CLEW TO RAPIST SLAYER

nished by a friend of hers, also a model, who said the man's brother and the friends of the girl had all been trying to end the episode to prevent the breaking up of his home. The police had no confirmation of this report.

Among the day's suspects investigation concentrated on one man—Georges Guiret, known as "Frenchy" Gueret, 45, whose black hair is mixed with gray, and in whose room two stained handkerchiefs were seized. Gueret said the stains were the result of nose bleed. Guiret and Charles Mocoro, 40, a WPA worker and friend of "Frenchy" were detained tonight, but their release was expected.

Guiret is an ex-chauffeur and odd job man who was identified as having gone to the former rooming house of the Gedeons to inquire for them Saturday afternoon. His landlady, Mrs. Alice Peterson, said he came home drunk about 11 p. m. Saturday. He went to his room. Veronica Gedeon's rendezvous with death was not until 3 a. m. yet detectives, quizzing Guiret, plucked strands of hair from his head and sent them to the laboratory for comparison with the fingernail scrapings and the telltale wisps on the bedclothes.

Model Had Been Raped.

Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, acting chief medical examiner, established after an autopsy on the three bodies that Veronica was the last to meet death. Her mother, 52 years old and attractive, and the boarder, Byrnes, 35 were slain first.

Medical examination indicated that the model had been raped—like her mother—after slipping into the apartment at 3 a. m. Ronnie had been drinking heavily, too, the autopsy showed.

Stephen Butter Jr., 23, "Ronnie's" companion Saturday night, explained that they had had a bottle of gin in his father's apartment. After that they drank some beer. Butter left her at the entrance downstairs.

Apparently the killer, skulking in the apartment, bided his time before he struck. He waited—while her mother lay strangled under the bed and Byrnes, the boarder, stabbed with a needlepoint weapon, lay dead in his own bed—until after she had gone into the bathroom. Veronica undressed. She tarried in the bathroom long enough to put her hair in curlers.

Little Chance to Defend Self.

The autopsy indicated the girl had little opportunity to defend herself. That she made one feeble attempt was obvious from the wisps of hair under her finger nails. Mrs. Gedeon had put up a terrific battle. The knuckles of both hands were severely bruised, evidently in beating the attacker. Byrnes died without a struggle. The autopsy showed he had been killed in his sleep. But the slayer assaulted him viciously. There were eleven wounds in his left ear and neck.

Mere chance, it was disclosed saved two others from the killer's wrath. One was Mary Beacco, 20, an artists' model, who took a room with the Gedeons a week ago. She left Saturday to spend a week-end at North Adams, Mass. The other was Jean Carp, 20, Veronica's closest friend, who lives in the Bronx. She was to have been on the party with Butter and Veronica Saturday night. But a cold kept her home.

Threats to kill "the both of yez" had been heard from the flat of the slain three as long ago as last Thursday night, an occupant of the building told police.

ALBERTA REBELS BALK BUDGET TO FORCE 'DIVIDEND'

EDMONTON, Alta, March 29.—(AP)—Insurgent social credit advocates in the Alberta legislature today demanded an act to provide a monthly "consumers' dividend" for all eligible Albertans, but Premier William Aberhart indicated his government would stand or fall on the budget it has proposed.

The insurgents also outlined a plan for "borrowing from security holders" under the security tax bill which they are supporting. Premier Aberhart, who was elected on a social security platform, has opposed a securities tax to finance consumers' dividends at present, and has warned against danger of "confiscation."

FAIL 3D TIME TO APPEAR AGAINST SON IN ROBBERY

As on two previous occasions, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shapiro failed yesterday to appear in the Criminal court of Judge Robert Jerome Dunne to prosecute their son, Harold, 21 years old, and three companions for complicity in robbing the couple of $6,345 in their apartment at 7100 South Shore drive last Dec. 28. Judge Dunne continued the case until April 26. At that time, if the Shapiros are still missing, the defense will be entitled to a dismissal of the robbery charges.

Flames Cause Alarm in North Chicago Hospital

Scores of patients in the Veterans' hospital near North Chicago were temporarily alarmed early today by a smouldering fire which broke out in the hospital laundry. The hospital, which receives only mental cases, is south of North Chicago and just west of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. The laundry is located several hundred feet from the hospital proper. Damage was small.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., March 30 [Tuesday].—(AP)—[Via Pan-American Airways Radio.]—The big Pan-American Clipper, pioneering a commercial air route of 6,820 miles between California and Australasia, landed in the harbor here today after negotiating the final leg in the journey, a 1,797 mile flight from Pago Pago, American Samoa.

PRISONER SHOT BY SHERIF IN ESCAPE FIGHT

De Kalb County Plot of Youths Exposed.

Hennepin, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—While his wife, Winifred, grappled with a prisoner in a hallway leading to the county jail, Sherif Lawrence Ellena of Putnam county today shot the prisoner through his head. The sherif's daughter, Ellen, 6 years old, looked on in terror.

Physicians at St. Margaret's hospital in Spring Valley said the wounded man, known only as Cannon from Missouri, probably would die. A man seized with him, who said he was Clarence Wells, 35, of Fandon, Ill., was in custody but refused to talk.

Loading Stolen Seed.

Sherif Ellena trapped the men as they loaded stolen clover seed into a sedan bearing a Missouri license on a lonely road seven miles east and two miles south of Hennepin. He left Wells in care of a trusty at the courthouse and took Cannon into a nearby building which serves as the county jail and the sherif's living quarters.

As the sherif tried to question him the prisoner broke loose and landed a terrific right hand punch on Ellena's nose, fracturing it. Mrs. Ellena came downstairs and battled with Cannon over a blackjack which had fallen from the sherif's pocket to the floor.

Shot Goes Through Head.

Sherif Ellena, dazed by the blow, recovered in time to see Cannon attempt to strike his wife. He pulled the gun from his pocket and aiming high to avoid hitting her, sent a bullet into Cannon's head just above his ear. The missile came out the other side and lodged in some woodwork.

The sherif, a Republican, took office in December, 1934. Two years ago he shot and killed a bank robber in a gun battle near Lenore, Ill. Of late there has been a wave of seed and harness robberies in Putnam county. The sherif charged Cannon and Wells were responsible for all of them.

Foils Youths' Escape.

Sycamore, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—An escape plot involving three young prisoners at the De Kalb county jail was foiled and the leader identified, Sherif O. N. Larson said today.

Oscar Zeller, 16 years old, a trusty, was seized by the sherif and a deputy last night as he sought to retrieve a master key to a cell block. He had hidden the key in the jail kitchen. Zeller, who, Larson said, was the leader, then named Allen Chapman, 16, and Jack Scarbrough, 15, as the others in the plot.

Thief Makes a Haul as Stamp Society Dines

A sneak thief invaded a cloak room in the North Shore hotel in Evanston last night while forty members of the Evanston Philatelic society were at dinner. He took an overcoat belonging to De Less A. Grant, 1239 Elmwood avenue, and a brief case owned by George Aten, 820 Foster street. Aten said the brief case contained a stamp collection which he valued at $3,000 and a book containing autographs of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Howard Hughes, and the late Wiley Post, flyers.

FREDERICK JONES' ESTATE MOUNTS TO $1,600,000

Distribution Approved; Charities Get Bulk.

Judge John F. O'Connell of Probate court yesterday approved final distribution of the $1,600,000 estate of Frederick Bennett Jones, who left the bulk of his fortune to charity. The court action disclosed that the estate had more than doubled in value since Mr. Jones died on April 9, 1933.

Mr. Jones was a vice president of the Adams & Westlake company, manufacturer of railway supplies. He was a brother of the late Frank Hatch Jones, banker and lawyer.

Securities Boost Value.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company was executor and trustee of the estate. Their report showed that among the items distributed were $36,318 in cash, $1,255,000 in bonds, and $302,320 in stocks. The great rise in value of the estate was due to improvement in the securities market. Mr. Jones had invested in hundreds of municipal bonds, which have increased in value since 1933.

The executor also disclosed that a will contest brought by five cousins, who were not mentioned, had been settled out of court by paying each $15,000.

Cousin Receives Trust.

Bequests totaling $46,000 were made to other relatives, servants, and employés of the Adams & Westlake company. Mrs. Dora Mortimer, a cousin and Mr. Jones' housekeeper, received the income from a $100,000 trust.

Upon her death the trust will go to the Chicago Community trust. This organization also received $50,000 outright, and the balance of the estate, after all other bequests have been made. This residuary estate amounts to $547,000. Had the estate not increased in value the Community trust probably would have received nothing.

Institutions Remembered.

Other charitable bequests included $50,000 each to the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, the Chicago Home for the Friendless, the Children's Memorial hospital, the Chicago Home for Incurables, the Old People's home, the Salvation Army, and the Allendale association.

Gifts of $25,000 each were made to the Glenwood Manual Training school, the Loyal Order of Moose, the Little Sisters of the Poor, the Boy Scouts, the Lighthouse, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Chicago Polyclinic [now Henrotin hospital] for the nursing school, the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, and the public library at Pittsfield, Ill., to build an annex.

Police Widow Leaves $100,000.

Judge O'Connell admitted to probate yesterday the will of Mrs. Mary Haran, widow of John J. Haran, a retired policeman. An estate of $100,000 was left in trust for four sons. Mrs. Haran died in her home at 5054 Madison street on March 24. According to Attorney James J. Gaughan, the bulk of the estate was inherited by Policeman Haran from relatives in Ireland a short time before his death in 1934.

Among other wills admitted to probate were those of the following:

MARCELLA BENSON, died March 9. Estate of $20,000 to two sisters. Raymond S. Watts, executor.

JULIA GREENWALD, died March 7. Estate of $60,000 to two sons. Edgar, son, administrator.

PIETERTJE BRANDT, died Feb. 22. Estate of $10,600 to two daughters and two sons. Cornelius Brandt, son, administrator.

S. H. Warner, Ex-Member of Board of Trade, Is Dead

Sidney H. Warner, a former member of the Chicago Board of Trade, died yesterday in his home in Los Angeles, Cal. He was 74 years old. Mr. Warner was born in Mendota, Ill., entered the grain commission business when he was 19 years old, and moved to California in 1927, three years after his retirement. He is survived by his widow, Ruth, whom he married in 1928 after the death of his first wife, Matilda and a daughter, Mrs. Sidney E. Prince of Chicago. He will be buried in Los Angeles after services there tomorrow.

Louis Roos, 72, of Letter Service Field, Is Dead

Louis Roos, 72 years old, well known in the letter service field in Milwaukee and Chicago, died of heart disease yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital in Milwaukee. A native of Duluth, Minn., he had lived in Milwaukee for the last thirty years. His home was at 2202 North 25th street. Surviving are his widow, Clara; a sister, Mrs. William Gomberg of Detroit, and two sons, Elias, of Milwaukee, and Max W. Roos of Chicago.

Otto A. Meyer of Pioneer North Indiana Family, Dies

Otto A. Meyer, 62 years old, member of a pioneer northern Indiana family, died on Sunday in his home on Cedar Lake, Ind., according to word received here yesterday. Mr. Meyer was born on the homestead obtained by his parents in 1852. Surviving are his widow, Anna, and two sons, Herbert and Harold.

LONDON WOEFUL; SEES CORONATION CASH DWINDLING

Sightseeing Buses Are Prohibited.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29. — Tourist agents here were dismayed today by a sudden decision of London authorities to ban sightseeing buses during most of May—the month in which King George VI. of Great Britain will be crowned. They fear this will cut still further the number of tourists, already sharply reduced by the abdication of King Edward VIII. The loss was estimated at $300,000. Optimistic estimates give 20,000 as the number of Americans who will be here for the coronation.

An American Express company official was quoted as saying of the ban on buses:

"There is likely to be a real rumpus about this. Hundreds of Americans have made their arrangements to be in London for ten days or more in order to see London properly as well as the coronation itself on May 12. Now we will have to tell them that the whole of our published programs must be considered canceled."

Banned for Coronation Week.

Gleeson Robinson, London commissioner of trafic, said: "The matter is closed. There will be no discussion."

Buses have been restricted from May 3 to May 23. During coronation week they will not travel at all.

Though all efforts have been made to give the impression that hordes of Americans will come to London for the coronation, few are arriving before the first week of April. Ships leaving New York for England make seventy "coronation sailings" after April 1. Their combined capacity is 21,000 passengers, for some of them carry but a dozen passengers.

Forged tickets for coronation seats during the procession have been sold in large numbers, and many who bought seats early in the hope of getting a better price have begun to worry as to whether the tickets they possess are genuine. Londoners have been warned to verify any tickets bought from any dubious or irregular source.

Price of Seats May Drop.

There is every reason to believe that the present rate of seats, which averages about $30, will fall before coronation day. The demand has fallen far short of expectations. Agents and speculators are believed to be hanging on just as long as possible in order to sell as many as possible before cutting prices.

One sign that the demand for vantage places is over estimated is that the government provided 5,000 seats for Australian officials when only 2,500 were requested. The rest were offered at the cost of construction to Australian tourists. The supply still exceeded the demand.

Many tourists have been frightened away by early reports that a rush is expected. It is believed the realization that such reports acted as a boomerang prompted the latest line of publicity—namely that 80,000 rooms now are available besides those already taken.

A new effort to increase the attendance for the coronation is the extension of licensing laws in order to allow visitors to drink as late as midnight instead of 10:30 or 11 p. m.

Mrs. Mabel Frisbee, Leader in Church Work, Dies at 64

Mrs. Mabel Yearick Frisbee, 64 years old, 4829 Dorchester avenue, who was active in church and philanthropic work, died in her home yesterday after a brief illness. Mrs. Frisbee, the widow of William J. Frisbee, lived most of her life in Bushnell, Ill. In 1929 and 1930 she was president of the state chapter of the P. E. O. sisterhood. Mrs. Frisbee is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Willis Van Pelt of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5203 Lake Park avenue. The body will be sent to Bushnell for burial.

Brig. Gen. H. A. Ingalls, Wearer of D. S. C., Dies

Roswell, N. M., March 29.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Henry Allison Ingalls, 68, who received citations in both the Spanish-American and world wars, including the distinguished service cross, died here today. He suffered a paralytic stroke a year ago. A fellow in the American College of Surgery, Dr. Ingalls was promoted to the reserve rank of brigadier general in 1926. He was wounded in the world war.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, March 29.—(AP)—Sir Alexander Seton is sending back to Egypt a bit of bone, supposedly from a Pharaoh's skeleton, because:

Visitors complain about a ghostlike figure wandering through the house.

Maids won't stay in the house more than one night, and each complained about the spectral robed figure.

Two fires broke out in the house.

Glassware put in cabinets was found smashed to bits.

He lent the bone to a surgeon once, and that night the surgeon's maid broke her leg running away, in terror, she said, from a robed fantom. [The surgeon returned the bone the next day.]

His family has suffered an unprecedented series of sudden illnesses.

The small piece of bone, in a glass case, was brought to Scotland last year by Lady Seton, who picked it up as a curio from a tomb at Gizeh.

Convinced the strange happenings could "not have been coincidences," Seton said today:

"That bone is going to be replaced in the tomb it was taken from as quickly as possible.

"And Lady Seton is making the trip herself to make sure it gets there. This ghastly business has got to stop."

MIKAS BAGDONAS, CONSUL HERE FOR LITHUANIA, DIES

Funeral services for Dr. Mikas Bagdonas, acting Lithuanian consul in Chicago, will be held at 9 a. m. Thursday from the consulate at 100 Bellevue place to the Providence of God church, 18th street and Union avenue. Dr. Bagdonas, who was 42 years old and a bachelor, died of pneumonia late Sunday evening in the Holy Cross hospital.

Dr. Bagdonas spent ten years in the Lithuanian embassy in Washington. He came to Chicago last Nov. 3 to succeed Dr. Antanas Kalvaitis. Dr. Bagdonas attended Harvard university for a time. He took his law degree at Loyola university here.

He was appointed by Mayor Kelly as honorary chairman of the Chicago Charter Jubilee committee.

A. M. CRAIGIE, 58, DIES; ONCE WITH PALMOLIVE CO.

A. M. Craigie, 58 years old, former general sales manager of the Palmolive-Peet company, died yesterday in his home at 444 St. James place after an illness of two weeks. Death was caused by pneumonia.

Mr. Craigie, a native Chicagoan, was associated with the Palmolive company for twenty-five years, much of the time as sales manager.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Sammons Craigie; two brothers, James and Frank, and a sister, Mrs. William Rouen, all of Chicago. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel of Graceland cemetery.

Bomb Shatters Windows of Tavern and Foodshop

A black powder bomb was exploded early today in the entrance of a tavern at 8822½ Stony Island avenue. It broke the windows and damaged the interior of the tavern and also shattered the windows of a foodshop adjoining on the north. The tavern is owned by Fulton Trowbridge and the foodshop by Lawrence Smith. Smith's brother, Gilbert Smith, who was sleeping in the rear of the foodshop, was thrown out of bed by the explosion. Police estimated total damage at $500. No motive was found.

Oldest Harvard Graduate, Henry M. Rogers, Dies at 98

Boston, Mass., March 29.—(AP)—Henry Munroe Rogers, 98, Harvard's oldest graduate, died today, 48 hours after the death of his friend, John T. Morse Jr., 97, who claimed the distinction of being out of Harvard the longest of any graduate. The Harvard alumu office said Rogers' death made John Kittredge Browne, 93, of 19 South La Salle street, Chicago, Harvard's oldest living graduate. Browne was graduated in 1869.

OBITUARY.

ALVAH C. FRINK, 82, cited for bravery against the Sioux and Cheyennes during the Indian wars in the old west, died at Haverhill, Mass., yesterday. Frink enlisted in the army in 1876 and served five years. He was credited with having saved the life of Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles during an engagement in Montana.

THOMAS D. RHODES, 80, retired railroad official and financier of Cincinnati, died yesterday at the home of a son in Asheville, N. C. He was a director of the Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia and the Cincinnati Belt Line railroads and once had served as receiver of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad. In 1905 he moved to New York to take charge of the New York, Westchester & Boston railroad.

EDWARD REACHES HIS NEW RETREAT AT ST. WOLFGANG

He's 184 Miles Closer to Wally.

ST. WOLFGANG, Austria, March 29.—(AP)—In a modest and secluded yellow house with green shutters, the duke of Windsor began tonight a new effort to live a "democratic" life—far from crowds and the curious.

The former King Edward VIII. of England had a mountain vista, a lake, and the colorful scenery that inspired Broadway's current production, "White Horse Inn"—and he was 184 miles closer to Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, for whom he gave up the throne.

Deserting the château of the Baron Rothschilds, where he had found haven since his departure from England last December, Edward arrived from Enzesfeld shortly before 6 o'clock tonight.

Travels in Snow and Rain.

Signs proclaiming "Apesbach pension" had been torn down and new signs read: "Private property. Keep out. Entrance forbidden." This was to aid the duke in his desire, as he once told a friend, to be "democratic" again without the fanfare of crowds.

Windsor, dressed in gray overcoat, light brown suit, and red scarf, and hatless, stepped from his big Canadian built car, to be greeted on the back porch of his new home by the chief of servants.

En route through rain, snow, and fog, he had paused at Melk and Saint Florian monastry, and Ischl. Luggage and clothing were piled high in his sedan, almost concealing him, and a second car with 2 detectives brought more luggage — sufficient trappings until he departs for France where he is expected to wed Mrs. Simpson in May.

House Has 16 Rooms.

His sixteen room house stands alone on a promontory extending into Wolfgang lake, one of a half dozen in the vicinity. A member of his entourage hinted that the duke took the house—far less pretentious than the Enzesfeld château—to economize.

Windsor made a quick survey before dinner, and retired to his suite—which includes a bedroom facing the lake, a newly furnished bath and dressing room. His rooms have two balconies, and the bedroom is furnished with writing desk, sofa, bed, and wardrobe.

WOMAN TRIES TO DIE; CLAIMS SHE IS PRINCESS

Mrs. Marie Lorraine, 48 years old, 659 Wrightwood avenue, who signed five suicide notes "Princess Marie Hapsburg," was in the County hospital last night in a critical condition from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Mrs. Lorraine claimed to be the daughter of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, whose bullet pierced body and that of his alleged sweetheart, Baroness Marie Vetsera, were found in the royal hunting lodge at Meyerling, Austria, in 1889. Whether they died in a suicide pact or were assassinated has never been determined.

Michael Girten, 5827 Princeton avenue, Austrian consul here, said Mrs. Lorraine had gone to him with her claims several months ago. She said she had been kidnaped and brought to this country when four months old. Girten could find no basis for the claims, he said.

WPA Wages Too Small; He Steals Mail to Play Races

Norman W. Lynch, 21 years old, 2634 South 58th court, Cicero, couldn't live and bet on the ponies on the $54 a month he received as a WPA worker, so he stole checks and letters from mail boxes. He confessed this yesterday to Police Chief Joseph Pilat of Berwyn and was turned over to postal authorities. Chief Pilat said that Lynch admitted taking 800 letters and forging indorsements on more than 50 checks.

Admits $50,000 Mail Fraud and Is Sent to Leavenworth

Emanuel L. Stern, 55 years old, 7051 Oglesby avenue, pleaded guilty to a mail fraud charge before Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday and was sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth penitentiary. Stern was charged with having defrauded New York merchants of $50,000 by obtaining goods on credit and selling same for his own gain. Six months of his sentence was for resisting arrest last November.

23 Venezuela Exiles Reach Panama on Way to Mexico

COLON, Panama, March 29.—(AP)—Twenty-three Venezuelans, expelled from the country under a recent decree of President Eleazar Lopez Contreras of Venezuela, whose régime they opposed, arrived here today on their way to Mexico, where they hope to find new homes. Most of them were members of the national democratic party. Some are communists.

VETERAN HANGS SELF.

Leonard Kacz, 37 years old, a world war veteran, hanged himself with his belt yesterday in the home of his sister, Mrs. Jean Dickinson, 2543 Wabansia avenue.

WM. M. BUTLER, WHO KILLED AAA PROCESS TAXES, DIES IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., March 29.—(AP)—William Morgan Butler, former United States senator from Massachusetts and textile corporation executive, died today at his home here.

Butler, 76 years old, with John McDonough of Boston, was a co-receiver for the Hoosac Mills corporation, of which he had been president.

With McDonough, Butler challenged the processing tax provisions of the agricultural adjustment act and obtained a ruling from the Supreme court declaring the processing tax unconstitutional.

Butler served as chairman of the Republican national committee in 1924 and managed President Calvin Coolidge's campaign at that time. He was appointed United States senator from Massachusetts on Nov. 13, 1924, for the term ending in November, 1926.

VOTE TO INDICT 9 ON CHARGES OF BALLOT FRAUDS

Nine officials and workers in the thirty-second precinct of the first ward were reported named by the grand jury yesterday in true bills charging them with conspiracy to alter ballots in the primary of April 14, 1936.

Assistant State's Attorneys Frank Christianson and John Boyle said ballots cast in the precinct showed more than 100 erasures and alterations. Ninety persons who did not vote were entered on the precinct polling records as having voted, they added.

Those reported named by the grand jury are Louise Blount, colored, 133 West 27th street, Republican clerk; Anthony Gatonne, 2837 Wentworth avenue, and Salvatore Montesano, 2843 Wentworth avenue, Democratic judges; Clarence Davis, colored, 133 West 27th street, a Republican judge; Pasquale Donato, 2805 Wentworth avenue, a Democratic clerk, and his brother, John, Democratic captain of the precinct; Joseph Delberto, 2725 Wentworth avenue, Republican captain; Policeman William Doty, colored, of the Pekin station, who was on duty in the precinct, and John Bachman, 850 West 53d street, a paid watcher for the election commission.

SURPRISE RULING PROLONGS TRIAL IN CLAIM FRAUD

The trial of Attorney Leo M. Tarpey and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Feeley on charges of conspiracy to collect by means of false accident claims was prolonged yesterday by an unexpected ruling by Judge George Fred Rush in Criminal court.

Reversing a previous ruling, the judge held that the state can show other acts in the conspiracy that are not charged in the indictment. Attorney James Mahoney for the Chicago Surface lines had previously testified that the Feeleys had filed several other accident claims against the company.

Taken by surprise by the new ruling, Assistant States Attorney Brown gained a continuance until today to assemble new witnesses.

A Lifetime Possession

Here are books that you will read and reread and hold as your most prized possession for all of your life. Books of majestic, enduring beauty. Books no truly American home can afford to be without. And yours—because you are a reader of the Chicago Tribune—practically as a gift!

Read the giant list of titles for a foretaste of the pleasure so soon to be yours. Think of the years of delightful entertainment these enchanting volumes will provide for you and your family!

Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn—can all the field of living literature show two more famous characters? What child and what adult has not breathlessly followed their adventures? "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," "The Prince and the Pauper," "Joan of Arc"! What novels in all the libraries of the earth are more justly renowned, more widely loved? Only Mark Twain had such breadth of genius as to encompass ALL these!

"Connecticut Yankee" is perhaps the most uproarious, side-splitting riot of fun ever penned. "Joan of Arc" is a tender, compassionate, adoring tribute, a soul-searing tale that will leave your eyes wet with tears and your heart uplifted with heroic inspiration. "The Prince and the Pauper" was Mark Twain's own favorite, most famous of all child's stories. Transformed into a play, Mark Twain himself and his children acted in it. Transformed into a movie, the amazing adventures of a prince and beggar boy who changed places enchanted the audiences of the world!

The Most Diverting Stories in Literature

Who has read "Innocents Abroad," "A Tramp Abroad," "Life on the Mississippi" and not been moved to loud, gleeful chuckles? Who can read "Following the Equator," "Europe and Elsewhere," or any of Twain's works, and not dissolve into tears of mirth at the delightful, prankish nonsense, the ecstatic tomfoolery of this exalted fun-maker?

Here are travel tales so joyous, stimulating, and wisdom-filled that none can even be classed with them! Here are short stories and novelettes—in such volumes as "Sketches, New and Old," "Tom Sawyer, Detective," and "Mysterious Stranger"—furnishing the most brilliant, ever-changing diversion that literature has to offer!

Essays sober and rollicking, notebooks warmly human and intimate—words can depict but vaguely the power, range, and fascination of this unsurpassed library. A vast round of unending, exhilarating recreation such as you have never known—fun-crammed hours such as you have never experienced!

You cannot AFFORD to lose so rare an opportunity. Reserve your set TODAY! Read below how easily these unparalleled volumes can be yours—almost as a gift through The Chicago Tribune!

HERE'S HOW YOU GET YOUR BOOKS!

The first thing to do in order to receive your library is to fill in and mail the Reservation Form and Label at the right.

You will be sent by return mail Privilege Vouchers entitling you to the complete library of twenty-four volumes. As soon as we receive your reservation the first two volumes will be printed and bound, to be ready for you, straight from the presses, two weeks from now. Every volume comes to you published by Harper & Bros.

When the first group of two volumes is place in your hands the second group is put to press, to be ready for delivery at the end of two more weeks—and so on until your twenty-four volume library is complete.

You will find each day on Page 6 of the Daily Tribune a numbered Mark Twain Certificate. Clip out and save these until you have 12 of them. Then bring in or mail your 12 Certificates with appropriate Voucher and 67 cents for each complete group of two volumes. Not 67 cents for each volume, but 67 cents for BOTH VOLUMES. There is no more to do—nothing more to pay.

You can commence to collect the numbered Certificates at any time within the next few days, but the sooner you begin the more quickly will this incomparable library be in your home.

Important!

In extending this great privilege to readers of the Tribune, there are two difficulties, both of which make it necessary for you to act promptly if you want your volumes.

First, there is the difficulty of supplying a huge demand with the limited edition which the copyright owners have permitted to be published. No reservations can be accepted beyond the allotted figure!

Second, the cost of paper, printing and binding is rising every day. If you do not reserve your set immediately, we cannot guarantee to supply the volumes at the nominal cost mentioned above!

MARK TWAIN

GOOD-WILL PRESENTATION TO ALL Chicago Tribune READERS

SPRING FASHIONS

The famous Dionne quintuplets are all ready, weather permitting, to burst forth in their new spring outfits. And spring can't come any too soon for them after the long winter at their Ontario home. Here they are posing for you in their newest attire.

Marie is attempting to point out the fact that she is all dressed up in white dress, bonnet, and shoes.

Emilie takes this business seriously. She daintily lifts her skirts as she bows a greeting.

"See my new spring bonnet" is the greeting from Annette, who loves to smile for the photographer when he calls to take her picture.

Cecile did her posing this time in a sitting position. Her face reflects her joy in the new clothes.

And last comes Yvonne, dropping a curtsey as if to say: "I knew you'd like it." The girls are all in best of health under the direction of Dr. Dafoe.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

In Editor Wilfred Funk's list of the nation's ten most overworked words were three which get a lot of abuse in broadcasting — swell, lousy, and terrific. But those aren't the only words [and corruptions of them], or phrases that have been ringing in our ears, eavesdropping on studio conversations. There's "colousy," for instance, which comes from colossal plus lousy.

Even this word is no longer strong enough to convey the feeling that many performers and sponsors have for their competitors' efforts. "It stinks" is the way they quaintly put it. The word is even being heard on the air occasionally. Bert Lahr and George Jessel were the last two heard getting away with it. Ted Husing, always original, uses "putrid" instead.

"Terrific" is, of course, the word to use in telling a sponsor what his show was like; alternatives are: "Nice going," "A swell job," "You came through like a million," "It was ockle-dockle" [from oakie-doakie]. Confidentially, of course, it was "just one of those things."

Current studio terms of address: "Dearie," "Ma-fran'," "Palsy-walsy," and "My pal." On taking leave of a palsy-walsy a radio performer says "Goom-by" or "Be-seeunya."

"Send in the boxtop along with 25 cents, to cover the cost of mailing, for a generous free sample."

"Or double your money back."

"Coast to coast network——"

"Listen in the same time next week."

And then there are several that we get too often on picking up the telephone:

"I'm starting on my vacation next week. Could you get me a couple of tickets to Jack Benny's broadcast?"

"Why, I sing better than that myself—if you could only get me an audition——"

"Our sorority is going to sing on the NBC—can you use a picture of us next Sunday? There are only 48 of us——"

When "Do You Want to Be an Actor?" is dropped within a month or so it will be replaced by a full hour musical, dramatic, comedy, variety show from 7 to 8 Sunday evenings on the NBC-Red network. Plans are still in the making, but it probably will have Don Ameche as master of ceremonies, and Edgar Bergen of the Vallee Varieties also will be used.

Kate Smith is to receive the annual award for outstanding radio achievement, presented by the Women's National Exposition of Arts and Industries, on her broadcast of Thursday, April 1. [Not an April Fool's joke.] It was not stated whether the award is for her warbling or for efforts in getting the moon over the mountain.

SHIP CHEATS SEA; CHICAGOANS SAFE ON HONEYMOON

Leak in Vessel Plugged as It Makes for Japan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 29.—The American freighter Volunteer, battered since early Saturday in a storm 800 miles off Kobe, Japan, and imperiled when pumps became clogged as water poured in through a damaged hull, was wallowing toward Kobe tonight after the crew had succeeded in plugging up the leak.

Chicago Honeymooners Aboard.

Aboard the Volunteer was a Chicago couple, bound for various points in the Pacific on a six month vagabond honeymoon. They are John Cord, former display advertising manager for a loop department store, and his bride, the former Dorothy Eads, daughter of A. B. Eads, former advertising manager of the old Inter-Ocean, Chicago. The Cords were married Jan. 19, and boarded the Volunteer at Galveston, Tex., Feb. 16.

When the freighter became so logged with water that it was in danger of sinking, its capitain sent two calls for help within four hours Saturday, and the big liner Empress of Canada and Japanese vessels turned off their courses to give aid.

Convoy Resumes Voyage.

One source here tonight said the New Orleans, La., office of the Lykes Brothers-Ripley Steamship company, Inc., owners of the vessel, had been informed that the Volunteer was proceeding toward Kobe at a speed of seven knots an hour. This source said the Japanese ship Uyo Maru had remained near the Volunteer for some time to act as a convoy, but finally continued its voyage, when the Volunteer rode out the danger. Other vessels resumed their courses earlier.

Reports that the crew of 37 and the two passengers had been removed from the ship proved to be erroneous.

10,200 Police Aspirants Cram for Final Exams

Ten thousand two hundred aspirants to places on the city police force were cramming yesterday for the final written examinations Saturday in three high schools. They are the survivors from a group of 28,000. The others failed to pass the physical examinations.

Miss Kathleen Bagley to Be Married Today

Ceremony to Take Place in Miami Beach.

BY JUDITH CASS.

BRIDES who do not occupy as much space in the social columns during the Lenten season as they do during the other days of the year for the simple reason that no large wedding ceremonies are planned for the six weeks preceding Easter are in the limelight again.

This morning in Miami Beach two young Chicagoans are being married and there will be a large representation of relatives and friends from Chicago in the church and at the reception.

The bride is Miss Kathleen Bagley, daughter of the Joseph Bagleys, and the bridegroom is Edward Charles Hogan, son of the Thomas D. Hogans. The ceremony is being read at 11:30 o'clock in St. Patrick's church with a reception afterward at the Bagleys' Florida home on Sunset Island No. 1. After a wedding trip to Nassau Mr. Hogan and his bride will live in New York.

Mrs. George F. Douaire Jr. of Chicago will be the matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Hogan, the bridegroom's sister, and Nancy Bagley, the bride's little cousin, will be other attendants. Thomas D. Hogan Jr. will be his brother's best man and ushering will be W. Irving Osborne Jr. of Chicago, John Rice Jr. of Easton, Pa., and Samuel F. Pryor Jr. of Greenwich, Conn.

Bridal Gown Will Be White Marquisette.

Mrs. Douaire and Miss Hogan are to wear pale yellow marquisette with purple velvet belts, large hats, and will carry purple iris. Nancy will wear powder blue marquisette and carry yellow iris. The bridal gown is of white marquisette over a satin slip with appliqués of satin flowers on the hem and the train. Her veil is finger-tip length and she will carry white tulips and valley lilies.

Several parties have been given recently for Miss Bagley and Mr. Hogan, among them a cocktail party last Saturday at which Mrs. Douaire was hostess, followed by a family dinner at the Bagleys' home. Sunday the John Brennans of Chicago, who have a house at Miami Beach for the season, gave a cocktail party, after which Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mills of Chicago took a large group for a moonlight cruise and supper party aboard their yacht, the Minoco.

Among other Chicagoans at the wedding will be the bridegroom's parents, Mrs. Hogan Jr., Miss Emily Goehst, the Edward H. Bagleys, the Thomas Condons, and the Bernard Fallons.

Janet Llewellyn Wedding Tonight.

At a ceremony at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Indian Hill club Miss Janet Anne Llewellyn will become the bride of Harry Orlin Owen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Owen of 3920 Sheridan road, Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Sturtevant will give a reception afterward for their daughter and her bridegroom.

Miss Llewellyn's maid of honor will be Miss Elizabeth Potter of Evanston, and her cousin, Miss Betty Mosser of Williamsport, Pa., and Miss Marjorie Leach of Evanston, Miss Betty Sellery of Highland Park, and Mrs. William Bryant of Lexington, Ky., will be bridesmaids.

John Llewellyn, who is here for his spring vacation from Dartmouth, will be best man for his future brother-in-law, and Edward Shumaker of Merchantville, N. J.; Dinwiddie Lampton of Louisville, Ky.; Daniel Hart and Don Petty of Evanston will be ushers.

After a wedding trip to the West Indies Mr. Owen and his bride will be at home May 15 in Niles Center. The Sturtevants gave a dinner at home in Winnetka last night for their daughter and her fiancé, and today Mrs. Harold R. Stone is entertaining at luncheon for them.

From Southport, Conn., where Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Van Schaick, formerly of Highland Park, are now living, comes the announcement of the approaching marriage of their daughter Marjorie to the Rev. Sewall Emerson on April 8 at Trinity church in Southport.

Miss Helen Van Schaick will be her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Mary Morris Van Schaick of Chicago will be one of her cousin's bridesmaids.

The Rev. Mr. Emerson, who is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Kendall Emerson of New York, will have his brother, Dr. Kendall Emerson Jr. of Baltimore, as his best man. Gerrit W. Van Schaick, Miss Van Schaick's brother, will be an usher. After the

Danilova Sets a New High in Ballet Career

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Alexandra Danilova, who is one of the most genuinely important people in the Ballet Russe, thoughtfully chose March 29 as a day on which to rise to one of the peaks of her career. That means that the Auditorium theater audience of last night saw a "Lac des Cygnes" that we can boast to our grandchildren about after Danilova and all of her bright colleagues shall have gone into some other business.

The gossamer beauty of this remarkable artist's dancing is certainly no new story to Chicago, but it seemed last night as if she crossed the gulf that yawns between excellence and perfection and stayed on the far side of it through the whole Tschaikowsky ballet. There was an exquisite sureness about every movement, a certain fullness of realization each time a new airy episode summoned her forth.

Since this review began in such an extravagant fashion it shall continue thus. Paul Petroff mimed the gallant prince in "Lac des Cygnes," took his appointed parts in "Choreartium" and, well after 10 o'clock, returned fresh as morning to become the Spirit of the Rose and bring a big ovation thundering around his and Riabouchinska's heads. Here was an essay in utter buoyancy so successful that there was no smallest sound during most of "Le Spectre" but the aged, youthful music of Weber to which the piece is set.

The Ballet Russe is growing and changing right under our eyes. Notice the way new favorites are being developed to supplement, not to supplant, the familiar dancers. As the répertoire grows and new rôles open up, one person after another is summoned forth from comparative obscurity and billed on the program in such a way as to permit the public to learn his name and come to recognize him at each entrance. The process can go on and on, for the troupe seems extremely rich in material that needs nothing but a good buildup.

Petroff is one of these comparatively new favorites. Another is Verchinina, who two years ago was given a choice plum in the shape of the leading part in "Choreartium's" second movement. Since then she has figured importantly in "Symphonie Fantastique" as well. Last night applause broke into the movement at her entrance in "Choreartium" and testified to the fact that the public now recognizes her as one of the ballet's finest artists.

Jasinsky, Lazovsky, Adrianova, Morosova, and Nelidova are being featured in fairly important parts in preparation, evidently, for the spotlight. The process is going on continuously and these names represent but a few out of the total.

One performance tonight, two tomorrow, one Thursday—then the ballet leaves Chicago. Its progress from now on is vaguely eastward, for the troupe will go to England for the coronation period.

Studio to Send Sets to N. Y. for Flagstad Sequence in Movie

Hollywood, Cal., March 29.—[Special.]—Because Kirsten Flagstad, opera star, either cannot or prefers not to visit the film center, Paramount studio early in May will move director, technical crew, sound technicians, production staf, and carloads of sets and film equipment to New York in order to "shoot" the Wagnerian soprano in one sequence of "The Big Broadcast of 1937." The studio announced the signing of her contract today.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Recipe for sparkling, youthful eyes: Professional care, if needed, plus a sensible eye-beauty routine. Use a good eye bath, a cream to defeat lines and medicated pads to soothe the eyes and promote relaxation when you're weary.

The oculist, and a good one, is your best friend if you've the slightest reason to suspect that your eyes need attention. There's no substitute for good professional care of your eyes.

But entirely aside from the eye defects that need expert attention there are a few little safe and sane tricks that will keep your eyes clean and youthful and rested looking. Every working woman, in particular, should take to them. The tired-eyed business woman is to be found all over the city lot; she'd feel and look better if she included her eyes in her beauty routine.

It's just silly to pass up glasses if they're needed. We haven't a word to say to any one that foolish. But the average woman, even though she doesn't need glasses, often finds her two soul windows in a deplorable state. Maybe she just stayed up too late, or read "Gone with the Wind" at a gallop. Or maybe she's just weary of soul and body and finds her eyes are a dead giveaway of that sad state.

Eye pads are a great help if the eyes are tired and look it. We're especially fond of some that are sterilized and medicated, sold in boxes of a dozen. It's amazing the way they relieve fatigue and soothe away the signs of eye weariness. You just moisten them in warm water and place gently over the eyes. Leave them for twenty minutes if you can and while they're on the eyes relax like a kitten. It's a session good for the nerves as well as the eyes—wonderful after a hard day that leaves you jittery.

These pads have companion pieces that are equally good—an eye bath that cleanses and soothes and leaves the eyes brilliant and a rich, rich eye cream invaluable in battling the fine lines that choose the delicate eye skin as their camping ground. It can be left on overnight and used during the day to give the lids a faint, flattering sheen. It helps defeat eye lines, working by day as well as by night.

Devise Special Jewelry for Sports Attire

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Some ingenious person has turned a new trick with new jewelry to wear just with sports clothes. It is swanky stuff that should have been out weeks ago, because it is just the right sort of smart, snappy accents for casually designed sports clothes or knitwear, as well as tailored wools and silks. There's a grand collection of stunning new arrivals in a well known sports shop, where every one concedes the best should be found.

For a dollar one can buy twin belts, an idea that ought to help a lot toward cheering up dark colored costumes. These belts are extremely narrow, of a nice, dull kidskin in all kinds of colors. The combine idea is this: Wear two belts of two different colors, jap rose red and beige, blue and kelly green, beige and brown, or other interesting mix-ups. These are the best belt lines for knitted clothes.

Also with the same low price mark are the link metal pins and matching bracelets laced with colored braids of lether, red, green, beige, mustard yellow, brown, red, and dark blue.

It's the best looking knitted wear jewelry ever devised, nothing overdressed about it, and it's much more appropriate than the usual string of beads or pearls.

For a little more money you'll like the pigskin chest pin and bracelet, inset with round gold metal beads. In the same price range, the dog collar bracelets in red and green lether studded with brass square bumps, to match the good looking dog collar belts.

There are a key pin wound with beige lether that will prove a most decorative addition to sweater or tailored clothes and some pigskin covered compacts. While you indulge your fancy for this pigskin parade, look at the snappy small hat and handbag for a surprisingly small amount of money.

If you're dafiy about butterflies—and who isn't these first days of the spring showings?—you'll like the white pique numbers with long green wool bodies, or the sinister black affairs made of feathers, both varieties complete with wings for a single dollar.

At last! Sports jewelry worthy of the smart wool and sports clothes every one wears.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is certainly open season for Shakespeare! Stage and screen have been overflowing with presentations of the Bard of Avon's masterpieces. Now comes "As You Like It" to collect its meed of praise and blame. [By the way, don't fail to read Walter Huston's article in a current theatrical magazine on how it feels to fail as Othello.]

Now, I am very much FOR Elisabeth Bergner. For Elisabeth Bergner rightly cast—as she was in "Catherine the Great" and "Escape Me Never." But I think she is a mistake as Rosalind. Principally because of her German accent.

It didn't matter in the aforementioned films, but in "As You Like It" —you don't like it at all. For she is irritatingly difficult to understand.

However, let's skip over to mention of her supporting cast—which is a darb!

Laurence Olivier was a perfect choice as Orlando. Henry Ainley as the banished duke, Leon Quartermaine as Jaques, and Mackenzie Ward as Touchstone are simply immense. How they CAN read lines! Sophie Stewart—who IS this lovely lady, anyhow?—as Celia, shares footage with and comes pretty near to outshining Miss Bergner. DOES do that with the spoken word.

The picture is nicely photographed and costumed, but fakily staged. The scenes in Arden forest are palpably backdrops and properties.

"As You Like It," which is, without doubt, Shakespeare's frothiest story, is, boiled down, just a version of boy meets girl. After a lot of, to do involving a good duke and an evil one, a bad brother, a loving cousin, a court fool, and circling knaves, sheepherders, courtiers, and what have you, the two young people so beset by myriad difficulties are united in a picturesque finale.

The movie sticks closely to the original, and, because of this and some beautiful line delivery, it merits consideration. But if it ever proves popular film fare, well—I miss my guess.

See you tomorrow.

THE sight of the books bound in heavy dark covers the lawyers carry in the stirring trial scene in "Symphonie Fantastique," presented Sunday night by the Russian ballet, brought to mind a little discovery on a night when the Berlioz ballet was being given. The volumes the lawyers carry were lying on a piano in the wings, all alike in their dark covers. Opening them, the inquisitive visitor found that none of them were the works of Blackstone. Instead the thrifty management had put the covers on some books probably picked up at the second-hand counter. The titles were "An Oxonian Looks Back," "Parentage and Childhood," "Victorians, Edwardians and Georgians," "The Practical Retail Draper" [that opened at a chapter telling how to make a snappy window display of sewing machines], and "The Poor Brother's Mass-Book."

There was a fifth volume, minus a title, but starting with this sentence:

"In 1843, after receiving training as an engine driver, Hugh entered the ministry."

WHEN Alan K. Barlow's small son lost some money on a shopping tour with his mother and there was some suspicion he might have been robbed, the little lad's aunt inquired, "But who would stoop so low as to pick the pockets of a small boy?"

PROBABLY you've never tried to find a wooden horse, so you don't know that they are becoming as rare as cigar store Indians. The forest preserve district, which is featuring its bridle trails in its exhibit at the Flower show that opens at Navy pier next Saturday, planned to have a wooden horse with a rider in the exhibit, but finally had to abandon the idea.

The man sent out by Arthur Korsgood, assistant chief forester, to find a horse, first tried harness shops. He remembered, for instance, the one at Madison and Pulaski that all during his boyhood had had a fine wooden horse standing in front. That was gone, of course, and the harness shop, too. Then he recalled that a loop department store had one for the convenience of buyers of riding clothes, and the store obligingly said the forest preserve might borrow it. However, it turned out that the little fitting room had been built around the horse and that there was no way of getting it out without tearing down the walls.

Our man finally found a harness maker who had a horse, but he rents it out at a high rental —more than the forest preserve felt it could pay. The last time it went out was to a chain of movie theaters—it stood in the lobby during the run of "Three Men on a Horse" at the various theaters—and the harness man was paid $100 a week rental. Since no other horse could be found, the exhibit will have a hiker or two strolling along the path that winds through its wild flower starred terrain. The violets and anemones and Dutchman's-breeches and trilliums are being forced into bloom now in hothouses.

SYNOPSIS.

Malcolm and Susan Dubenny's parents died in a flu epidemic during the war. Susan was taken by her mother's parents, the Somervilles. Mrs. Somerville refused the boy in hatred of his father who had eloped with her daughter. Malcolm went to live with his Aunt Lorna and Uncle Hugh Lowell, his father's half brother. Now 15, Malcolm has not seen his little sister for nine years and longs to meet her. He sets off on his bike on a secret mission to Crofter's End, the Somerville estate. In the woods of the estate the children meet. Susan denies she has a brother. Deeply hurt Malcolm leaves. Mr. Somerville's sister, Alison Loftus, returns to England after a long absence and visits Crofter's End. In her Susan finds a friend. Mrs. Somerville maliciously tells her that her aunt disapproves of her. Alison antagonizes Mrs. Somerville by her concern about the fate of the boy Malcolm, and her visit is cut short.

INSTALMENT XIV.

LOST FAITH.

Sue knew that her grandmother's occasional displeasure never lasted very long, and she did not take it seriously, but the reconciliations which came after filled her with discomfort.

Granny, it is to be feared, reveled in them, and was quite persuaded that Sue would have been broken hearted if she failed to explain to her how much she really loved her in spite of what had taken place.

This afternoon therefore she held out her arms and cooed over the criminal and gave her all the usual assurances which Sue knew by heart and took for granted, as children do, a little bored by this continual repetition of the obvious.

"She's gone, darling, and we won't allow her to make mischief between us, nasty creature, complaining of my girlie," said granny, reverting to baby talk.

"But what did she say about me?" asked Sue, scowling and trying to free herself from granny's clasp without hurting her feelings.

A plain answer to a plain question was not granny's way and she said in a soothing voice: "Never mind, my pet, we don't take any notice of such people, you and I. We'll forget all about her. She's old and soured, darling, and should have stayed among her savages——"

Sue had got away from the bed, indignant, obstinate and could not be recalled in this mood by bright and clever glances. It had not entered her head to disbelieve her grandmother, all her thoughts were directed against the enemy whom she had taken for a friend.

"I didn't race her about the garden, granny."

Then she stalked away to the schoolroom.

There was a note on the table, addressed simply "Sue."

She opened the letter eagerly, stared at the signature, then flung it from her on to the table and backed away.

All her desolation came flooding over her again, but she fought it indignantly. She did not want to read the letter, yet approached it, feeling that she could not just leave it unread.

> This is to say good-by, dear, because I have to return to town unexpectedly before you get in from your excursion with Miss Winch. I am sorry that after all we could not explore the house together and look for fair haired Somervilles among the portraits. You will have to make friends with them without me, Sue.
> I enjoyed our walk this morning and shall like to picture you at Crofter's End doing so many of the things I used to do. How we should have loved your secret house under the cedar!
> Think of me sometimes, won't you?
> Aunt Alison.

Sue's view of the visitor had become so distorted by the afternoon's agitation that nothing could have surprised her more than this simple and friendly little note, and she read it and re-read it suspiciously, still standing at arm's length from the table on which it lay.

The sound of approaching footsteps in the corridor without startled her and she pushed her letter behind a cushion on the easy chair by the fire and sat on it.

Maggie came in to lay the schoolroom supper. She was curious about the sudden departure of the visitor and the reported indisposition of the mistress of the house, so remarked chattily to her friend Sue:

"It's too bad your auntie has to go back so sudden, isn't it, miss?"

"Well, I don't care," returned Sue.

"But it would have been a bit of change to have a visitor in the house all the same. Not that I expect a lady of her age would be of much interest to you. What you want is some children to play with. Still, Mrs. Loftus was very nice, kind of stately and with ever such a nice smile," said Maggie. "But my goodness, wasn't she pale?"

"Yellow as mustard," growled the figure by the fire.

"Aw, Miss Sue! Yellow, indeed? Now I can see you didn't like your auntie."

"Yes, I did, yes, I did," cried Sue with a burst of laughter. "I wanted to see what you'd say. I don't think she was a bit yellow."

"Pulling my leg as usual," sighed Maggie, gathering up her tray; "and I was going to say you had a look of her yourself. So now!"

The door closed upon Maggie after this illuminating remark. Sue brought out the note again, re-reading it with her back to the door, so that it could be quickly hidden if any one came in. This instinctive secrecy was her reaction to the bewildering situation more than a tribute to Aunt Alison, perhaps, yet now the latter had ceased to be quite the monster she had seemed and became again some one unique in her experience, a grownup person who had talked to her from the first as an equal and a friend.

Torn between conflicting loyalties, her own quick intelligence against habit and affection, the old love against the new, the child's mind was in confusion.

Granny couldn't possibly have made it up?

Sue suddenly seized the letter, tore it in pieces and flung it into the fire, and if there were little wisdom in this, it was valiant in its way, for she knew that she wanted to believe Aunt Alison rather than her grandmother, and she was horrified.

Though the victory was with Mrs. Somerville, she had entered that afternoon the road to defeat. Something had gone from the relationship of these two—the unquestioning faith of one of them.

Sue would never be sure.

. . . .

"This is a nice thing you are letting me in for, I must say," grumbled Robert Lord to his wife Irene, as they were dressing to go out to dinner with Admiral and Mrs. Loftus. "Are you quite certain a black tie will be all right? You don't think I ought to get into tails or knee breeches?"

Irene laughed. She knew him in this mood. It meant that he was dreading the evening before him, and it was a little awkward, she supposed, to meet the parents of the man to whom she had been engaged.

"You needn't be afraid, they are dears," she assured him.

"Yes, I daresay, but it's pretty thick. A chap more or less knows he'll have a mother-in-law when he marries, but he doesn't expect to take on his wife's ex-mother-in-law-elect. I wish you'd go without me—seriously, Irene. It would be far more comfortable for every one concerned. The Loftuses will want to talk to you, naturally, and I shall put a constraint upon the whole show."

"O, no, you won't," explained Irene, hurriedly. "I couldn't possibly go alone. When you've wept on a person's shoulder, and declared you will never marry any one now, you feel such a dam' fool——"

"I see it all," beamed Robert. "I am to be taken along as a justification. I thank you for these kind words. They have only to see me and all will be forgiven. You may kiss me, wife."

TREAT A COLD AS IF YOU MEAN IT!

Don't Fool Around with Half-way Measures and Invite Serious Complications!

One of the worst things you can do is "kid around" with a cold.

The so-called "common cold" causes more serious sickness and more enforced absence from work than anything else.

It's a mistake to treat a cold lightly. A cold calls for a cold treatment and not a "cure-all". A cold calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

One of the best things you can take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Your own doctor will tell you that.

First of all, Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

Secondly it is internal medication and of fourfold effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Play safe in your treatment of a cold! The moment you feel the first symptom, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Start taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That action will usually break up a cold in 24 hours.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask the druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine and insist upon getting what you ask for!

The few pennies' cost may save you a lot in medical bills.

Severe Parent May Have False Sense of Duty

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The story told in this letter is not as uncommon as I wish it were:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Your articles in the paper about children are most instructive and, having a granddaughter whose mother is trying to make an old lady out of a child of 22 months, I would be glad to have some booklets that would help to correct this situation.

"I cut out all the articles and give them to my daughter, hoping they will make her less severe with her baby. Its face is getting such an old, set look, and it is beginning to resent this constant nagging. Her mother even spanks her when she does not seem to have an appetite and eat fast enough.

"It worries me a great deal, for I love the baby."

This severity of mothers toward their babies is more common than one would think. It is hard for any one who is both captivated and touched by the baby just beginning to walk and talk to understand this harsh treatment. And where one witnesses it, it is even harder to tolerate it without interference.

Our first reaction is to wonder what the cause may be. One eventually concludes that it is either a deep seated one or something more superficial that is responsible for this harsh attitude. Let us see:

Just as a human being who isn't a mother may be unsympathetic or impatient, or even unkind, by nature that same human, becoming a mother, probably will run true to form. The result then will be something like that described in the letter quoted.

But sometimes this severity is due to a mistaken sense which a mother has of her duty to her child. She wants to train him in the way he should go—she does not, above all things, want to spoil him. So she tries, in her ignorance of child nature or because she is lacking in native intuition, to spank or scold her child into the way in which he should grow. Of course, we who are "in the know" can see how wrong it is and, from a practical standpoint, what poor results she will get.

Babies and young children respond like magic to kindness, patience, and understanding.

For those mothers who are harsh and severe with their babies and young children we have a fully written booklet called "Make Patience Your Handmaiden." It will be sent on receipt of a 3 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

For a limited time only, Nancy Cabot offers ten quilt patterns of her own selection for 10 cents, 12 cents in stamps by mail. They may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby, or by writing to Miss Cabot in care of the Chicago Tribune.

[ADVERTISMENT]

MOTHER HELPED BY KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child. I tried everything. Very reluctantly, I tried your ALL-BRAN with no faith in it at all.

"Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this needed "bulk."

Within the body, this cereal absorbs twice its weight in water, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone up the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Enjoy this food instead of taking weakening pills and drugs. Serve as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into recipes.

ALL-BRAN is sold by your grocer. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Miss Kathleen Bagley to Be Married Today

Ceremony to Take Place in Miami Beach.

Joan Cotter Chooses April 24 for Wedding.

Another prospective bride, Miss Joan Cotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Cotter of Evanston, has chosen to be married in April. Her wedding to William Henry Fogarty Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Fogarty of Evanston, will take place on the 24th at St. Luke's pro-cathedral in Evanston with Bishop George Craig Stewart officiating.

Miss Cotter's sister, Miss Caryl Cotter, will be her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Jane Rogers, Miss Patricia Wineberg, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Mrs. Joseph Bishop Swan, Mrs. Merrill W. MacNamee, and Miss Jane Iredale, who is coming from California for the wedding.

Gerard Fogarty will be his brother's best man, and Arnold Fogarty, Anwell Fogarty, John Fogarty, James Bowman, Merrill W. MacNamee, and Joseph B. Swan will usher. After a wedding trip to Guatemala Mr. Fogarty and his bride will live in Evanston.

Gives Tea Today to Show Portraits.

The friends who have received Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick's invitation to drop in this afternoon to see her new portrait and to meet Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner, the artist, will find that their hostess has more than one delightful surprise in store for them.

In addition to this portrait, an oil of Mrs. McCormick in the evening gown with the soft many hued flowers against a silver background that is one of her most becoming costumes, there will be shown for the first time a pastel of Mrs. McCormick in a black velvet afternoon dress trimmed with ermine. This informal picture Baroness Wenner has painted for Mrs. McCormick's niece, Mrs. Stephen Plummer.

Famous Painter to Be Arts Club Guest.

There is certain to be a crowd at the Arts club at tea time today for Nicolas de Molas, internationally known painter of conversation pictures, is to be there and also some of his paintings. The young Russian who now has studios in Paris, London, and New York is the first modern painter to make these candid canvas paintings that are called conversation pictures for he revived the mode of painting people in their usual surroundings. Such paintings were popularized in the eighteenth century, mostly by Hogarth, although the custom had been started in Italy two centuries before.

Two sets of paintings, one a comic group of a nudist colony that hangs in the bar and in the corridor leading to it, and another of Henry VIII. and his wives and children, also will be on view for the first time. Peggy Palmer [Mrs. Arthur Burroughs] has just completed both groups. The nudists are depicted at a wedding, dancing, playing bridge, and in three or four other situations. King Henry is shown in a medium sized portrait, and his family, in separate miniatures.

Members of Parliament Will Visit Chicago.

The English-Speaking union has cards out for a tea on Friday at the Arts club for three members of the British parliament, the earl of Mansfield, Alfred R. Wise, and Kenneth de Courcy, who are arriving on Thursday to be here until Sunday. They are coming in an official capacity on a mission of inquiry "to learn something of the United States and of the way in which a number of problems common to both countries are being handled" here.

Members of the Cordon and their guests will have a lively evening next Monday when "Cordon Life," an animated magazine, will be given its first performance. Arthur Meeker Jr., will be the guest editor. Among the features will be an "article" on art by "Cudley Wafts Dateson" [Anna Lynch] and a song by Marie Zendt wearing a dress copied from the one worn by Jennie Lind in her first American recital.

Members of the Chicago Vassar club and their friends will hear Charles Fabens Kelley of the Art institute give an illustrated talk on "The Chinese Art Exhibition in London" at a tea at Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland's home this afternoon.

Mrs. Borland visited the exhibition last year. The lecture will benefit the Vassar scholarship fund.

Give Luncheon Today for Wells President.

President William Ernest Weld is making his first visit to Chicago as president of Wells college to attend the Easter luncheon of the Chicago Wells club today at the Arts club. Mrs. Weld is accompanying him. In the receiving line with them at the luncheon will be Miss Alice Barler, chairman of the luncheon; Mrs. Fred L. Starbuck, Mrs. E. M. Hartlett, and Mrs. George E. Dryden.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson Clokey and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ruthven Moore Jr. are entertaining at dinner this evening for Dr. and Mrs. Weld at the Clokey's home in Hinsdale. Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Dr. Herbert Rice of Allahabad, India, and Dr. Alfred Lee Wilson, who will be among the guests, were classmates of Dr. Weld and Mr. Clokey at Wooster college when Dr. Elias Compton, father of Dr. Compton and Mrs. Rice, was dean there.

In the interest of the Sunbeam league and its work among crippled children several hundred women will gather for cards and tea this afternoon in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

The party will mark the silver anniversary of the organization, which is headed by Mrs. Edmund R. Landis.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. MacDowell sailed Saturday on the Saturnia for a Mediterranean cruise. They will leave the ship at Trieste and spend a month in Italy before returning home.

Madonna Center Party April 24.

The dinner-dance that Madonna center gives every spring always is a jolly party. Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., secretary of the dinner-dance committee, has announced that the party will be given on April 24 this year.

The Friendly Aid society is taking over the ballroom of the Lake Shore Athletic club for its annual card party the afternoon of May 10. Mrs. Fred H. Scheel and Miss Alice Barler are co-chairmen.

British residents of Chicago are to have a chance to take part in coronation week festivities at long range, for the United British Societies of Illinois are sponsoring a "coronation empire day" banquet and dance Saturday, May 15, in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

The British charities throughout Illinois which have benefited in other years through the annual empire day celebration of these societies will receive the proceeds of the party. K. A. Auty is general chairman.

Margaret Dorrance, Heir to Soup Fortune, Weds

Philadelphia, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—Miss Margaret Winifred Dorrance, heiress to a share of the $120,000,000 estate of her father, the late John T. Dorrance, and George Strawbridge, were married today at St. Martin's church in suburban Radnor. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. John T. Dorrance, widow of the founder of the Campbell Soup company. Strawbridge is a son of John Strawbridge, of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. Miss Dorrance and her three sisters were left a monthly income of $10,000 each from the estate of their father.

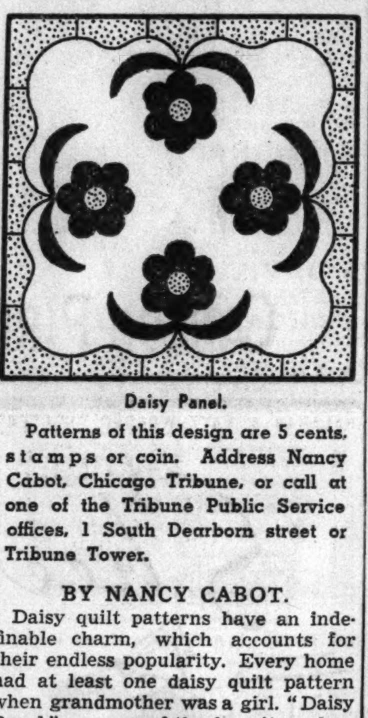
"Daisy Panel" a Favorite Quilt of Grandma's Time



Daisy Panel.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Daisy quilt patterns have an indefinable charm, which accounts for their endless popularity. Every home had at least one daisy quilt pattern when grandmother was a girl. "Daisy Panel" was one of the favorites when an easy applique pattern was required, and it still rates in the upper brackets of quilt popularity. It measures 10 inches square when finished, it is finished with a six and one-half inch border and a one-half inch bias binding.

3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

Contradictions in Handwriting of Pat O'Brien

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

Perhaps you will be as interested as I was by the handwriting of Pat O'Brien. It shows so many contradictory traits I could hardly believe some of them.

After all - what is one to write
Pat O'Brien

For instance the capital A he uses is called the "conservative A." Who would expect such a hearty, friendly star of Hollywood as Pat O'Brien to be conservative! Yet, when you think the matter over, there has never been the slightest bit of unkind gossip about this star in a place where keen eyes watch for the slightest news regarding the movie folk.

The base line of his writing is very level and it bears out the sincerity that invariably goes with the conservative letter formations. Another unexpected thing about this handwriting is the printed capitals. Pat O'Brien is such an artist in his picture portrayals the audience simply watches as a rule and thinks, "O, that's the way he is. It isn't anything deeper than that."

The creative and artistic feeling in this handwriting disproves such an idea immediately. Think of the many parts Pat O'Brien has played. He never overacts and he always is so convincing you forget he was only playing a part.

Yes, this man of the movies, is outstanding largely because of gifts for which we never give him credit until suddenly a truly gifted actor reveals himself in his handwriting.

The first name is completely printed and the "t" crossed in a most distinctive and unusual manner.

Good Rolling Exercises Rid Figure of Fat

Miss Donnelly Describes Silhouette Slimmers.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I am going to give you a couple of good rolling exercises today that will hurry along that fat-free silhouette for which you yern. Most women who have to fight avoirdupois, even though it isn't great overweight, at this time of year feel a heaviness of body. It may be only six or eight pounds of extra weight, but it is heavy with the depression that comes from a shopping day on which you can't find anything.

You put on, as the saying goes, under the arms at the sides, the waist thickens, the diaphragm bulges and the hips jes' don't slither. It is to plane down these areas that I offer the following two excellent exercises. I'll guarantee results if you'll do them religiously morning and night for even three weeks.

Lie on the floor. Stretch both arms overhead. Push the knees, legs and feet downward. Push the arms from the waist up to their finger tips. Pushing here is simply another word for stretching, but the push gives you the stretch. Now, keep the arms overhead. Try to keep your hips right where they are. Roll your shoulders and arms over to one side, back, then over to the other.

It's important to keep the lower part of the body just where you had it. This exercise pulls on the waist muscles, on those underarm muscles, on the arm muscles. It will flatten the diaphragm. So, do it five times at a stretch at first, going on to six, ten, even twenty before the week is up.

From the same floor position, do one for the lower half of the body. Take the position on the floor first described above, with arms overhead. Now pull up your left leg and foot and roll it over to the right side. Don't try, as yet, to reach the toe far up. Just roll the hip over and back to right to left, right, left. You can advance on this exercise, after a bit, to stretching the rolled-over foot and leg as far up shoulder-way as you can. Believe one who has tried it often, that this will straighten the hipline, thin down the bulging thigh, pull the waist in, too.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told a multitude of egg smeared children this afternoon that they apparently had set an all-time attendance record for White House egg rollings.

"I am told that more than 42,000 children—and a few grownups—[there was laughter from an army of adults] already have passed through the gates," he said. "By sundown, I suppose there may be more than 50,000."

Final count later confirmed this. The day's total was 53,180, exceeding 51,391, the 1935 total.

Throughout his greeting, a few indomitable egg rollers continued their sport on a distant knoll. Squalling children in the hedge bordered lost and found department, however, quit yelling "mummy" long enough to listen.

The brief speechmaking done, the children returned to the business of rolling, throwing, trampling, and eating eggs. Drinking fountains competed with band music, a magician's antics, and a puppet show in drawing crowds.

Seek Official Song for Celebration of Chicago's Anniversary

Chicago's Charter Jubilee committee yesterday announced a contest for an official Jubilee song. The winning song will be used on all Jubilee occasions, and in many broadcasts.

The committee hopes to find a song as marchable and singable as "The Stars and Stripes Forever" or "On, Wisconsin." Arrangements have been made for publication of the winning song and the writers will receive royalties as well as a cash prize of $50.

Address Chicago's Charter Jubilee committee, 33 North La Salle street, for details of the contest. All Chicagoans [including residents of the suburbs], and all former Chicagoans are eligible.

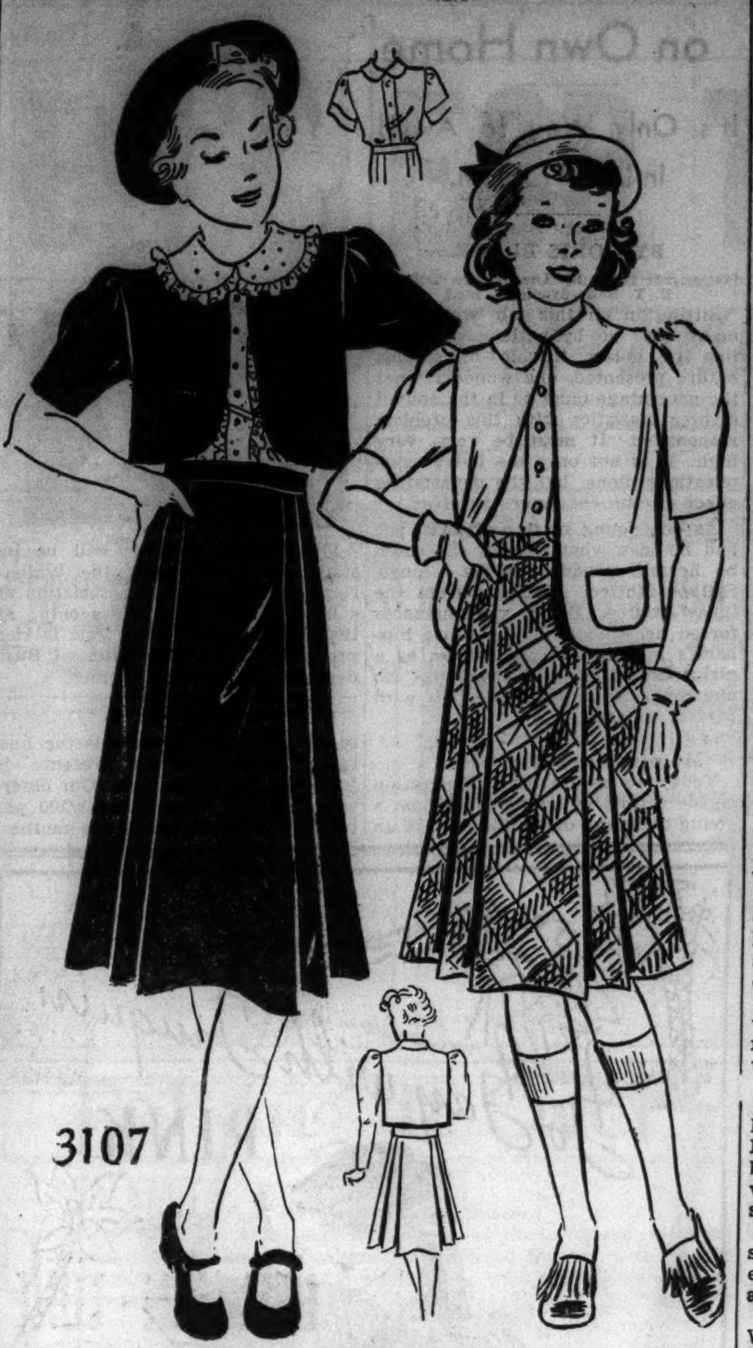
Smart Suit for Juveniles



GIRL'S JACKET SUIT.

The popularity of suits has reached the younger generation. Girls from 6 to 14 years of age delight in having clothes as nearly like those of their older sisters as possible. Of course, styles for juniors must be fashioned purposely for them, and must have decidedly girlish lines. We think the jacket suit illustrated today will fill the bill perfectly. It is the type of ensemble that is perfect for both school and all practical wear, and yet is dressy enough for party occasions and the Sunday fashion parade.

The jacket may be either a bolero or a hip length garment. The blouse may be strictly tailored or may be "dolled up" with ruffles. The plaited skirt fits juvenile figures flatteringly, and is easy to keep pressed and neat looking.

Woolens make up beautifully in this model, and are smart with cotton blouses. For dressier wear, heavy silk crêpes are ideal, with dimity, voile, organdy or pastel or white sheer for the dainty blouse. Plaids make up well in the skirt, too, with harmonizing plain woolen for the jacket.

Style No. 3107 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material for the skirt, with 2 yards of 39 inch fabric for blouse and jacket.

Matching Eyes to Dress Ideal of Film Actress

Irene Dunne Astonishes Photographer.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 29.—[Special.]—Some people think film players are a little on the erratic side.

George Hurrell, the film colony's special photographer, told what happened when he telephoned Irene Dunne after a sitting he had made for a series of photographs in color.

Photographer Hurrell asked Miss Dunne to describe exactly the color her eyes should register on the photographs.

The actress replied: "Make them blue with a blue dress, gray with a green dress and green with my black and white gowns."

Next there is Charlie Kaplan. Charlie is prop man on the set of "Night of Mystery" at Paramount. Charlie says: "Roscoe Karns, Helen Burgess, and Grant Richards were arguing. They each put up 25 cents and told me they would let me settle the argument. I asked what they were arguing about. They said it was the number of straws in a broom and I was to hold the six bits and count them. Karns said 1,200 straws. Richards said 1,750. Miss Burgess said 2,300. I pulled them out and counted 2,182. Then Charlie Cook, the business manager on the picture, came over and told me I had ruined a broom and took the 75 cents to buy a new one."

Harpo Marx fell asleep on the back lot at Metro between scenes in "A Day at the Races." He was leaning back in one of the canvas set chairs with his feet propped up and his shoes off.

His brothers, Groucho and Chico, slipped away, came back with a bucket of tar, and smeared it in front of and underneath Harpo's chair.

Then they yelled that Director Sam Wood wanted all the Marx brothers.

Harpo awoke, planked his feet down, and let out a yell. His socks are still in the tar. He had to get a foot bath in gasoline before they could go on with the scene, but the incident put the brothers on such an edge of good humor that the hour or so of time and hundreds of dollars wasted are supposed to be well spent.

Jean Harlow had painters come and paint every accessory in her living room cream to match her drapes, her rugs, her furniture, and, I suppose, her hair. The painters enameled even the dial of her telephone and now she can't use the phone because there are only blank cream colored spaces where the numbers and letters of the dial should be.

King Baggott, old time director, has been given an acting part in "The Emperor's Candlesticks" with Luise Rainer and Bill Powell at Metro.

Myrna Loy kept her promise. She fetched Clark Gable the first flower to grow at her new ranch. It was a yellow dandelion and Gable sent for a vase and tenderly put the little yellow blossom in a place of honor in his dressing room.

Lionel Barrymore is cast as Jean Harlow's grandpa for "Saratoga," a story of horse racing and betting followers who go from track to track. Gable is the other star in the story by Anita Loos and Robert Hopkins.

Virginia Weidler, 9 year old star, was supposed to go to the circus in suburban Alhambra and have some still photographs taken with the animals.

"Can I get a pass for my sister, too?" she asked the circus representative.

"Sure," came the answer.

Time for the appointment on the circus grounds rolled around and Virginia appeared at the pass gate with two sisters, two brothers, five children from the neighborhood, and Pa and Ma Weidler.

Paramount has signed Nancy Jacqueline Clancy, 4 years old. That's her real name and the studio name creators believe Nancy Clancy to be the best "natural" box office name they've had in a long, long time. Nancy goes into "Midnight Madonna" with Warren William and Mady Correll. She was "found" in Miami, Fla., where her parents, from Connecticut, were wintering last winter, and was urged to go to Los Angeles by Humphrey Pearson, scenarist who shot himself to death in Palm Springs, Cal., three weeks ago.

Joe E. Brown says the eastern race tracks won't see any of his horses "until I get a good horse of real stake caliber." Brown has two of his stable racing at Tanforan track in California this month, and has seven two year olds at his ranch, most of which will receive their baptism as racers only after turning three year olds. Four of Brown's colts are named after Mrs. Brown—Queen Kate, Battling Kate, Kitty McGraw, Kayembee.

Brown takes his new rôle as turfman so seriously that he offered $75,000 for the San Francisco owned stake winner Sea Biscuit last January. The offer was turned down by Owner Charles Howard.

Smorgasbord Is Informal Aid in Hostessing

Swedish Plan Assures a Successful Party.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The Smorgasbord is the most interesting Swedish contribution to the pleasant art of eating. A modified Smorgasbord will assure any American hostess a successful party, whether she's planning a luncheon or a late supper.

The Smorgasbord is a long table stacked with platters and plates of appetizers, relishes and sharply flavored foods in great variety. Beverages never are placed on this table, but usually are left on a smaller table conveniently nearby.

Adapted and Americanized, the Smorgasbord composes the entire meal or refreshment menu, instead of a single hors d'oeuvres course. And the American woman doesn't include the full variety of dishes on her table setting, either. A typical array is the one suggested here. The true Swedish array would include many more dishes.

SMORGASBORD.

FISH AND MEATS: Flaked salmon garnished with lemon, whole cooked shrimps in tart sauce, whole anchovies and sardines, pickled pigs' feet, smoked tongue, salami, liverwurst, pate de foie gras.

SALADS AND RELISHES: Cold potato salad, deviled eggs, mixed vegetable salad, green onions, radishes, and pickled beets.

CHEESE: Head cheese, and several other kinds of cheese as preferred.

Plenty of coffee and a supply of rye wafers to complete the assortment are placed on a nearby smaller table. Guests serve themselves from the Smorgasbord. American women are finding this an easy and interesting way of entertaining.

But Swedish cooks have given us more than an idea for a party or a late supper. They have showed us how to bake many incomparably delicious breads and cookies.

Spritz cookies, for instance, are quickly made, but they are crisp and pretty to look at.

Swedish Spritz Cookies.

⅓ cup butter
½ cup confectioner's sugar
1 egg yolk
1 cup flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon almond extract

Mix in the order suggested and chill for 30 minutes. Using the hands or a cooky press, shape the cookies into letter "S" form. Brush them over with egg white and bake on a greased cookie sheet for about 8 minutes in a 425 degree [hot] oven.

Swedish Rye Wafers.

⅝ cup butter
½ cup confectioner's sugar
2 cups rye flour
⅛ teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons water

Cream butter and confectioner's sugar and add the rest of the ingredients. Roll out thinly and cut with a cookie cutter. Place on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees] for about 20 minutes.

African Bird Groups Added to Field Museum Exhibits

Exotic African birds are the subject of three new habitat groups recently completed in the Field museum. One shows village weaver birds, and another represents the principal bird species found in the wet forests of Mount Cameroon. These two exhibits were collected by the Straus West African expedition. The third, showing species of the Kalahari desert, was assembled by an expedition headed by Arthur S. Vernay.

Newlyweds Must Insist on Own Home

It's Only Way to Avoid In-Law Problem.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Sitting in on this job, where not many days go by without a revelation of in-law trouble of serious nature presented, one wonders what the percentage must be in the annual divorce statistics with this problem responsible. It must be very, very high. It is not only the in-law complications alone, but the devastating effect on the characters involved.

As one young matron reports, she had no idea what a devil she could be herself, prodded on by wrongs, real or fancied, stemming from the in-law source. Before circumstances forced her into living with her husband's mother she was known as a girl with an even disposition. "No one could say it now," she tells with perfect candor.

"My nerves are worn raw!"

Today we have another illustration of the futility of trying to conduct a young marriage under the eyes of an in-law overseer. Again it is the husband's mother whose presence is forced on the young pair. Our observation is that there's not 1/100 per cent the difficulty when the mother-in-law in the home is the bride's mother. When the man's mother is present, except in rare instances, adjustment of the two women characters, loving the same man, seems well night impossible. It's more than unfortunate that the test ever is dared.

Yesterday's exhibit of in-law difficulty concerned an ill mother-in-law wished on the latest and youngest bride in the family. The other members of the mother-in-law's family, the more financially secure, simply shifted the burden over onto the young woman because she has a job. Her husband's earnings are small, which is why she is forced to continue working.

"The rest of his family would not take his mother. She was ill most of the time. My husband and I both are high tempered. There was need to watch every penny. The drain on my health by working, keeping house, and so on, resulted in many quarrels."

The quarrels eventually led to a conference with the divorce lawyer. Now, away from her man, the young married woman can see that alone they would have made a go of their marriage. She doesn't want the divorce. She wants her man back, but he still is bitter over the fact that his wife resented his mother's presence when she is ill.

We do hope the pair get together and are given an opportunity to try marriage again without in-law complications. There's only one remedy for these problems, and that is to maintain separate establishments regardless of the financial strain involved.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Be Your Natural Self.

"Dear Miss Blake: When I'm with boys I'm carefree and happy, but when a girl is about I become a wallflower. GREEN EYES."

Just be your own natural self and you'll get along as nicely with the girls as you do with your pals.

Attentivenes Shows Interest.

"Dear Miss Blake: Please tell me how I can find out if a certain boy likes me. ANXIOUS GIRL."

He'll be attentive, wanting to spend some time with you and take you out if he's anxious to make a good impression.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

REBIDDING OVER A DOUBLE RAISE.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When partner's response to a suit bid was a double raise, which also is forcing to game, the kind of rebid depends upon whether or not the opener believes there is possibility of a slam. With a fair hand which offers a good chance for a slam if a favorable distributional fit is found, the opener has at his disposal the asking bids. With a fairly weak hand the rebid depends upon the distribution of the opening hand.

If the suit is a minor the opener should show any shaded or biddable four card major, if he has one. Without a major suit rebid he must bid three no trump unless he has unbalanced distribution and can anticipate at least eleven tricks in the minor suit.

If the suit is a major the decision is first made whether or not to try for a slam. If there is to be no slam try, the opener should simply bid four of the major suit, unless he has 4-3-3-3 distribution, or 4-4-3-2 distribution and possible stoppers in the other suits, in which case he bids three no trump.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	4 clubs
4 diamonds	5 clubs	Pass	Pass
Pass

West had a shaded two-way three bid. West opened the king of diamonds and drew the deuce from East and the four from South. The discouraging card his partner had played gave West a moment's pause, but at last he made an inspired continuation. His lead to the second trick was the ace of diamonds! This established South's queen of diamonds as a winner, and South shot a grateful look to West. But South soon was to discover that the "gift" had a string tied to it.

Declarer's next step was to lead a trump from dummy. East played the deuce and South's king held the trick. Declarer had an awful presage of the truth when West failed to follow suit. If East played correctly dummy never could regain the lead.

As nonchalantly as possible South cashed the ace of spades and followed up with the queen of trump. All still would be well if East ducked that one. In that case South could lead a third round of trumps and East could make no lead which would not yield an entry to dummy.

But East was too old a hand at the game to be caught napping. With great unction he won with the ace of clubs and returned the eight spot. South was obliged to win and could cash his queen of diamonds for whatever good it did him. The opponents already had taken two tricks and South could not avoid the loss of a heart. West's inspired lead, by taking a trump out of the dummy, had given declarer an extra diamond trick, but had deprived him of three spade tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: The dealer bid a spade and my partner next bid one no trump. What does this bid mean?

Answer: Your partner should have the type of hand with which he would have made an original no trump bid. The hand should be balanced, should have about four honor tricks, and, in addition, should have at least one certain stopper in spades.

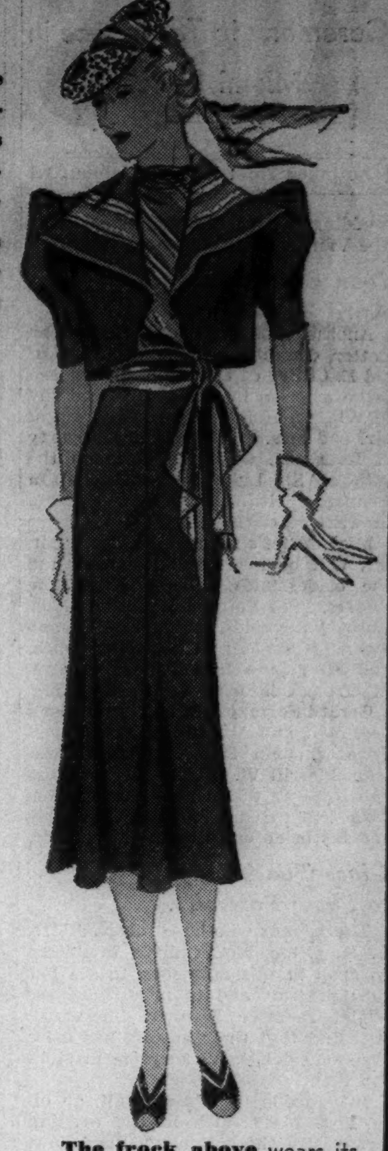
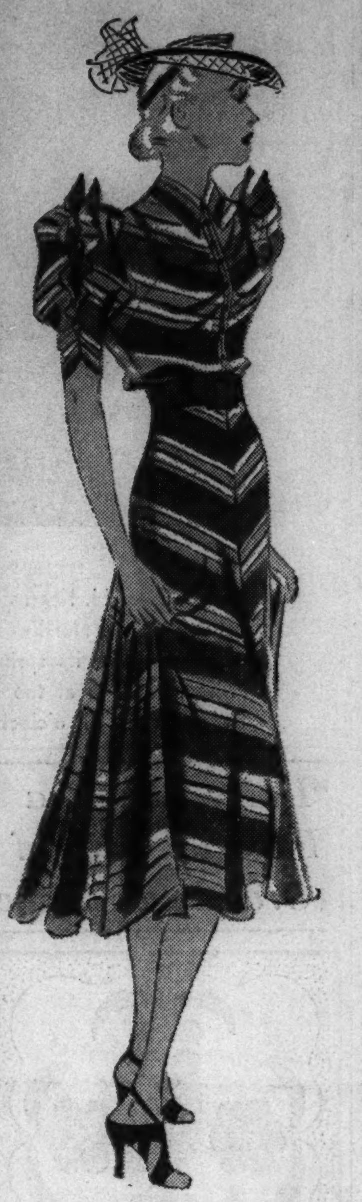
ROMAN Stripes

Stripes are all the rage in Paris. A Harper's Bazaar report goes so far as to say: "Paris is the Roman sash coming to life." These two sheer frocks from the Misses' Better Section at Carson's reflect this important new trend.





The frock above wears its stripes to top a plain sheer skirt. They twist about the waistline in a soft sash and appear again in wide revers on the bolero. Navy or black with multicolor stripes. 14 to 20. $35.

The one-piece Roman striped frock does lovely things to your figure. The stripes take a direction that gives slenderness at the hipline—and the skirt breaks into a graceful flare. Navy or black background. 12 to 20. At $29.75.

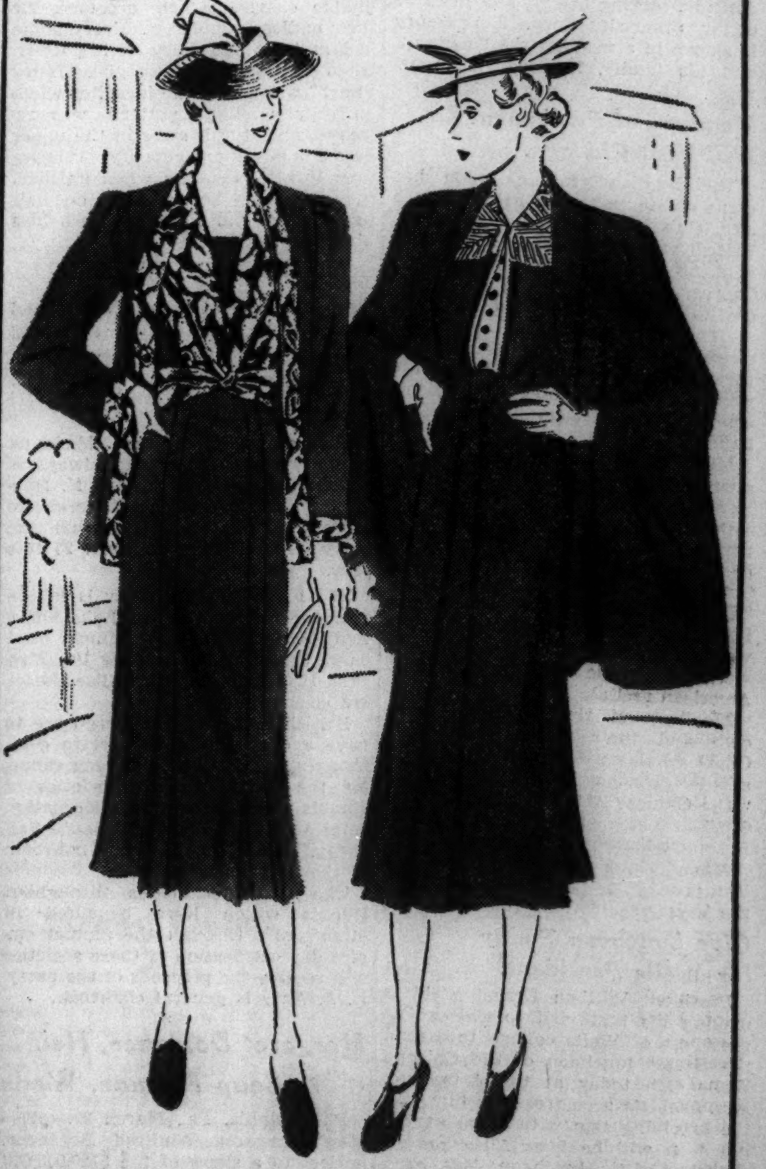
Sheer SUITS



After Maggy Rouff

Copied from an original Maggy Rouff, this sheer suit frock declares itself for tailored lines and then, perversely, dresses them up with a soft gilet and sash of print, and tuxedo revers. The sleeves swing their fullness to the front—a new detail. Navy, black. 16½-24½. $45.

Smartly Caped

The cape in a flattering new length gives the woman who wears this suit a swinging slenderness of line. The frock uses grosgrain binding to give it the slim lines of a coat dress. Accented with a white fagoted collar and bow and white vestee. Navy, black. 36 to 44. $50.

MURRAY'S SHOT, 2 FREE THROWS CLINCH GAME

Ramblers Stage Uphill Battle.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Six years is a long time to wait, but it was worth it.

The Loyola university basketball team defeated De Paul, 46 to 43, last night in two overtime periods after trailing 20 to 6 at one stage of the game.

This tremendous basketball show, the first athletic meeting between the north side rivals since 1931, drew 10,103 to the Chicago Stadium—the largest crowd ever to see a college basketball game in Chicago. The battle was sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization, which realized receipts estimated at $12,500.

After yielding De Paul that 20 to 6 advantage, the game was just one long uphill pull for Loyola. The Ramblers finally tied it 38 to 38, several minutes before the gun, but again fell behind and again squared it 40 to 40 at the end of the regulation time.

Then began those thrill packed overtimes. After about three minutes of cautious maneuvering, Kautz zigzagged down the floor, paused just inside the free throw circle and pitched in two points. This was the first time that Loyola had been ahead. Then Phillips of De Paul got clear and dribbled nearly half the length of the court to tie it up again.

Demons Strike Dizzy Pace.

De Paul again forged ahead at the start of the second overtime when Phillips pitched in a free throw. But that was the Blue Demons' last gesture. Murray of Loyola dropped one from a range of ten feet and Colen and Kautz clinched it with free throws.

De Paul showed to its best advantage during that terrific first half attack which completely bewildered the Loyolans. The Blue Demons played every shot with calculation but with great aggressiveness.

De Paul stepped out to a 9 to 0 lead on baskets by Wendt, Knez, Phillips, and Yost and a free throw by Knez. Novak finally tipped one in for Loyola's first points. Then Phillips got clear under the basket for two points and immediately followed up with another field goal to make it 13 to 2 for De Paul.

Murray tipped one in for Loyola and Yost responded with a pivot shot. Then Kautz sank a long one, but DePaul's answer was five more points on baskets by Phillips and Campion and a free throw by Wendt. This meant a 20 to 6 lead for the Blue Demons.

Loyola Fights Back.

Loyola bestirred to get six points on two fine shots by Kautz and another by Murray. Yost and Campion interrupted the Loyola advance with free throws. Kautz then swooped in to score from the side, but Phillips replied with an under the basket shot.

Then Loyola launched another determined drive. Murray and Colen sank long ones and Novak made a free throw. Just before the gun Wendt made good on a lengthy toss to give De Paul a 26 to 19 lead at the half.

As the second period began, Calihan made a free throw, but Yost registered a basket and Phillips two free throws to put De Paul out in front, 30 to 20. Novak made a free throw and De Paul replied with a basket by Campion and a free throw by Knez.

Novak Scores Twice.

Then Loyola began to drive again. Novak got clear under the basket for a scoring shot and tipped in another immediately thereafter. Kautz then whipped one through the net.

Phillips made a free throw but Novak came right back with a tip in shot. Knez sank a free throw and Campion a long one. Kautz sank a free throw and followed with a sensational one handed shot from the side. Campion made a free throw.

Then Loyola tied the score, 38 to 38, on a great drive with baskets by Colen, Kautz, and Novak. Campion sank a short shot to put De Paul ahead, but O'Brien tied it again to set the stage for the overtime finish.

St. Viator college of Bourbonnais defeated St. Elizabeth's Catholic Youth organization champion, 26 to 25, in a preliminary.

Ky Laffoon.

Augusta, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—Ky Laffoon of Chicago equaled the Bobby Jones course record today by shooting a 65 as outstanding players engaged in their second warmup rounds preparatory to the fourth annual $5,000 Augusta national tournament which starts here Thursday.

Opening his phenomenal exhibition with an average of three for the first eight holes, Laffon took a disastrous six on the ninth for a 30, one over the record 29 scored last year by Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.

Laffoon, coming in with 35, beat by two strokes the 67 scored by Lawson Little of San Francisco, who turned in the best performance he has ever posted for the national course.

Ideal Weather Prevails.

Laffoon's sensational warm-up drew attention in a field that includes most of the country's topnotch golfers—among them Bobby Jones.

Augmented by the arrival of Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn.; Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. J.; Harry Cooper, Chicago; Al Watrous, Detroit, Mich., and two outstanding amateurs, Charles Yates of Atlanta, Ga., and Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, La., the select field tuned up for the 72 hole medal play tournament in ideal weather, a contrast to yesterday's cold winds. The local weather bureau, however, predicted rain or snow for tomorrow.

Jones, tournament host who still draws the larger part of the spectators despite his previous poor showings here, equalled par for the 18 holes he played. He admitted he was "hitting them well," but would make no prediction as to his chances in the tournament.

Runyan Cards 69.

Close behind the two low scorers was Paul Runyan, diminutive star from White Plains, N. Y., who had 35—34 for a three under par 69. Among the other scores were 71's by Jimmy Hines of Garden City, Long Island; Ed Dudley, host professional, and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W Va.

Harold [Jug] McSpaden, Byron Nelson, Johnny Revolta, Henry Picard, and Jimmy Thomson all reported 72's while Ralph Guldahl carded a 73. Yates had a 76.

MICHIGAN BOOKS YALE FOR TWO SWIMMING MEETS

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 29.—[Special.] — Michigan's swimming team, which set a new record of 75 points when it won its eighth national collegiate title in 11 years last week, has been scheduled to meet Yale in home and home meets in 1938 and 1939.

Yale recently ran its string of dual meet victories to 163 and then on March 13 met defeat for the first time since 1924 when it lost to Harvard. Tentative dates for the Michigan-Yale series have been set for Feb. 12, 1938 in the Yale pool at New Haven and Feb. 11, 1939, here.

CUBS TROUNCE PIRATES, 23-14; IT'S BASEBALL(?)

Frey Hits Homer, Triple in Seventh Inning.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Bernardino, Cal., March 29.—The Cubs' suicide club was disbanded today without any of the impending casualties. The lads beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 23 to 14, in an affair played under ideal conditions in so far as the grounds and weather were concerned, but scarcely presenting the crème de la crème in the matter of pitchers.

During the four innings Red Lucas opposed Wes Flowers, it appeared the Cubs were in for another of those morose afternoons. They were behind 5 to 1, on a diet of three singles. Then Dutch Brandt, Ken Heintzelman, and John Munschel, all lefties, followed, giving much heart to our suffering fellows, as you may have suspected by the score.

Big Day for Cubs.

The game was the first victory in four games of the Cub exhibition season so far and enabled them to split their exhibition endeavors with the Pirates. It was the last meeting with major league opposition the Cubs will experience in California.

The Cubs first delighted their admirers by scoring in the first inning, the first time they had been able to get ahead in the exhibition season to date, a matter of 27 2-3 innings at the time the big event transpired. With one out Herman walked and took second while Cavarretta was bouncing out to Suhr and scored on Collins' line single to right. Collins reached second on the throw to the plate, but sank there when Demaree whiffed.

The great Cub glee over having been ahead was doused a bit in the Pirate half of the inning. Jensen doubled with one out and reached third when Dickshot singled off Herman's glove. Vaughan forced Dickshot, Jensen scoring the tying run. Herman threw out Suhr.

Trail 5 to 1 in Second.

The Cubs were behind 5 to 1 at the end of the second inning. Handley walked with one out and went to third on Todd's single to right. Lucas singled to left, scoring Handley, but when Todd tried to reach third he was retired, Galan to Hack. Schulte then walked and Jensen socked his second double, Lucas scoring and Schulte stopping at third. Dickshot singled to center, Schulte and Jensen

Talking It Over

DICK HANLEY, for nine years head coach at Northwestern, returned yesterday from Cleveland where he conferred Sunday with Homer Marshman, president of the Cleveland Rams, who recently were granted a franchise in the National Professional league. . . . The Cleveland club is seeking Hanley's services as coach. . . . A salary disagreement has delayed Hanley's decision. . . . If he accepts, he will continue his connections with the insurance company he now represents. . . . Jack Dempsey once conducted a personal two hour sitdown strike in THE TRIBUNE sports department because a match that he had signed for in Racine, Wis., promised to pay him less than $200 . . . . The Pittsburgh Pirates' lineup looks strange this spring with neither Paul or Lloyd Waner. . . . Paul hasn't joined the club and Lloyd is ill. . . . Ernie Quigley served as a world series umpire, refereed the Rose Bowl football game, and worked in a postseason intercollegiate basketball championship series all in the same year. . . . Jewell Young of Purdue made 172 points in the last Big Ten basketball race and was credited with an all-time conference scoring record. . . . His mark actually goes back only to the time a change was made in the scoring rules, which provided that a player fouled had to make his own free throw. . . . Stangel of Wisconsin scored 173 points in 1913 and Carney of Illinois 188 in 1920. . . . In those days the most expert free thrower was assigned the job when fouls were called. . . .

Both Nango Singh and Jack Conley were counted out after 21 minutes of wrestling last night in the White City arena. They fell from the ring in an exciting encounter and neither was able to climb back before the count of 20. Other results:

Frankie Hart and Ken Fenlon drew in 30 minutes.
Otto Schnabel beat Jerry Meeker in 1 minute and 20 seconds.
Buck O'Neil tossed Pete Holtz in 18:16.
Rudy Kay tossed Paul Miller in 26:46.

MACK TO ENTER SAN ANTONIO HOSPITAL TODAY

San Antonio, Tex., March 29.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is expected to enter Medical and Surgical hospital here tomorrow after his arrival from Mexico City. Word received by Dr. J. W. Goode tonight did not state the reason for asking the physicians' attendance. It was reported Mack was suffering from a leg infection which developed after he was struck by a batted ball.

Mark Roth, Yankees' Road Secretary, Stricken

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Mark Roth, veteran road secretary of the New York Yankees, suffered a hemorrhage of the stomach today and was ordered to remain in bed several days for a complete rest. As a result he will miss his first trip north with the Yankees since the club was organized in 1903. The team will be in charge of Assistant Secretary Rex Weyant.

WHITE SOX BEAT LOS ANGELES, 7-3, ON LATE RALLIES

Break 3-3 Tie in Seventh Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—The talents of the White Sox mule team had to be resorted to today to put a muffler on the Los Angeles Angels, who were a bit fresh because of a trimming they handed the Chicagoans last week. The Mules put them in their place with some belated activity after the so-called regulars had been more or less feeble in five innings of attacking. The industry of the Mules enabled Jim Dykes' exhibitionists to triumph, 7 to 3.

First among the Mules in the pleasing demonstration which broke a tie and netted the major leaguers four decisive runs was Harry Steinbacher, the fleet rookie from St. Paul. He tripled for a run in the seventh, breaking the 3 to 3 deadlock. In the eighth he singled, driving in another run which Tony Piet had started with a double. A single by Haas and two passes off one Clarence Struss were the other items involved in the three run incident with which the Sox put the Angels down for keeps.

Regulars' Bats Quiet.

The regulars were so bashful about putting their bats to use that they collected only four hits in the first five innings. It's possible they were weary after their fiery demonstration against the Cubs yesterday. Then again they may have been baffled by the pitching of Earl Overman. One of the few hits off him was a two bagger by Rip Radcliff and it blossomed into a run. Two of the others were a useless single by Dixie Walker and double by Jack Hayes. But the fourth of the series was important. Larry Rosenthal sent it over the fence with a mate on base in the fifth.

Rookie Steve Mesner was one of two players who started and finished the game. The young man again demonstrated that he still must learn how to get up off his heels while covering third base. He escaped an error but only because of lenient scoring.

Sox Pitching Spotty.

The Sox pitching was of no consequence, considering the class of the opposition. Italo [Lefty] Chelini was frisked for six hits in three innings, one a homer which scored a pair of runs. Clint Brown was next and he yielded four hits in three innings. One of the hits, however, was Mesner's fault and it grew into a run in the Opposition Enough to Safeguard Fight.

Springfield, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—By a vote of 70 to 24, the Illinois house of representatives tabled the Mendel bill adopted last week by the senate limiting the top price of prize fight tickets to $10.

The house action, however, did not completely bury the subject matter as a similar bill is pending before the house committee on license and miscellany, a subcommittee of which has been holding hearings in Chicago. But it appears to be dead so far as the Joe Louis-Jimmy Braddock fight scheduled to be held in Chicago on June 22 is concerned, as the vote tonight showed enough members against the idea to prevent it from getting the 102 votes needed to make such a restriction effective before July 1.

Action Apparently Planned.

Tonight's action on the bill apparently had been planned beforehand. Speaker Louie E. Lewis called the bill on first reading, a surprise to many members who thought he would let it sleep there for awhile. Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, Republican minority leader, immediately moved to table it. Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, the Democratic majority leader, for once found himself in agreement with the minority leader. The result was progress in helping Gov. Horner keep his pledge that the $10 limitation would not become effective without forcing the governor to resort to his veto power.

"I move we table the bill," said Schnackenberg. "It is below the dignity of the house and I've read that if it passes the fight might not be held in Illinois and the state would lose considerable revenue. I don't think this fight will be worth more than $2, but if people want to pay more, why should we object?"

Suggests Investigation.

"We should object," answered Representative Richard J. Lyons [R., Libertyville], "because it makes a monkey out of the fellow who supports boxing the year around with his $1.50 and $2 for a seat. If you permit high prices to be charged he can't afford to pay.

"There is a New York promotion crowd mixed up in this arrangement that was caught red-handed fixing a fight in New Orleans. If they come into Illinois with their tactics they'll kill boxing in this state. I want to see the fight go on here, but for the sake of clean sportsmanship let's have an investigation of the whole mess."

Adamowski explained to the house that the bill had passed the senate due to a misunderstanding over a letter written by Senator George M. Maypole [D., Chicago], president pro tempore of the upper chamber, to Promoter Joe Foley asking an option on tickets for the senators. He also explained the rôle of politicians at sporting events.

First 57 Rows to Politicians.

"We're in politics," said Adamowski. "We belong to a political organization and like to get good tickets. If you took the governors, legislators, aldermen, and other public officials out of the first 57 rows at a prize fight there would be plenty seats there for others.

"That is where the first 57 rows go. One won't find the real boxing fans on the first floor of the Stadium any more than one will find the real opera lovers on the first floor of the opera house. They are in the balcony.

"I think we should keep the fight in Chicago. We have a boxing commission to protect the state against the scandals mentioned here. No one has to buy a ticket if they don't want to, so who will be hurt?"

Agrees to Ticket Supervision.

The opponents of the bill prevailed in a standing vote after Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago] and John G. Ryan [D., Chicago], introducer of the house bill, explained the work of the subcommittee on Ryan's bill. Granata said that Chairman Joseph Triner of the Illinois boxing commission had agreed to let a legislative committee sit with the commission when the tickets are allocated, to see that it is done properly.

Granata said the Mendel bills should be tabled or sent to the house subcommittee where the Ryan bill is. Ryan tried to get a roll call on the Schnackenberg motion to table, but the speaker announced the vote after the clerk had counted the standees without recognizing his request.

Schaefer Defeats Hoppe in 28.2 Balk Line Match

Jake Schaefer and Willie Hoppe started their three day 28.2 balk line match at Bensinger's Recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue, yesterday afternoon. Schaefer won the opening block, 250 to 67, in seven innings. He had a high run of 100. Play will continue each afternoon and evening until the match is completed.

NEW BEE PITCHER HITS HOME RUN TO BEAT CARDS

Jim Turner's Drive Wins 4-2 Battle.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Errors sent the St. Louis Cardinals down to defeat again today as the Boston Bees took a 4 to 2 decision. Jim Turner, late of the American association, who finished on the mound for the Bees, won the exhibition game in the last of the eighth with a homer with one on base. Rookie Don Padgett of the Cardinals hit a homer in the fourth. Score:

St. Louis [N] ......010 100 000—2 4 5
Boston [N] ....020 000 02*—4 6 2

NEWARK POUNDS HENSHAW.

Sebring, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Pounding Brooklyn's Roy Henshaw for nine hits and five runs in the first four innings, the Newark Bears of the International league ended the Dodgers' five game winning streak today with a 5 to 3 victory. George McQuin, first baseman, and Bob Seeds, outfielder, drove in two runs each for the Bears. Catcher Babe Phelps, was the only Brooklyn batter to get more than one hit off Al Piechota and Mario Russo. Score:

Newark [IL] ....103 100 00*—5 10 1

Batteries—Henshaw, Butcher and Phelps, Klumpp; Piechota, Russo and Hershberger, Kosar.

SENATORS BEAT MONTREAL.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—The Washington Senators overcame an early lead to defeat the Montreal Royals, 4 to 2, today. Score:

Washington [A] ......200 011 00*—4 4 1
Montreal [IL] ......200 000 000—2 5 1

Batteries—Deshong, Cascarella and Hogan, Crompton; Duke, Kaddis, Smythe and Chandler, Kies.

RED SOX REGULARS WIN.

Sarasota, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Manager Joe Cronin, who is planning to take over the Red Sox's shortstop position, knocked in the first two runs with a double today when his regulars defeated the scrubs, 3 to 2, in a six inning practice game. Emerson Dickman and Lee Rodgers shared the pitching assignments for the regulars and Dick Midkiff and Stew Bowers hurled for the scrubs. Jimmy Foxx, who has been ailing with the grippe, went in as a pinch hitter in the sixth inning and hit into a double play.

YANKS SEE GAME.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—The New York Yankees today watched the Boston Bees beat the St. Louis Cardinals, the team selected by many to play the Yanks in the 1937 world series. The New Yorkers went through a two hour drill earlier in the day. It is expected that Manager Joe McCarthy will lop four names off the roster before the club heads for Tallahassee, Fla., Thursday.

CUYLER OUTRUNS REDS.

Tampa, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Kiki Cuyler, 36 year old outfielder, showed younger Cincinnati Reds today what careful living will do for physical stamina. Cuyler, who neither smokes, drinks, nor chews, was timed in 15.2 seconds in a base circling contest. He was beaten only by Rookie Infielder Jimmie Outlaw and Utility Outfielder Hub Walker.

GREENBERG CHEERS TIGERS.

Lakeland, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg's return to batting form was the main consolation in the Detroit Tiger camp today. The Tigers have lost five of eight engagements with major league teams, but Greenberg, out nearly all last season with a wrist fracture, has been hitting well. The Tigers meet the Phillies tomorrow.

INDIANS LIKE HUGHES.

New Orleans, La., March 29.—(AP)—Roy Hughes, former second baseman, today received the word of Manager Steve O'Neill that he will be the Cleveland Indians' regular third baseman. "I've stopped worrying about third base," remarked O'Neill. "The job is Roy's as long as he plays the kind of ball he has played this spring."

SIROCCO TAKES ST. PETERSBURG TO HAVANA RACE

HAVANA, March 29.—(AP)—Roger Robinson of New Haven, Conn., piloted his 44 foot cutter, Sirocco, to a record breaking victory in the eighth annual St. Petersburg to Havana yacht race today.

Pushed along by a steady northerly breeze from the time the fleet of ten left St. Petersburg at noon Saturday, Robinson sailed into Havana at 3:25:55 a. m. His elapsed time of 39 hours, 25 minutes, 55 seconds clipped two hours, 16 minutes, five seconds off the former record of 41:42:00 established by L. S. Ruder's Haligonian in the first race in 1930.

Further honors went to another class B entrant, Hugh Matheson Jr.'s cutter Babe of Miami. Making port at 7:02:05 a. m., Babe not only won first place in its own division, but likewise clinched the fleet title on corrected time.

Babe's corrected time in class B competition was 37:28:24 against 37:55:57 for Sirocco. In corrected fleet time, Babe took first place at 33:58:12 as compared with Sirocco's 34:25:43.

S. L. La Brot's Salabar, a 38 foot cutter from New Orleans, was third in corrected time both in class B and fleet computations.

Winsome too, a 64 foot yawl owned by Harkness Edwards of East Hampton, N. Y., won honors in the class A division.

Rothschild Five Defeats Hub, 20-19; Wins Series

The Maurice L. Rothschild basketball team defeated a quintet representing the Hub, 20 to 19, last night at the Central Y. M. C. A. The triumph gave the Rothschild five the three game series, two to one. Abe Glodney led the winners' attack with seven points on one field goal and five free throws.

scoring. Vaughan singled to right, Dickshot taking third. Suhr forced Vaughan.

Collins Busts One.

In the fifth, Brandt's first appearance, the Cubs added three runs to double their score in each of their three earlier exhibition games. After Meyer had lined out for Flowers, Galan, batting right handed against the newly arrived Brandt, singled to left and went to third on Herman's single to right center. Stainback batted for Cavarretta and was thrown out, Brandt to Suhr, Galan scoring. Collins, also shifting to a right handed stance, hit a 360 foot homer over the the left field fence, scoring Herman. Demaree singled to center, but O'Dea popped to Vaughan.

Higbe started pitching at the outset of the fifth and got nicked for a run before steadying. Brubaker opened with a single and Handley also singled. The runners advanced on Todd's out and Brubaker scored while Herman was throwing out Brandt.

The Cubs went ahead in the sixth. Frey walked and went to third on Jurges' single to center. Higbe lined to Vaughan. Galan rolled a double play ball at Vaughan, but Handley dropped Arkie's toss, Frey scoring, Jurges reaching second and Galan first. Herman walked, filling the bases, after which Stainback popped to Vaughan in short center, and Jurges scored the tying run after the catch. Collins singled to center, his third hit, scoring Galan.

Pirates Regain Lead.

The Pirates went ahead with two runs in their end of the sixth. With one down Dickshot walked and scored the tying run on Vaughan's triple. Herman threw out Suhr, Vaughan holding third. O'Dea let the fourth ball to Brubaker get through him for a passed ball, Vaughan scoring and Brubaker reaching second. Handley popped to Frey.

Heintzelman was sent forth in the seventh inning to preserve the Pirate lead and here's what happened to the pride of Peruque, Mo.: Garbark batted for O'Dea and walked. Frey knocked a homer past Schulte, scoring Garbark to put the Cubs ahead. Jurges walked and advanced on Higbe's sacrifice. Galan singled, scoring Jurges. Herman singled to left, sending Galan to third, and when the ball got away from Jensen, Galan scored and Herman reached third. Stainback and Collins walked, filling the bases. Demaree tapped in front of the plate and was out. Todd to Suhr, Herman scoring. Garbark got his second pass, again filling the bases, then Frey came through with his second extra base hit of the inning, a triple, which scored Stainback, Collins, and Garbark. Jurges flied to Dickshot.

Munschel Finishes.

The Pirates whacked away at Higbe for five hits and three runs in their half. The hits included a single by Schulte, a triple by Jensen, successive singles by Dickshot and Vaughan and a double by Suhr. This made the score 15 to 11 in favor of the Cubs.

Lefty Munschel, a youth from Brookfield, Ind., pitched the eighth and held the Cubs to four runs. Singles by Stainback and Collins and a homer by Demaree figured in the production.

Two hits by Handley and Todd led to a run in the Pirate eighth. The Cubs reeled off a nice double play, Jurges to Herman to Collins, to hold down the scampering.

The Cubs completed their offensive with 4 runs in the ninth. Jurges contributed a single and Higbe, Galan, and Herman successive doubles.

A single by Jensen and doubles by Vaughan and Brubaker added to Pirate runs in the ninth. Vaughan's hit was his fifth of the game and his 15th in 25 times at bat in the exhibition season.

IN $8,000 MEET

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Irving Crane, 23 year old Rochester, N. Y., player, gave the world pocket billiards tournament an opening night upset when he defeated Andrew Ponzi of New York, former champion and one of the favorites, tonight. Crane trounced Ponzi, 125 to 78 in an eighteen inning match, after James Caras of Wilmington, Del., had opened the nineteen day tourney by defeating another tournament newcomer, Fay Gainer of Vineland, N. J., 125 to 87 in twenty-two innings.

Ponzi, who won the title in 1935 but did not defend it last year, was a 2 to 1 favorite to win the tournament before the match and a 3 to 1 favorite to defeat Crane.

Tomorrow's schedule sends Willie Mosconi, Philadelphia, against Joseph Diehl, Rockford, Ill., and Bennie Allen, Kansas City, against Charles Seaback, Boston, in the afternoon. At night Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland, plays Onofrio Lauri, Brooklyn, and Ralph Greenleaf, Chicago, meets Marcel Camp, Detroit.

Score by innings of the Crane-Ponzi match:

IRVING CRANE—0 15 14 9 0 12 8 1 6 0 0 0 0 16 26 10 0 10—127. Scratches, 2. Total, 125. High run, 26.

MELOY FUNERAL TODAY.

Cambridge, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Funeral services for John Meloy, 69 years old, formerly well known in northwestern Illinois as a baseball umpire, will be held tomorrow.

Landis Asked to See Evans in Henrich Row

New Orleans, La., March 29.—(AP)—Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball club, announced today he was asking Commissioner K. M. Landis to summon Billy Evans, former general manager of the Indians, for questioning in a dispute over Tommy Henrich, Milwaukee outfielder.

Bradley said he was prepared to charge Evans with "breach of ethics," but would not do so unless the baseball commissioner summoned Evans, now associated with the Boston Red Sox, "to defend himself."

Evans, in Little Rock, Ark., said earlier he "welcomed an investigation," and denied he was responsible for any trouble over Henrich.

The young outfielder was sold to Milwaukee last fall by New Orleans. Both these clubs are affiliated with Cleveland in the development of players.

A reported interview with Evans last year, in which he was quoted as saying Henrich was worth $15,000 to any major league club, is the basis of the dispute. Henrich wrote Landis asking why—if he was worth $15,000 alone—he had been sold to Milwaukee with Pitcher Ralph Winegarner for $7,500.

GIANTS TO BID $20,000.

Gulfport, Miss., March 29.—(AP)—Despite the presence of such accomplished outfielders as Mel Ott, Hank Leiber, and Joe Moore on his team, Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants is prepared to bid $20,000 for the signature of Tom Henrich, Milwaukee outfielder, who has asked Commissioner Landis to release him from his Cleveland contract.

Landis will confer with Cleveland officials in New Orleans Thursday and if Henrich is made a free agent there is certain to be spirited bidding for his services.

WELCOMES INVESTIGATION.

Little Rock, Ark., March 29.—(AP)—Billy Evans, general manager of the Boston Red Sox farms system, hunted for a definition tonight.

After reading that Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland baseball club, intended to charge him with "breach of ethics" in connection with a dispute over Tommy Henrich, Milwaukee outfielder, Evans said:

"I'm sure I don't know what it's all about.

"I haven't been notified of any hearing by Commissioner Landis. I will welcome any kind of investigation.

"I'm sure I don't know what Mr. Bradley means by 'breach of ethics.'

"I'll have to look that one up."

GRANT AND RIGGS WIN EASILY IN ATLANTA TENNIS

Atlanta, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—Bryan Grant, Bobby Riggs, and the other favorites in the Atlanta invitational tennis tournament breezed through the first round today.

Grant whipped Burtz Boulware, Georgia Tech student from Florida, 6-0, 6-2, and tomorrow will play Vernon Marcum of Lakeland, Fla., who beat Glenn McConnel of Atlanta, 6-1, 6-2. Riggs defeated Dr. Glenn Dudley of Atlanta, 6-0, 6-3. Riggs, national clay courts champion, is matched tomorrow with Malon Courts, an outstanding Atlantic City player, who beat George Silva of Georgia Tech, 6-3, 6-3, today.

Joe Hunt of Los Angeles, seeded third behind Grant and Riggs, eliminated Reg Fleet of Atlanta, 6-0, 6-2. His opponent tomorrow is Robert Decker of Miami, conqueror today of Alison Adams of Atlanta, 6-2, 9-7.

WHITE SOX BEAT ANGELS, 7 TO 3, ON LATE RALLIES

Steinbacher's Run in 7th Breaks 3-3 Tie.

fifth. During the last three innings Thornton Lee, the ex-Indian southpaw, performed and he was a slight improvement over his predecessors, allowing only three hits.

The Sox started the first inning as if intent on wrecking the premises. Instead they compromised on one run. Destruction loomed when Radcliff doubled and Walker and Rosenthal drew passes, filling the bases with none out. Overman pitched himself out of this jam without overexerting himself. Bonura contributed a fly to left, Radcliff scoring after the catch. Appling eased the situation by flying to Holt in right. Hayes popped toward first base and when Hurst didn't appear interested in making the catch, Overman sprinted over and handled the job.

Chelini maintained his balance in the Angels' first half despite two hits, but three of the enemy hit safely in the second to score two runs. Atwell doubled past third. A fly to Walker disposed of Mattick after which a drive by Bottarini bumped against the lighting equipment in left center. Under local rules this was a homer, Atwell preceding Bottarini across the plate. After two were out, Gudat doubled and Statz walked, but McWilliams lofted to Rosenthal.

Rosenthal Hits Homer.

During the second, third, and fourth innings Overman conducted his campaign so skilfully that the Sox finally awoke to the fact they weren't playing the complacent Cubs. But they got him in the fifth, just before he was scheduled to quit work for the day. He walked Brown and Radcliff with none out, but the rally was slowed down when Brown was picked off second while waiting for a bunt off Walker's bat. Walker died on strikes, whereupon Rosenthal boomed his homer over the left field wall, putting the Sox in front, 3 to 2. Bonura fanned for the third out.

In the home fifth Mesner forgot that he is no longer a member of the local nine. His oversight enabled the Angels to tie the score. McWilliams led off with a grounder almost directly at the kid rookie, but the latter neglected to keep the ball from skipping past for a single. Hurst spanked an honest single to center. Holt perfected a bunt on which the two runners advanced. McWilliams traveled the remaining distance to the plate on Atwell's fly which Radcliff handled. Brown got out of the mixup when Mattick grounded to Piet who had come into action along with other members of the Mule brigade.

Break Tie in Seventh.

The Sox broke the tie in the seventh by making use of Struss' pitching. Skoronski started the inning by popping out for Brown. Steinbacher lined a triple into the right field corner and Haas walked. Kreevich forced Haas and by the narrowest of margins escaped being doubled. The escape enabled Steinbacher to score the run that gave the Sox a 4 to 3 margin. Bonura concluded the inning with a tap to Mattick.

The three run clincher off Struss in the eighth started with Piet doubling after McBride had been tossed out. Mesner flied to right for the second out. The parade then began to form. Rensa and Lee walked, filling the bases. Steinbacher handcuffed the third baseman with a line single, Piet scoring. Haas dropped a looping single in left, sending Rensa and Lee home. Kreevich fouled to Russell for the third out.

As a reward for the pleasing way in which they polished off the Cubs for the ninth straight time yesterday, Manager Jim Dykes has decided to go through with his original plan to declare a holiday tomorrow. Thus the Sox can be on their own until Wednesday afternoon when they are scheduled against the Pirates here.

Baxter Learns About Teasing Strip Teasers

Atlantic City, N. J., March 29.—(AP)—Thrown from the ring by his opponent, Laverne Baxter, 226 pound wrestler from the University of North Carolina, got into an argument with an 85 pound strip teaser tonight and was counted out by Referee Bill Martino.

The night club strip teaser, Louise Clayton, who had been rooting for Wrestler Joe Dusek, bashed Baxter's head against the back of a seat when he fell into her lap.

Baxter had something to say about it, whereupon the teaser took off a high heel slipper and hit him over the head. Baxter climbed back into the ring to find he had been counted out.

Both insisted there had been no rehearsals.

WHAT! WRESTLERS, TOO?

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—(AP)—Wrestlers handled a sitdown strike here tonight in their most approved style.

Henry Tolle, promoter, found six wrestlers instead of two in the ring when he wanted to start his show. He was informed they wanted more money because of the capacity house.

The promoter offered an additional $20, and five called off the strike. John Felix, however, demanded $50 and kept sitting. But the show went on, and Arnold Pocal and Einar Olson soon were tossing one another around and at Felix.

Tiring finally of the sit-downer, the wrestlers tossed him over the ropes. Milwaukee's first sitdown strike was a washout in the laps of the customers.

OUT COMES "STARCH"–LIMP GO WHISKERS
—when soaked with Williams

FEEL how tough and hard your whiskers are. Yet, your razor must cut through 40,000 hairs every day.

No matter how tough your skin or how sharp your blade—shaving may make your face sore and tender unless you use a "twin-action" cream like Williams.

FIRST, Williams rich, moist lather penetrates the natural oil around each whisker—knocks out every trace of "starchy" stiffness.

SECOND, it soaks and softens the outer skin on your face—allows your blade's sharp edge to reach down to the base of each hair. You get a clean, close shave without pulling or scraping.

Complete your shave with a cool dash of Aqua Velva—closes pores, fights off irritation. Your skin feels refreshed all day.

OLYMPIC TRACK STAR Glenn Hardin, who broke all records in the 400-meter hurdles, tells us: "If you've got a set of wiry whiskers like mine, you'll need a he-man's shaving cream. That's why I've used Williams since I started shaving. Aqua Velva gives my skin that 'air-conditioned' feeling."

FRED PERRY, World's Amateur Tennis Champion, says: "One of the most pleasant and satisfying discoveries I made on coming to America was Williams 'Twin-Action' Shaving Cream. Aqua Velva, too, keeps my skin soft and fresh through long days in sun and wind."

Soaks Whiskers Softer

Made by a special homogenizing process, Williams Shaving Cream has a greater capacity to hold water than ordinary creams.

1. It soaks the "starch" out of your whiskers quicker than any other popular cream, tests show. 2. It instantly softens the scaly outer skin on your face—allows blade to shave at the base of each hair. Try a tube.

10 p. m.—Chicago Lawndale vs. Lakeview.

The B'nai B'rith Youth Organization will celebrate its first anniversary tonight by bringing to a close its second annual basketball tournament with the crowning of four B'nai B'rith champions at Lane Technical High school, Addison street and Western avenue. Titles will be decided in the 125 pounds, 140 pounds, heavyweight, and inter-B'nai B'rith lodge divisions.

Sid Yates.

Lakeview Has Big Ten Stars.

An all Big Ten conference squad will start for Lakeview lodge against Chicago Lawndale for the B'nai B'rith championship of Chicagoland. Led by Sid Yates, former University of Chicago star, Lakeview will start a team that will include Barney Medintz and Saul Farber, former Northwestern players.

Lawndale will counter with a line-up that includes Henry [Red] Skurnick, who starred with the Cleveland Rosenblums; Lou [Slim] Newman, star of the Chicago Nationals of a few years ago; Dave Farber and Samuel Edelcup, who coached at Crane Tech, and Sam [Sonny] Newman, a former university player.

Two of Chicago's leading heavyweight quintets will clash for the B. B. Y. O. championship when the Hahns and Rivals meet.

Hahns Meet J. P. I.

The 140 pound title game will bring together the defending champion Hahns, who won that championship as the Schillers last year, and the Jewish People's Institute.

Max Mass, captain of Manley High school's all-city championship team last year, is the star of the J. P. I. quintet.

Seymour Heyman and Dick Daar, who gained all-city rating at Roosevelt High school several years ago, and the Krieger brothers, Sid and Jack, and Morris Mosoff, will form the Hahns starting lineup.

A team that has grown since last year when it won the 115 pound title is the Kadish quintet which will try to gain similar honors in the 125 pound division when it encounters the Simchas in tonight's opener at 7 o'clock.

The line-ups for tonight's games follow:

Mrs. Walter Hagen Wins Divorce from Golfer

Trenton, N. J., March 29.—(AP)—Charging desertion, Mrs. Edna C. Hagen of Deal won an uncontested divorce today from Walter C. Hagen, golf professional. Advisory Master Francis Child, who filed his conclusions recommending the divorce today, upheld the wife's contention Hagen deserted her in March, 1926, while they were wintering in Florida. They were married in New York April 30, 1923.

RECOUNT GIVES BROWN VICTORY OVER MANFREDO

Harold Brown, former Golden Gloves boxer, last night reached new heights in his quest for recognition as a contender for the world welterweight championship by scoring an upset victory over Al Manfredo of Fresno, Cal., in ten rounds at Marigold Gardens.

A mistake by an official in marking his card gave Manfredo the verdict at first. Secretary Tom Tuite of the Illinois boxing commission, caught the error and ordered the match awarded to Brown.

The overflow crowd of 1,803, which was pro-Brown, jeered the first decision, then greeted the corrected verdict with prolonged cheers.

Judge William O'Connell voted for Manfredo, 54-46, and Referee Phil Collins scored 51-49, and Judge William A. Battye, 52-48 for Brown.

Brown Settles Down.

The battle was nip and tuck throughout. Manfredo started by making Brown miss rights to the jaw then countering to the head. In the second round the coast boxer continued to outmaneuver Brown. Harold gained confidence in the next round and belted Manfredo to the body with a left swing and a right to the chin. The blow almost floored Manfredo, but he recovered to land several damaging punches as the round ended. Manfredo continued his defensive tactics in the fourth. He was content to stand back and score with withering counter wallops as Brown rushed in.

Brown got jittery in the fifth and sixth, allowing Al to take the lead. They fought on even terms in the seventh and ninth.

The fight ended like an old fashioned street fight, first one then the other having the upper hand.

Vinciquerra Wins.

Tommy Howell, stocky junior welterweight from Danville, Ill., whipped Harry Booker in five rounds in the semi-windup battle. Booker was a last minute substitute for Mike Kilnick of Detroit.

Carl Vinciquerra, last year's Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, thoroughly trounced Willie Davies in four rounds. It was the second professional triumph for Vinciquerra, who weighed 185½ pounds. Davies' weight was 190.

Receipts were $2,100.

Maxie Rosenbloom, clown prince of boxing, and Jack Kranz, Gary heavyweight, yesterday were matched to meet in the ten round main event at Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Everett Marshall is expected to return today from Kansas City, Mo., where he wrestled Lee Wykoff last night. The Colorado blond, who is recognized as heavyweight champion by the state athletic commission, meets Osley [Chief] Sanooke at the Coliseum Thursday. Ali Baba, who is matched with Hans Schnabel in the semi-final, is prepping for a headliner with Oki Shikina at Rainbo Fronton tomorrow. Benny Reuben meets Otto Schnabel, Roland Meeker opposes Jack [Bully] Kogut, Buck O'Neil encounters Sammy Kohn, and Paul Miller is matched with Charlie Peterson. . . . Andrew Fillmore, 1937 Illinois athletic club featherweight champion, boxes William Lewis in an amateur bout tonight at Elgin, Ill.

Billy Miske Jr., light heavyweight son of the late heavyweight contender, has been signed to fight Floyd McNulty in a four round supporting match to the Lenny Cohen-Kid Irish ten round headliner at Majestic arena Friday. In another scrap at four rounds Harry Smith, west side 215 pound battler, will engage Ray Archibald, Cincinnati, O. Promoter Billy Cepak announced that he also will present a card at the Majestic April 9, following information that a proposed program at Chicago Stadium on that date has been canceled. . . . Hans Birkie may be Harry Thomas' opponent at Minneapolis April 8 and Roscoe Toles at Detroit April 16. Thomas yesterday appeared at the Illinois boxing board and challenged Max Marek to a contest for the state heavyweight crown. Thomas, who comes from Eagle Bend, Minn., now is a resident of Chicago. The proposed encounter is likely to be held at the Coliseum late next month.

Lorenzo Lovings and Harry Booker, rival south side lightweights, are paired in the five round secondary feature at the Fronton Friday. The main event principals are Kid Leonard and Johnny Phagan, hard hitting middleweights. Jack Fargo, Winnetka heavyweight, will try for his third professional triumph against Henry Ullmer, Milwaukee, in one of three clashes at four rounds. In previous appearances at the Fronton Fargo scored a technical knockout over Verne Galbreath and whipped Willie Davies. . . . Lenny Cohen has accepted a ten rounder with Jimmy Perrin at Memphis, Tenn., April 15.

THE CHAMPION

Joe Platak of Lake Shore Athletic club, who is attempting to equal the outstanding performances in the history of the game, a third consecutive National A. A. U. handball title, in the annual meet at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

It Is Official! Braddock Gets His Summons

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The long arm of the law finally caught up with James J. Braddock today when the heavyweight champion was served with a court order designed to prevent his fighting Joe Louis in Chicago on June 22. For slightly more than a week, Braddock has done a bit of artful dodging in his game of tag with United States marshals.

Today, however, Braddock permitted himself to be served. In the Newark law offices of Samuel B. Gould, brother of his manager, Joe Gould, the champion accepted the papers from the hand of United States Marshal William McDermitt while cameras took it all in for posterity.

Smart Stuff, Eh, Joe?

The order, signed by Federal Judge Philip Forman in Trenton, requires Braddock to appear in Federal court at Newark on April 5 and show cause why he should not be compelled to fulfill his contract with Madison Square Garden to fight Max Schmeling June 3.

It all was very confusing. On Saturday it was said Braddock had been served in the suit at Woodcliffe Lake, N. J. Here, apparently, was the same thing all over again. But McDermitt, the marshal, announced in Newark that his deputies had mistaken Sparring Partner Gunboat Williams for the champion. This brought forth the retort from James J. Johnston, Garden boxing impresario, "How could any one mistake that guy?".

Gould, pinch hitting for Braddock, declared, "We just wanted to show them we were smarter than they are. We weren't ducking a thing. We were willing to be served but at our own time and our own place. There was no point to accepting papers in Florida. That's too far away. Now we have them in Newark, our own backyard."

Hot and Cold Joe.

While the court mills were grinding, a new development cropped up. Gould admitted today he had conferred with Schmeling yesterday via ship-to-shore phone regarding Schmeling's offer for a fight in Berlin.

Schmeling had withdrawn his offer before he sailed and Gould was willing to let it go at that. Meanwhile, the Illinois senate passed a bill limiting the Braddock-Louis bout to a $10 top. Gould promptly lost all interest in the fight. He said Braddock would not fight in Chicago if the bill is passed. His interest flared anew last night when he learned the Illinois house had tabled the measure.

HARVARD HOCKY CAPTAIN.

Cambridge, Mass., March 29.—[Special.]—The Harvard hocky team today elected Samuel Trafford Hicks Jr. of Arlington, Mass., to captain the sextet next season.

Joe Platak Advances in U. S. Handball

Joe Platak, defending champion, representing the Lake Shore club of Chicago, held his opponent, Bill Maurer of St. Paul, Minn., to 7 points in two games to win by scores of 21-3, 21-4 in the national A. A. U. handball tournament at the Lake Shore Athletic club yesterday.

Ed Melchione of the Illinois Athletic club advanced by beating Robert Drescher of Milwaukee in a three game match. The scores were 19-21, 21-18, 21-18.

Atcheson Joins Platak.

Sam Atcheson of Memphis, Tenn., a former title holder, No. 3 in the national listing, joined Platak in the third round by winning a 21-2, 21-7 victory over Joe Polaski of St. Paul.

Edward Rawlings of Kansas City became a strong contender for the singles championship when he won over Samuel Shmukler of Washington, D. C., 21-13, 21-12.

Three Chicagoans Lose.

Three local entrants fell by the wayside as play continued in the second round. Harold Wallace of the Medinah A. C. lost to Joe Goldsmith of Los Angeles, 21-12, 21-8.

Ray Kuhn of Fort Wayne, Ind., was forced to play three games before eliminating July Borella of the Central Y. M. C. A., 12-21, 21-2, 21-8.

Dan Healy, veteran Chicago ace competing for the Hamilton club, was beaten by Fred Miller of Milwaukee, 21-8, 21-8.

Perry Defeats Vines in Three Sets to Even Series

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—(AP)—Fred Perry defeated Ellsworth Vines, 3-6, 10-8, 6-4, here tonight to even their professional tennis series at 19 matches. A crowd of 3,000 saw the match. George Lott defeated Bruce Barnes, 6-2, 6-2, in a preliminary.

Wisconsin Prep Teams Open Meet at Madison Today

Madison, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—The vanguard of twenty-four Wisconsin high school basketball teams, contestants in the twenty-second annual state tournament beginning tomorrow, arrived tonight to attend the Wisconsin-West Virginia boxing match as guests of the university athletic department.

The first round of the Class B division will be played tomorrow, with the Class A and C teams competing Wednesday. Defending champion in Class A is Superior Central. Port Washington in Class B and Pardeeville in Class C were among the 345 teams eliminated in district tournaments.

Superior Central will face Beloit in the first round of its drive for a third consecutive state title. Ten of the twenty-four teams will be playing in their first state tournament.

Mrs. Vare Ties Record to Lead Pinehurst Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., March 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia equaled the No. 3 Pinehurst course record here today to lead a field of sixteen qualifiers into the championship flight of the 35th annual north and south women's golf tourney. Her medal score was 72.

Making her second tournament start of the season, the six-times national champion put together a 36-36 for a one stroke advantage over Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., who finished in second place with a 38-35 for par 73.

Third place was shared by three players with scores of 74. They are Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., who recently set the record for this 6,119 yard course at 72, Deborah Verry of Worcester, Mass., the defending champion, and Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C.

Only one other player in the field of 82 starters broke 80, Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., who was runner-up to Miss Verry in the 1936 tourney, scoring a 79.

ALTER DOUBLES STANDING TWICE IN A. B. C. MEET

Braddock Takes Dempsey Place on Team.

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Only two pairs of bowlers succeeded today in accomplishing the increasingly difficult feat of breaking into the first ten in the American Bowling Congress tournament standings. A number of others rolled high enough scores to qualify for cuts in the $147,000 prize money, however.

Scoring games of 355-436-464, Frank Brautigam and Sam Vaccaro of Rochester, N. Y., rolled into sixth place in the doubles with 1,255. Ben Kwiatek and John Mastey of Cleveland tied for eighth place in the same class with 1,243.

Chicago Team Shoots.

As an indication of how hard it is to earn a place in the high ten on the standing board, the tenth place totals after the recent week-end shakeups are: Five-man — Buffalo A. C., 2,885; doubles—John Swartzwalder and Jack Cimpi, Auburn, N. Y., 1,240; singles—Harry Abrams, Detroit, 667, and all events—Mike Collinak, Detroit, 1,859.

Sinclair Refining company, lone Chicago entry on the card tonight, totaled 2,615 on games of 865—869—881.

Braddock Replaces Dempsey.

Announcement was made that James J. Braddock will roll in place of Jack Dempsey Wednesday night. Mort Lindsey, Andy Varipapa, and other headliners also will bowl that night. Dempsey was taken ill last week and is recuperating in Miami, Fla.

Braddock informed congress officials that he would be glad to substitute for Dempsey. "I used to do considerable bowling in Jersey and I'll be in there pitching," said Braddock.

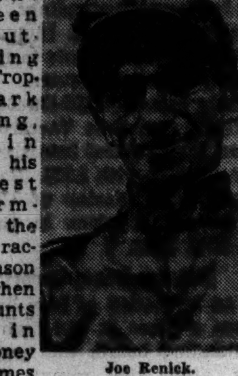
LEBLANC RIDES 4 WINNERS AT TROPICAL PARK

Apprentice Puts Seven Mounts Into Money.

Miami, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Hubert Leblanc, youthful apprentice jocky from Maringouin, La., who has been the outstanding star of Tropical Park meeting, turned in one of his greatest performances at the Florida racing season today when his mounts finished in the money seven times on an eight race card.



Joe Renick.

Increasing his lead in the race for the $500 gold watch which will go to the leading jocky of the meeting, Leblanc rode four winners to bring his total to 23. Starting with Day Dawn in the first race, he won on Dark War in the second, Battling Girl in the sixth and the $29 to $2 long shot, War Rumor, in the seventh. Three of his other four mounts finished third, and twice the winners were long shots.

Jockies Hurt in Spill.

Galon Boy took the third race and returned $41.80 on a $2 ticket, while Leblanc brought Narise home third. The final event went to Never Yet, which paid $105.20 as Leblanc brought home Ubald G. in the show position.

The Louisiana lad's other third place mount was Sound Wave in the third race, which was marked by a spill in which two jockies were injured. Soon after the start of the four furlong dash for maiden 2 year olds, Mrs. Emil Denemark's Bertillon went down, carrying the veteran Joe Renick, and spilled Mrs. T. B. Brown's Blazing Memory, ridden by Joe Rosen.

Darby Duke Wins.

Examination at the track indicated Renick had broken his collarbone and Rosen might have suffered a similar fracture in addition to cuts and bruises. Both were taken to a hospital for further examination. The favorite, Darby Duke, won the race in a driving finish with Byrd's Flight while Sound Wave remained third throughout the running.

Oakland Longshots.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 29.—(AP)—A pair of longshot winners shared honors on a dull card at Oaklawn Park today. Peace Token, third race winner, rewarded his backers at $65.10 in the $2 mutuels, and Speed Queen in the fifth paid $42.10 straight. C. N. Finch's Surveyor took an early lead in the featured race and finished four lenghts in front of Mrs. J. Chesney's Cristate. Miss Saxon, owned by F. Barton, was third. The winner covered the distance of slightly less than six furlongs in 1:07 4-5.

Ambers-Montanez Nontitle Fight Is Set for April 5

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The postponed lightweight fight between Champion Lou Ambers and Pedro Montanez of Porto Rico today was set for April 5 in Madison Square Garden. Originally the non-title bout was scheduled for April 2, but it was deferred because Montanez's leg was injured in training.

Time, 1:11 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dark War, $5.70 straight, $2.50 place, $2.20 show; Kawagoe, $2.50 place, $2.30 show; Scotch Queen, $2.40 show. Winner, br. m., 7, by Traumer-Sun Thor. Owner, Cosgrave stable. Trainer, A. E. Alexandra. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 2:30. At post 4½ minutes.

DARK WAR, much the best, was rated along behind the pace to the far turn, where he ran into lead, drew away and won nicely in hand. KAWAGOE, away good, was hard ridden all the way. SCOTCH QUEEN slipped through on inside and finished gamely. QUEEN VIC moved up gamely and ran good race. JOHNNY BANE tired badly after showing speed for half a mile.

THIRD RACE—Four furlongs. Maiden colts and geldings. Two year olds. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Owner, Darby Dan Farm. Trainer, M. H. Jordan. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:03. At post 2 minutes.

DARBY DUKE got away fast, was kept on inside and had to stand a long drive to win. BYRD'S FLIGHT, displaying great speed, forced the pace, tired only in closing strides. SOUND WAVE showed a smart race and is sure to improve over this effort. UPSEE DUTCH ran good race. There was a jam going into far turn and BERTILLON and BLAZING MEMORY fell.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Owner, M. Fator. Trainer, F. L. Moore. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:34. At post 3½ minutes.

GALON BOY moved up very fast around turn, came to the inside of OUR CREST and, closing fast, won going away. OUR CREST, away fast, was kept in hand to stretch, where she drew away from field but suddenly swerved out and just saved the place. NARISE might have won but for being carried a bit wide by OUR CREST. MUGGINS closed a big gap. MONDORF stopped badly at end of half a mile.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Owner, Mrs. E. D. Jacobs. Trainer, H. Jacobs. Start bad. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:06. At post 3½ minutes.

PEEDEEQUE, away well, was hustled along, got to the front around turn and drew away at end. SAM WORTHY beat the gate but boy took back. He closed fast and was second in last stride. PRE WAR, well up all the way, ran good race. SEVEN STAR, away in a tangle, closed a big gap. IDLE ALONG had no mishap.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and a furlong. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

RED WINGS FIGHT TO CLINCH HOCKY TITLE TONIGHT

Canadiens Trail Crippled Leaders, 2 to 1.

MONTREAL, Que., March 29.—[Special.]—A crippled Detroit Red Wings hocky team tonight awaits the fourth clash of the Stanley cup series with the Montreal Canadiens, which also determines the National Hocky league title, at the Forum tomorrow night.

The Red Wings will be without the services of their last line of defense it became known tonight when Pudgy Norman Smith, the goalie, was discovered to be suffering from injuries of a nature that will keep him out of the struggle.

On the Red Wings' hospital list he joined the high scoring Laurie Aurie and Defense Man Doug Young.

Robertson Replaces Smith.

Replacing Smith tomorrow night will be Earl Robertson, brought on from the Pittsburgh Hornets, the Detroit farm team.

Robertson did not appear at best advantage in his last game with the Hornets. The Syracuse Stars beat the Hornets, 3 to 0, in the minor league's western division playoff.

The Red Wings may not let the injury jinx bother them, however, for during their drive to the lead in the American division of the National Hocky league one or more of their stars were out with injuries most of the time.

The Detroit team will meet the emergency with a defensive game against the Canadiens tomorrow night. The Canadiens could throw the playoff into a deadlock by a victory in the final game on the home ice.

Red Wings Lead, 2 to 1.

The Red Wings are leading the Canadiens, 2 to 1.

The Montreal Maroons and the New York Rangers will be marking time while the Red Wings and Canadiens clash. The fact that the Canadiens still have a chance to win made it necessary for the Maroons to delay the opening of this two out of three game series with the Rangers until Thursday night at Madison Square Garden.

The Rangers also are battered up for the opening of the series with the Maroons. Neil Colville who has a broken jaw will be protected by a special harness. Alex Shibicky and Ching Johnson are both suffering from bruises and cuts.

Name 122d Polo Team to Meet Detroit

Lieuts. Cliff Harrison, Art Zimmerman, and Carl Johnson were named yesterday to represent the 122d Field artillery against the Detroit Gold Hats in the western polo championship tournament Thursday night in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Another game Thursday will bring together the Chicago combination of Bill Fergus, Capt. Maxwell Corpening, and Steve Hammond, who will represent the west against the east in the national championship tournament, and a threesome to be picked tonight.

The Chicago Shamrocks, who will meet Cleveland's entry in the Sherman cup class, will be picked from among Capt. Leslie R. Ireland, Lieuts. James S. McAnulty, Chris Schuh, William F. Kirby, and Harry O. Owen Jr.

INDIAN HURTADO, FISCHER DRAW IN EIGHT ROUNDS

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Ralph [Indian] Hurtado of Panama and Maxie Fischer of Newark, N. J., fought an eight round draw in the feature bout at St. Nicholas Palace tonight. Hurtado weighed 132, Fischer, 134½.

Fischer built up an early lead using a fast left to the face and body, but Hurtado rallied to take the fifth, sixth, and seventh rounds. A crowd of about 5,000 saw the bouts.

In the semi-final Bobby Pacho, 146½, of San Francisco, Cal., knocked out Bucky Jones, 144½, of Morristown, N. J., in 1:56 of the second round.

INTERIM DIVIDEND PLAN IS ADOPTED BY SIMMONS CO.

50 Cents a Share Voted; Others Take Action.

Taking an action similar to that of other important concerns in declaring interim dividends instead of regular quarterly payments, the Simmons company, manufacturer of bed springs, furniture and other home products, yesterday declared an interim dividend of 50 cents a share, payable April 16 to stock of record on April 8.

In 1936 the company resumed dividends on its common stock, with disbursements of 50 cents a share on Sept. 1, 75 cents Nov. 24, and $1.75 on Dec. 21.

25 Cents a Share Voted.

Northwest Engineering directors declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, similar to that paid Feb. 1.

Directors of the Standard Silver-Lead Mining company voted a dividend of one cent a share on common stock. On Dec. 24 a like amount was paid.

Pyle National company ordered payment of 50 cents a share on common stock. Last Dec. 23 the company paid 75 cents a share and on Sept 25 it disbursed 25 cents regular and an extra of 25 cents.

Jewel Tea Declares $1.

Jewel Tea company directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on common stock. The Central Hudson Gas and Electric company voted its regular quarterly payment of 20 cents a share on common.

A regular quarterly dividend of 68¾ cents a share on common stock was ordered by the Hartford Electric Light company.

Directors of the Southern Natural Gas company declared a dividend of 20 cents a share out of earnings for the year 1936 on class A stock. On Dec. 15 the company paid an initial dividend of 80 cents a share.

CRANE WINS PLEA TO DELIST STOCK ON CHICAGO CURB

In accordance with a ruling by the Securities and Exchange commission in favor of the Crane company on its application to delist common and preferred shares from the Chicago Stock exchange, the exchange will remove the stocks from the trading list effective April 5.

Following the listing of its shares on the New York Stock exchange, the Crane company asked permission of the SEC to remove its stock from trading here, but the local exchange opposed the application on the grounds that many of the company's stockholders were living in the middle west and that it would be to the company's benefit to maintain a market for its stock here.

Over the last week-end the SEC ruled in favor of the company.

National Tube Employes Organize New Labor Union

Columbus, O., March 29.—(AP)—A group of employés of the National Tube company, Lorain, O., a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, obtained a charter from the secretary of state today for an independent labor organization. According to Attorney Wesley R. Grills of Lorain the new organization will be independent of both the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Everyday Economics

In response to requests from readers for simple explanations of financial terms and brief analyses of factors affecting business and finance, The Tribune presents "Everyday Economics." Letters addressed to "Editor, Everyday Economics," telling him what you would like to see discussed here will be welcomed. Inquiries will be answered through the daily articles rather than by letter. Requests for information on investments should be addressed as heretofore to Tribune Investors' Guide, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Car Loadings.

Car loadings are an important index of business activity because they represent the volume of goods and commodities handled by the railroads of the nation. Each week the Association of American Railroads, to which all railroads belong, issues a report on freight volume. This usually appears on Friday and covers operations for the week ended on the preceding Saturday.

As soon as the totals are available individual railroads forward to the association the number of cars which were loaded on their own lines, and the number received from other railroads. The association combines the results of all lines and makes its report for the country as a whole. When compared with figures of the preceding week and year the total gives a reliable picture of the trend of trafic.

The report is broken down into eight main groups. Miscellaneous freight and less-than-carlot freight usually indicate the volume of industrial activity, for manufactured goods all fall within these two categories. Another classification shows the amount of coal hauled. Another gives the amount of grain and still another the total live stock handled. Forest products, ore, and coke make up the other divisions.

The association and individual agencies have car loadings records dating back for many years. These are carefully compared each week and account is taken of seasonal influences, such as holidays, which might cause a recession in the total volume handled but not indicate a change in trend.

AMER. RADIATOR PROFIT LARGEST IN SEVEN YEARS

Woolley Predicts Building Gains.

Clarence M. Woolley.

Building activity maintained a favorable trend in 1936 and the outlook is for continued improvement, Clarence M. Woolley, chairman of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation, said yesterday in his annual report to stockholders, which showed that 1936 profits were the largest since 1929.

The 163 million dollar heating and plumbing concern reported consolidated net profit for 1936 of $7,344,513, equal to 70 cents a common share after preferred dividends, compared with $2,798,860, or 24 cents a share in the preceding year. Gross sales were $128,532,000, the largest since 1930, compared with $103,797,204 for 1935.

Trend Steadily Downward.

Woolley said the all time peak in residential building was reached in 1925 when in 257 cities new housing accommodations were provided for 491,000 families. From this peak there was a continuing decline until in 1934 in the same cities there was provided new housing for only 22,000 families. In 1935 in the same cities new accommodations were provided for 56,000 families; in 1936, for 116,000 families.

"Other conditions affecting building, particularly residential, continue favorable," Woolley said. "Vacancies have decreased in all classes of residential accommodations. The level of rents continues to rise. The rate of mortgage foreclosures has fallen.

"New accommodations provided within the last two years have not met the requirements arising from increases in population during this period. Much less have they served to reduce the long accumulating deficiency in housing accommodations.

Demand Is Intensified.

"Intensified demand for new and better living standards predicated on increasing employment and larger earning power further accentuates the situation."

He said that substantially all of the new residential building continues to be financed by private capital.

"There is reason for optimism as to the continued upward trend of residential building," he continued. "The trend towards higher wage levels and higher commodity prices continues. It is generally recognized that increases in wages exert a favorable effect upon the national economy, provided that both in point of time and measure there be such adjustment in selling prices as is necessary to assure a fair return on invested capital and thus sustain increased production."

Surtax on undistributed earnings amounted to $18,427. The company's total tax bill for 1936 was $5,103,785, or 50 cents a common share, against $3,743,601, or 37 cents a share, in 1935, an increase of 36 per cent.

SUE TO LIQUIDATE SIXTEENTH WARD BUILDING-LOAN

Suit to liquidate the Sixteenth Ward Building and Loan association, which was founded Feb. 27, 1888, was filed in Circuit court yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

According to the bill, the state auditor took possession of the association's books and assets on Nov. 25, 1936, after it had been determined there was a "capital impairment to an extent that the realizable value of the assets was insufficient to pay creditors in full and return to shareholders dues paid in on shares with interest at 2 per cent." Edward Skarda is receiver.

According to the balance sheet shown, there is a deficit of $73,180 out of capital debt to shareholders of $191,606, with other liabilities of $76,254, reserve of $23,936, and assets of $218,616.

POTATO FUTURES DROP SHARPLY; TOUCH NEW LOW MARK FOR YEAR

Potato prices dropped sharply yesterday on the Mercantile exchange, losses ranging to 53 cents a bushel or $190 a car at the day's low point. While closing trades on futures were somewhat above the low, final prices were 15c to 45 cents lower, with May closing at $2.33 per 100 pounds, and in new low ground for the season.

A belief that old crop Idaho potatoes would face increased competition with the new southern crop and a weaker spot market were responsible for the decline. Sales totaled 71 cars.

Weakness in the cash butter and egg market was reflected in lower prices for futures. Butter futures declined ¼ to ½ cent with March closing at 34½ cents a pound. Spot butter was 1 to 1½ cent lower. Sales of futures totaled 64 cars. Egg futures declined ¼ to ½ cent with October closing at 26⅝ cents a dozen. Sales were 51 cars. Range of prices on futures follow.

UTILITIES POWER ORDERED NOT TO PAY INTEREST

The management of the Utilities Power & Light corporation was instructed yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly not to pay the semiannual interest on $36,000,000 of debentures which became due on Feb. 1. Judge Holly ruled that while the question of solvency or insolvency of the company is pending, and inasmuch as the interest, which amounts to $900,000 had not been earned, it should not be paid.

In asking for instructions, the management said it has ample cash to meet the interest payment. Although the interest was due Feb. 1, it will not be officially declared defaulted for a period of 60 days after that date.

Utilities Power and Light is undergoing reorganization under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

FREIGHT TRAFIC REPORTS SHOW IRREGULAR TREND

First reports on freight car loading by railroads last week were irregular. Of the four roads to report, two showed increases over the preceding week and two declines. All enjoyed substantial gains over the corresponding week a year ago.

Profit Nearly Double in '36 for Kennecott

The Kennecott Copper corporation nearly doubled its earnings in 1936 with consolidated net income of $25,490,765, against $13,164,571 in 1935, according to the annual report issued last night by E. T. Stannard, president.

John F. Cuneo.

Per share earnings for the company, which is the second largest copper mining enterprise in the world and the largest in the United States, in 1936 were $2.36, compared with $1.22 a share in 1935. The company's profit was the largest since 1929 when the figure amounted to $52,066,365, or $5.55 a share.

Other Companies Earn More.

Substantial improvement in earnings were also reported yesterday by International Paper and Power company, Cannon Mills company, and Graham-Paige Motors corporation, in addition to many others.

Stannard reported that production of copper from Kennecott's operating properties in the United States and Alaska, and from its subsidiary in Chile, amounted to 578,943,053 pounds in 1936, against 418,269,528 pounds in 1935. Deliveries against sales totaled 567,454,983 pounds, compared with 487,017,806 in 1935.

"It is estimated," said Stannard, "that production of copper in the United States increased approximately 45 per cent over the preceding year and amounted to 731,629 tons.

"Consumption of copper by industries representing most of the important outlets in the United States increased by about 38 per cent over 1935 with each quarter of the year showing a gain over the preceding quarter. The domestic price, delivered Connecticut valley, advanced gradually from 9¼ cents in January to 10 cents in October, and then rose rapidly to 12 cents, which was the price in effect at the end of the year."

Cuneo Press Profits Rise.

Cuneo Press, Inc., Chicago, last year had its best year since 1930, according to the annual report issued last night by John F. Cuneo, president. Consolidated net profit of $908,963 was equal to $4.54 a share on the common stock and compared with $845,345, or $4.11 a common share in 1935. The preceding high in earnings was $1,260,847 in 1930.

During 1936 the company handled paper and printing totaling 642,271,575 pounds, compared with 543,614,539 pounds in 1935, an increase of 12.6 per cent. The dollar sales volume also increased in approximately the same proportion, Cuneo said.

The final report of the Western Union Telegraph company for 1936 confirmed preliminary figures, showing a net profit of $7,199,120, or $6.88 a share, against $5,258,078, or $5.03 a share, in the preceding year.

LITCHFIELD PREDICTS FURTHER INCREASE IN AUTO TIRE PRICES

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Automobile tire prices do not now reflect the rise in crude rubber, cotton fabric, and labor and will have to be boosted further if current high production costs are maintained, P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, told stockholders at the annual meeting of the company today.

Discussing the rise of crude rubber prices from 13 to 26 cents a pound in the last eight months he said his company had offset to some extent this increased cost of tire manufacture through successful operation of its rubber tree plantations in Sumatra, the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines, and in Central America.

The company reported consolidated net sales for 1936 of $188,915,674, which was 13 per cent over 1935 gross revenues. A net profit of $10,831,031, after all charges and deductions, was realized and $4,967,324 was paid out in dividends, all on preferred issues. A payment of 50 cents was made on the common this year.

As justification for his forecast of continuing expansion of rubber sales Litchfield mentioned the gathering momentum of automobile construction and cited particularly "40,000,000 steel tired wheels on farm vehicles of the country that may yet be rubber tired."

PIPE LINE FIRM OFFERS BIG ISSUE OF BONDS TODAY

Offering will be made today of $24,000,000 first mortgage and first lien 4 per cent series A bonds of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company at 97½ to yield 4.22 per cent to maturity. The group offering the issue is headed by Kidder, Peabody & Co. Proceeds will be used to redeem $18,468,450 of sinking fund mortgage 6 per cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1950. Approximately $3,200,000 is to be used for new construction work on the company's properties.

The commonwealth of Massachusetts awarded to the First National bank of Boston a new issue of $4,000,000 of short term notes, dated April 2, 1937, and due March 22, 1938. An issue of $3,000,000 of registered general fund warrants of the state of California was awarded to Blyth & Co. and associates at a rate of 1¾ per cent plus a premium of $1,830.

Officials of Boston, Mass., awarded an issue of $2,500,000 of notes, dated April 1, 1937, and due Nov. 5, 1937, to a group headed by Edward B. Smith & Co. at a rate of 1.20 per cent plus a premium of $107.

STOCK PRICES DRIFT LOWER IN DULL TRADE

Turnover Smallest Since September.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Prices on the stock exchange drifted aimlessly lower today. Fractional declines were widespread, with steel, rails, oils, and motors losing early gains, while utilities did little in either direction. Trading was unusually light, turnover of 871,470 falling below the million share mark for the first time since last September.

Failure of the Supreme court to give a decision on the Wagner labor relations act, which was eagerly expected by traders, was given by market observers as the primary reason for today's lethargic behavior. Another contributing factor was the belief that the list was still working toward adjustment of its technical position and that the lows of last week would be penetrated before any concerted upward movement was initiated.

Early Gains Lost.

The market opened higher, with gains ranging from small fractions to a point or more. Steels, motors, and oils were outstanding in this period, but after a slight flurry following the railway act confirmation the market slipped back.

United States Steel was one of the few steels to close higher. It finished at 118⅝, up a fraction. Bethlehem, Crucible, American Rolling Mill, and Midland showed small losses.

Oils were one of the leading groups and advanced moderately, although again early gains were not maintained. The Texas group, Plymouth and Quaker Oil, held to their gains, but Standards of New Jersey and California closed lower.

Rails Make Little Headway.

Rails did little early. Southern Pacific, New York Central, and Pennsylvania picked up small amounts, but only Pennsylvania managed to eral trend, coppers were weak, and retain its gain.

The others sold off when the Supreme court decision in the Virginia railway case became known. Declines were not large, and a majority of the issues hovered around previous closes. Working against the general trend, Tickel Plate came close to its previous high mark, closing at 71 for a 3½ point increase for the day.

Automobile issues sold off mainly on lack of news from the strike front. Although it was rumored that Chrysler's production during the first quarter, despite the strike, was 10 per cent ahead of a year ago and that an early end to the present difficulties is to be expected, Chrysler slumped a fraction after an early markup.

Nearly All Lines of Chicago Business Show Increases

Nearly all lines of Chicago business during February showed gains over February, 1936, according to the monthly survey on trade conditions made public yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Despite the fact that February contains fewer business days than January and certain seasonal disadvantages, gains were registered over January in several lines of activity.

Important gains over 1936 were found in the number of employés in Chicago manufacturing plants, where there was a 20 per cent increase, and in pay rolls in the same division, where the increase was 33 per cent.

The three lines that registered declines from 1936 were real estate transfers, security transactions on the Chicago Stock exchange, and the trafic of the Chicago Surface lines.

"The generally improved commercial tempo of Chicago probably was best reflected in the figures of the local public utility companies, where the number of telephone subscribers and the electric power used for production purposes was well ahead of last year," the association said.

Steel production, car loadings, postal receipts, and bank clearings, which are all rated as good business indices, were well ahead of those for the same period in 1936.

Improvement over January was found in the cost of building permits, real estate operations, employment and pay rolls in manufacturing industries, telephones in use, postal receipts, and air arrivals and departures.

STEEL OUTPUT RATE CONTINUES RISE TO 90.7% OF CAPACITY

Steel ingot production this week is scheduled at 90.7 per cent of capacity, an increase of 1.1 points over last week, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. A month ago the rate was 85.8 per cent and a year ago it was 62 per cent. In the corresponding week in 1935 the rate was only 43.3 per cent.

The current rate is the highest since August, 1929, when the industry was operating at 95.31 per cent. The indicated output for this week is 1,188,000 tons, the highest weekly production on record except during May, 1929, when the weekly average was 1,193,000 tons.

United Air Lines Orders Two More Douglas Planes

United Air Lines announced yesterday that two new Douglas transport planes of the twenty-one passenger type, have been ordered, increasing their Douglas fleet to twenty-nine planes. The new planes will be powered with Pratt & Whitney twin bank fourteen cylinder Wasp engines, capable of developing a maximum of 1,150 horse power, giving a cruising speed of 190 miles per hour. United has already taken delivery of twenty Douglases, which are now in operation.

BILL TO EXTEND 3 PER CENT SALES TAX INTRODUCED

Suringfield, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—An extension of the state retailers' occupational [sales] tax at the 3 per cent rate until July 1, 1939, is contained in a series of bills introduced in the Illinois house of representatives tonight by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Democratic majority leader.

As it now stands, the tax would revert to 2 per cent on May 1 this year, eliminating at that time the third cent which is diverted to relief purposes. The Adamowski bill proposes to levy the third cent for relief for another two years despite assertions that prosperity has returned. The measure were referred to the revenue committee.

Tobacco Industry Plans Attack on Processing Tax

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The tobacco industry will test the constitutionality of the revenue act of 1936 relating to processing taxes, it was announced today by Bennett E. Siegelstein, a lawyer. He has received permission from Solicitor General Stanley Reed to intervene and will bring a suit on behalf of three tobacco firms to recover $29,436 in such taxes. The tobacco industry, Siegelstein said, had paid a total of 25 million dollars in processing taxes since the law was passed.

WHEAT CLIMBS TO NEW PEAKS, THEN DECLINES

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Yesterday's closing prices on grain for delivery in May, with comparisons follow:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Week ago.	Month ago.
Wheat	$1.43⅛	$1.42¾	$1.39⅝	$1.32⅞
Corn	1.19	1.18½	1.11½	1.07⅝
Oats	.49¾	.49⅞	.47	.47
Rye	1.14¼	1.14½	1.09⅝	1.06⅝
Soy beans	1.65	1.63⅝	1.56½	1.54

Wheat prices turned downward in late trading yesterday, following an early advance which had carried all deliveries of wheat and corn and May soy beans to new 8 year high marks and sent carlots of cash wheat up to $1.50¾ a bushel, the highest price on the Chicago Board of Trade since October, 1928. Final prices on futures were mixed.

An advance of more than 6 cents a bushel in wheat futures in Buenos Aires compared with last Thursday's close was responsible for the upturn here in wheat early in the day. The May delivery rose $1.44⅝ a bushel before reacting.

Profit Taking Heavy.

Heavy profit taking developed later as highly beneficial snows fell in the American southwestern winter wheat belt. Closing prices were ⅜ cent higher to ½ cent lower, with the new crop months showing the weakness.

Corn futures maintained an advance of ½ to 1 cent a bushel. A car of No. 2 white corn in the sample market sold at $1.31, a new high for the season. Oat futures were practically unchanged while rye finished ¼ cent lower to 1½ cent higher. Soy beans advanced ½ to 1⅝ cent and May barley was 4⅜ cents higher after showing an upturn of 5 cents, the maximum permitted for one day under exchange regulations.

Eastern Speculators Sell.

Eastern speculators were heavy sellers of July and September wheat contracts which represent the new crop. British interests were reported aggressive buyers of wheat futures at Winnipeg where prices climbed as much as 3 cents a bushel at one time before declining to close unchanged to ⅜ cent lower.

European wheat markets are scheduled to reopen today after having been closed since Thursday. There was some apprehension as to whether Liverpool would fully reflect the strength in North American markets over the Easter holidays.

Corn futures in the Buenos Aires market advanced 3 cents a bushel early to a new high level for the season.

TO CAREFUL AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS:

There is a way to recover that part of the cost of automobile insurance which is a reflection of accidents caused by the carelessness of irresponsible drivers.

That way is to place your automobile insurance in a strong mutual company that takes only selected risks; thereby guaranteeing to policyholders that are accepted an association with other desirable risks, and a share in the profits from the resultantly higher company earnings.

The primary purpose of an Employers Mutual automobile policy is protection -- protection for the insured's accumulated assets and future happiness against claims for damages arising from automobile accidents causing bodily injuries to others or damage to the property of others, and protection against loss through damage to the insured's automobile.

Secondly, the matter of service facilities is of great importance. Through trained, direct company representatives operating from completely equipped branch offices, the interests of policyholders are given prompt, courteous and accurate attention. Approved attorneys are available for emergency service throughout the country. Service is nation-wide.

Thirdly, by dealing through direct representatives, through careful selection of business, and through accident prevention activities, thereby reducing both loss and expense ratios below average, it has been possible during the entire life of the company to effect substantial savings for policyholders in the form of dividend returns.

Furthermore, the company is of unquestionable financial standing, receives the highest rating from recognized authorities, and issues a strictly non-assessable automobile policy.

An inquiry, with a description of your automobile, will bring to you complete details without obligating you in any manner.

Yours very truly

New York Bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Today's bond market was a much quieter affair than was the case on the last previous full day on Thursday. High grade bonds of all kinds were firm, while the more speculative rails and industrials were irregular. Sales of many inactive issues occurred at sharp recessions from their previous sale levels.

Volume dropped to the uncommonly low total of $8,888,000 face amount, compared with $11,811,000 last Thursday. It was the smallest aggregate since Nov. 2, last, when $8,408,000 was traded.

Fractional advances predominated in the treasury bond list, but turnover as at a rate only half that of the last full day's trading. Treasury 3¼s of 1945 moved up 10-32. A number of federals finished even on the day and several dipped 1-32 of a point.

Low and medium priced issues lowered a little, although losses were slight and there were numerous counter trend movements.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading was dull and prices irregular on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday. Lion Oil attracted the heaviest trading at 3,700 shares and closed ⅜ higher at 24⅞, after touching a new peak of 26⅝. Utah Radio Products, Wisconsin Bankshares, and General Household Utilities, other active issues, rose fractionally. Trading totaled 46,000 shares. Of the 122 issues on the market, including one new one, thirty-seven closed higher, forty-seven lower, and thirty-seven unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois stock alone was strong among the Chicago bank shares yesterday, rising $4 to $5 a share as quoted by various dealers. First National dipped $1 to $2 and Mercantile Trust lost $2 a share. Others were about steady.

Commodities

Live Stock.

Wholesale meat prices soared to new highs for the season yesterday, with beef and lamb leading the rise. The upturn stimulated sufficient buying of cattle at the stock yards to set up a new nine year March peak of $16, but buyers of hogs and lambs were influenced more by slightly larger receipts and paid steady to lower rates.

Advances of as much as 50 cents per hundred pounds were registered in whole beef carcasses and veal, while lamb was steady to $2 higher at various markets. Fresh pork was steady in Chicago but rose $1 at some eastern points.

Beef ribs that sold to retail butchers at $11 to $26 a hundred pounds in Chicago a week ago brought $13 to $30 yesterday. Loins that packers obtained $18 to $44 for were comparable to the $14.50 to $43 beef early last week.

Steers were strong to 15 cents higher than at the close of the week.

Beef cows, hefers, canners and cutters were strong to slightly higher.

Hogs were steady to 10 cents lower, both the day's top and average price showing a 5 cent loss at $10.45 and $10.25, respectively.

Lambs declined 25 to 40 cents, the bulk of wool stock selling at $12.25 to $12.40.

Cotton.

A rush of trade buying, both domestic and foreign lifted nearby deliveries of cotton rather sharply yesterday. While business was somewhat restricted by the Easter holidays in Europe, closing trades were near the top. Net gains on futures in Chicago ranged from .03 to .12 cent. Other American markets closed .03 to .10 cent a pound higher.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .10 cent higher with New Orleans, 14.50 cents; New York, 14.75 cents and Galveston and Houston at 14.30 cents a pound. Range of prices in cents per pound follows:

Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today. Spot prices advanced 5 points to the basis of 3.55c per lb. Sales confirmed included 5,000 bags of Puerto Ricos for early April shipment late last week at 3.53c and today 50,000 bags of Cubas for early April shipment at 3.55c, all to a local refiner.

Futures were higher early on increased trade covering and commission house buying, aided by the steadier spot market and expectations of delay in the enactment of the sugar tax. There were reactions near the close under realizing and hedge selling. No. 3, after advancing 2 to 4 points, closed 1 point higher to 1 point lower with sales of 11,300 tons. The No. 4 advanced ½ to 1 point but closed ½ point higher to ½ point lower with July selling from 1.29@1.28½c and September from 1.30½@1.29½c, closing at the lowest on sales of 15,200 tons.

Coffee.

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP)—COFFEE—Was irregular today although price movements were narrow. After showing early steadiness on covering and a little Brazilian support, Santos reacted partially. The No. 7 delivery recovered from early declines on trade buying, encouraged by the steadiness in Brazil.

Santos opened 1 to 4 points higher and closed 2 lower to 2 points higher with sales of 17,500 bags. No. 7 opened 2 points lower and closed 3 to 4 points higher. Sales, 2,500 bags. Spot coffee was steady: No 7 Rio, 9¼c per lb; No. 4 Santos, 11⅛c per lb. Cost and freight offers included Santos Bourban 3s and 5s at 10.65c to 10.80c.

RUBBER CLIMBS TO NEW HIGHS; EUROPE BUYING

Other Commodities Show Irregular Trends.

Rubber prices continued to climb yesterday on aggressive buying which sent final quotations up 0.39 to 0.55 cent a pound to new highs for the current upward movement. Much of the purchasing was for European account, traders said, as the London market was still closed in observance of Easter.

Supporting the buying for European account was considerable activity by American interests which held that amicable settlement of the Chrysler strike will result in increased demand. Japanese interests also were active in the market, according to reports.

May contracts ranged from 26.68 to 26.69 cents at the close and the July delivery was 26.80 to 26.82 cents. Sales of futures totaled 621 lots of 22,400 pounds each. Rubber for immediate delivery was quoted at 26.60 cents a pound.

Metal Markets Quiet.

With foreign metal markets still closed for the Easter holidays, domestic markets were quiet and steady. No export copper sales were reported and the domestic copper price was unchanged at 16.25 cents a pound with demand light.

Copper futures closed 0.08 cent a pound lower to 0.09 cent higher. Zinc was quoted unchanged to 0.02 lower with no sales reported. Lead was unchanged to 0.05 cent a pound lower. No sales were reported in tin futures, but nominal prices were 0.10 to 0.45 lower.

HOLDS INDUSTRY "BASING POINT" PRICES ILLEGAL

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today disclosed illegal the "basing point" system of standardizing nation-wide prices used in several major industries. A commission statement said the system compelled buyers to pay "artificially enhanced prices."

The commission issued a complaint against thirty-five companies producing 90 per cent of the nation's cast iron soil pipe, and the Cast Iron Soil Pipe association, Birmingham, Ala., charging that the industry's "Birmingham plus" system of prices violated the anti-trust law and the Robinson-Patman anti-price discrimination act.

The steel, cement, sugar, and some other industries have used the system. The commission said the system works so that regardless of where the pipe actually is manufactured, the "delivered prices are equivalent to a base price fixed at Birmingham, Ala., plus the freight rate from Birmingham to the buyer's freight station, wherever located."

North American Aviation Bids Low on U. S. Planes

Dayton, O., March 29.—(AP)—North American Aviation corporation, San Diego, Cal., was low bidder for contracts to furnish the army air corps with planes, classed as basis combat ships, a check of estimates by Wright Field engineers here today showed. Bids received by engineers on the basis of 25 ships were: North American, $13,580 each; Seversky Aircraft corporation, Farmingdale, N. Y., $27,800, and Northrop Aircraft corporation, Englewood, Cal., $24,301. In quantities of 150 the bids were North American, $12,920 each; Seversky, $19,300 each, and Northrop, $20,188 each. Prices were quoted exclusive of motors, costing the government between $4,255 and $9,100 each, and accessories, $5,100 for each plane.

Canada Dry Ginger Ale Stock Trade Is Probed

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—An investigation into trading in Canada Dry Ginger Ale stock between Jan. 2 and March 18, during which time the market price on the Stock Exchange rose from 28½ to as high as 38¼, has been undertaken by the Securities and Exchange commission, it was learned today.

Foreign Currencies Quiet, Little Changed

Leading foreign currencies were sluggish in trading at New York yesterday as foreign financial markets remained closed for the extended Easter holiday. The British pound closed 1-16 cent higher, Dutch guilders lost .01 cent, and French and Swiss francs were unchanged.

STANDARD OIL UNIT RAISES PAY OF OFFICE STAFS

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, incorporated in Delaware, an operating subsidiary of the Standard Oil company incorporated in New Jersey, has granted substantial increases, effective April 1, to clerical and other salaried employés, it was announced today by Frank W. Abrams, president. This is in addition to a series of pay increases negotiated recently with thousands of wage earners in joint conference, Abrams said.

Office and other employés not participating in these advances just negotiated who are receiving $1,800 or less a year will get a flat monthly increase of $15 each. Employés of the Standard Oil company of Pennsylvania and the Colonial Beacon Oil company, also operating subsidiaries of the New Jersey company, will get similar increases.

Ship Concern Pays More.

Chester, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—The Sun Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company announced today an hourly wage increase of 4½ cents for its 3,850 employés. John G. Pew, president of the company, said the increase was effective immediately.

I. C. C. Refuses to Delay Hearing of Rock Island

MORE ILLINOIS BANKS AVOID DOUBLE LIABILITY

Six Change to National Charters Last Year.

The yielding of state banks to national banks in Illinois because of the double liability to holders of stock in state banks was reflected in the 1936 report on Illinois state banks issued yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

Illinois stockholders of state banks are subject to an assessment equal to the amount of stock they held in the bank in case of failure, thus imposing a double liability. There is no assessment attached to national bank stock. The liability is assessed even after a holder disposes of stock. The report showed that six state banks were converted into national banks during 1936, bringing the total conversions to 11 since Jan. 1, 1933.

Six Banks After Charter.

Conversions in 1936 included the Howard Avenue Trust and Savings bank and the Upper Avenue bank, Chicago; the First State Bank of Zion City, the State Bank of Winnetka, the Central Trust and Savings Bank of Sterling, and the Stillman Valley bank.

Besides the 11 conversions there have been three consolidations with national banks since Jan. 1, 1933.

The toll among state banks was further increased by 32 dissolutions in 1936, bringing the total since Jan. 1, 1933, to 114.

The only comparative statement in the report on state and national banks was on trust resources which showed a large decline in such resources held by state banks outside of Chicago. National banks in the same areas reported gains. However, within the city the changes were reversed—state banks gaining trust resources while national banks lost.

Trust Resources Fall.

A total of 66 state banks outside of Chicago had trust resources of $66,691,154 on Dec. 31, 1936, compared with $72,314,010 for 70 banks on Dec. 31, 1935; 57 national banks outside of Chicago had trust resources of $71,376,017 at the close of 1936, against $67,647,712 for 58 national banks a year earlier.

Estimates place total resources of national banks in the state at more than 1¾ billion dollars above those of Illinois state banks, whereas about 10 years ago the state banks topped national banks in resources by about a billion dollars.

The Illinois Bankers' association has urged a constitutional amendment to remove the double liability attached to state bank stock, but so far no definite action has been taken.

WRECK FAMED TURNER HALL ON NORTH SIDE

On orders of the Guardian Life Insurance Company of America Ralph Hunt of the Chicago Mortgage Investment company yesterday let a contract for demolition of the sixty-five year old North Side Turner hall, 820 North Clark street, for many years the center of German activities in Chicago.

The J. M. Krauss Lumber and Wrecking company will start razing the historic structure April 1. Because of its unusually substantial construction it will take at least a month to wreck the four story building, according to Hunt. He said a one story "taxpayer" may be erested on the 100x150 foot site which may be used for a gas station or parking.

GIVE COURT PLAN TO REORGANIZE TOBACCO CHAIN

Committee for United Cigar Stores Acts.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—After almost five years of bankruptcy, a plan for the reorganization of the United Cigar Stores Company of America was filed today in the southern New York District Federal court. Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe set April 19 as a date for a hearing on the proposal.

The company, which is the largest chain of tobacco stores in the world, went into bankruptcy in August, 1932, when the Irving Trust company was appointed trustee. Earlier moves to reorganize, launched in 1933, were abandoned late in the following year as a result of improved earnings.

Protective Committee Approves.

The present plan was prepared by a reorganization committee headed by Peter Grimm, a representative of the landlords' committee, and comprising Grayson M. P. Murphy, Robert L. Marony, John Sloan, and William M. Chadbourne, representing the various interests. The protective committee has approved the plan.

Since the date of commencement of the current proceedings, under the federal bankruptcy act, protracted litigation has been carried on to determine the extent to which large claims for damages for future rent are entitled to participate in the plan, Boykin Wright, counsel for the reorganization committee, said today.

Offer to Bondholders.

Under the plan, the holders of $8,180,000 face amount of 5½ per cent debentures of Cigar Stores Realty Holdings, Inc., guaranteed by United Cigar Stores, already in receipt of 50 per cent in cash in the old bankruptcy proceedings, are to receive with respect to each original $1,000 face amount of debentures, and all claims to interest thereon, $500 face amount of secured bonds of the reorganized company, 1.85 shares of new preferred stock, and 68 shares of new common stock.

ILLINOIS POWER ANNOUNCES PLAN TO RECAPITALIZE

Preferred Stock Arrears to Be Cleared.

A recapitalization plan for the Illinois Power and Light corporation, in which provision is made for clearing arrearages on the preferred stock and elimination of a $3,040,170 deficit, was announced yesterday by J. D. Mortimer, president, in a letter sent to 27,000 holders of the preferred stock. A special meeting of stockholders has been called for April 30 at Monticello, Ill., to vote on the plan.

The company and subsidiaries furnish electricity to 450 communities in Illinois and Iowa, gas and other services in a part of the territory, and operate steam and electric railroads in Illinois and in St. Louis.

Arrears on the present $6 cumulative preferred stock on May 1, 1937, will amount to $24 per share and on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred to $24.50 a share.

Explains Recapitalization Plan.

Under the proposed plan present preferred stockholders as a class will receive from 61 per cent to a possible 87 per cent of the common stock equity of the Illinois Power and Light corporation, now held by the Illinois Traction company, a subsidiary of the North American Light and Power company, which in turn is controled by the North American company.

Mortimer said that under Illinois law no dividend can be paid while the deficit exists. Other reasons, he added, why recapitalization is desirable are restrictions in the company's mortgage and debenture indentures on dividend payments, the necessity of meeting $8,500,000 in maturities within four years, and the necessity of providing for 10 million dollars in plant improvements to take care of growing demands for electricity.

Plans Exchange of Stock.

Mortimer said the plan provides for the payment of the arrearages, reduces annual preferred stock dividend requirements from $2,901,000 to $2,208,750, and gives the company a capital structure which will facilitate refunding operations and permit future financing through the sale of common stock.

Under the plan, holders of the preferred stock will receive one share of new preferred, a certificate for dividends in arrears, and one share of new common stock for each share of old preferred. Both the new preferred and the certificates are convertible into common stock.

EASTERN ROADS WILL NEGOTIATE ON PAY DEMANDS

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The leading eastern railroads decided today to negotiate pending national wage demands through committees rather than through the machinery provided by the railway labor law. To this end they appointed a committee of five officials to negotiate with a like committee to be formed by the twenty-one railway labor unions.

A questionnaire will be sent the eastern railroad managements within a few days to determine whether the negotiations are to be carried out on a national and regional basis and other details. The demands to be considered call for an increase of 20 cents an hour for fifteen unions and a 20 per cent wage increase for the five operating brotherhoods. One union has asked for a six hour day.

The managements in the south and west will appoint committees like the one formed by the eastern managements in the event that they elect to enter into regional or national negotiations with the unions.

Canadian Dispute Settled.

MONTREAL, March 29.—(AP)—Railway and union heads today announced "an amicable settlement" of their wage dispute, providing removal of 10 per cent wage cuts by March 31, 1938.

BANKS CONTINUE LIQUIDATION OF FEDERAL BONDS

140 Million Sold During Last Week.

Heavy liquidation of United States government securities by banks belonging to the federal reserve system continued last week. The decline for the week ended March 24 totaled 140 million dollars, according to the federal reserve board's weekly report on member bank position, made public yesterday. In the preceding week holdings dropped 186 million dollars.

Liquidation of government bonds partly attributed to the raising by the federal reserve board of reserve requirements, has carried total holdings of federal securities 223 million dollars below the amount the banks held a year ago.

Boost Reserve Requirements.

On May 1, the final step up in the recent series of reserve requiremnts boosts will go into effect with a 16 2-3 per cent increase.

The bank's reserves with federal reserve banks also declined 215 millions, balances with domestic banks falling 112 millions and inter-bank deposits sagging 205 millions. Demand deposits slumped 205 million dollars.

There was a moderate increase of 5 million dollars in commercial loans, which on March 24 totaled 4 billion 323 million dollars, an increase of 899 millions over the amount outstanding on the same date in the preceding year. Purchases of acceptances and commercial paper increased 6 million.

Covered Wagon Company.

Investors' Guide: Please send me any information available pertaining to the Covered Wagon company.—R. L. B.

Answer: The Covered Wagon company, said to be the largest manufacturer of the house type automobile trailer, is more or less a personal achievement of Arthur George Sherman of Detroit. It grew out of Sherman's dissatisfaction with the trailer he bought in 1928 to take his five children camping. That trailer was one of those contraptions which unfolded into a tent.

Sherman decided to build a trailer that always would be ready for occupancy, that did not need to be unfolded. The wide interest his own trailer aroused along the road led to Sherman's exhibiting an improved model in the 1930 automobile show at Detroit.

Orders were filled at first in Sherman's garage. Trailers built numbered 108 in 1930, 117 in 1931, and 80 in 1932. Then expansion began. Factory space grew to 13,000 square feet, and production stepped up to 189 in 1933 and 320 in 1934.

It was in the spring of 1935 that the public began to show signs of being trailer conscious. Orders suddenly rose, and 1,124 trailers were delivered in 1935. Toward the end of the year the company moved to a modern plant at Mount Clemens, Mich., just outside Detroit. There it has 147,000 square feet of manufacturing space, is estimated to be able to turn out 15,000 to 20,000 trailers in a year. Output in 1936 was at a new record of 5,790.

Covered Wagon did the first public financing in the history of the new trailer industry, selling 30,000 shares of $1.50 dividend $20 par convertible class A preferred stock in March, 1936. There are 295,000 shares of no par common stock, all owned by Sherman except for 10,000 shares sold and 30,000 under option.

Sales were $2,770,000 and net income was $18,324 in 1936, compared with $501,000 sales and net income of $9,584 in 1935.

Of proceeds from sale of stock, $467,500 will be used to reduce current liabilities and $125,000 is to buy materials, machinery and equipment. Current assets were $529,000 and current liabilities were $704,000 on Dec. 31, 1936.

The future of Covered Wagon appears to depend on how much the trailer industry develops beyond the present fad and novelty stage. Both preferred and common stocks are speculative.

KENNECOTT'S PROFIT NEARLY DOUBLED IN 1936

fore the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington yesterday, filed an amendment to its application for approval on a recapitalization plan showing that the net profit for 1936 was $5,020,579 instead of $4,786,241, as estimated in the company's original application. In 1935 the company had a net loss of $3,323,432.

The revised net profit for 1936 was equal to $5.52 a share on the 7 per cent preferred. The company estimated 1937 earnings would amount to more than $9,000,000. R. H. Weaver, vice president and treasurer, said at the hearing that the recapitalization plan is based upon annual earnings of $10,000,000 in the future after payment of federal taxes but before payment of undistributed profits taxes.

Weaver said earnings for 1936 were largest since formation of the paper and power company, although the paper company alone had $12,000,000 earnings in 1920.

Pacific Gas Earnings Rise.

Pacific Gas and Electric company reported consolidated net income of $23,671,537, or $2.55 a share on the common stock, compared with $20,853,155, or $2.10 a common share, in 1935.

Automatic Products corporation and subsidiaries, Chicago, had a net loss of $23,515 in 1936, compared with net income of $36,054, or 21 cents a share, in 1935. Net sales amounted to $3,012,950, against $1,695,713 in 1935.

The 1936 net loss was after deduction of $110,620 for the minority stockholders' interest in income. K. L. Ames Jr., president, pointed out that nonrecurring profits of $37,702 for 1937 were credited directly to the earned surplus account.

Explains Standard Gas Report.

Bernard W. Lynch, president of the Standard Gas and Electric company, yesterday issued a statement explaining the decline of $45,378 in net income for the twelve months ended Jan. 31, 1937, as compared with the preceding twelve months.

Lynch said that the $2,143,791 for the twelve months ended Jan. 31, 1936, included $503,343 income from an engineering and management affiliate which was since sold without profit to companies in the system to be operated as a mutual service corporation. Consequently there were no dividends from this company, now known as Public Utility Engineering and Service corporation, in the twelve months' period ended last Jan. 31.

LumberOutputatNewPeak; Orders, Shipments Decline

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' association said today that lumber production reached a new 1937 peak during the week ended March 20. A total of 544 mills produced 229,279,000 feet of lumber, compared with 225,884,000 feet produced by 575 mills the previous week. Shipments of 238,432,000 feet receded 12 per cent, however, from the year's record of the preceding week, and new orders of 245,320,000 feet were 1 per cent under the previous week.

LARD

Strength in corn imparted a firm undertone to lard with closing trades unchanged to 10 cents higher, the latter on March. Shorts were credited with being the best buyers, while cash interests were on the selling side. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 5 cents higher. Cash lard was quoted at $12.55; loose, $11.85; leaf, $11.75, and clar bellies at $16.25 per 100 pounds. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

will real estate prices go higher?

Many signs point to an increase in activities in the real estate market. More homes are changing hands. There is a revival in subdivision operations. More houses and business buildings are under construction now than in years. Property values have risen.

If you are thinking of buying real estate of any kind, now is the time to check the want ads in the Tribune. Hundreds of pieces of property—farms, homes, home sites, and business and industrial property are offered for your selection. Find the property you want now before prices go higher. Turn to the real estate want ads in today's Tribune.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

A NEW BUSINESS IS DEVELOPING IN CHICAGO

Two months ago we came into this town with a new idea, and in that length of time progress has been wonderful. Our men are making money and are happy. We can use a few more men now. I don't care how prejudiced or skeptical you are. Money on the line and statements of fact will crush any inhibitions that you may have. I want men that are open to take a full time, permanent selling in merchandising an electrical device specialty that is revolutionizing an industry, a product that has more sales appeal packed in it than words can describe. [Not interested in part time workers.] I want men who consider themselves ahead of the average on initiative, consistent application and persistence. When I find the right man I will teach him a wonderful permanent business and pay him while he is learning, then full comm. I am not interested in curiosity hunters nor men that are expecting something for nothing. I want only sincere go-getters.

HOW YOU CAN BORROW.

1. If you can make monthly payments you can qualify for a loan.
2. Loans made on Furniture, Autos or Plain Note.
3. No inquiries made of employer or friends.

HOW YOU CAN REPAY.

1. Payments on all loans are small. For example, payments on a $200 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
2. Monthly rate is 2% on the balance above $100. 3% on $100 or less. This is substantially less than the lawful maximum on loans over $100.

Trial Reveals Identity of "Carol G." in Wood Marital Battle—Her Love Letter Is Read in Court

Hunt Clews in Slaying of Beauty

Veronica Gedeon, age 20, a model, who was found murdered in New York home along with her mother, Mrs. Mary Gedeon, 54, and a roomer in the apartment, Frank Byrnes. The women had been strangled and the man stabbed. The murders were discovered by Mrs. Gedeon's estranged husband, Joseph, and her daughter and son-in-law.

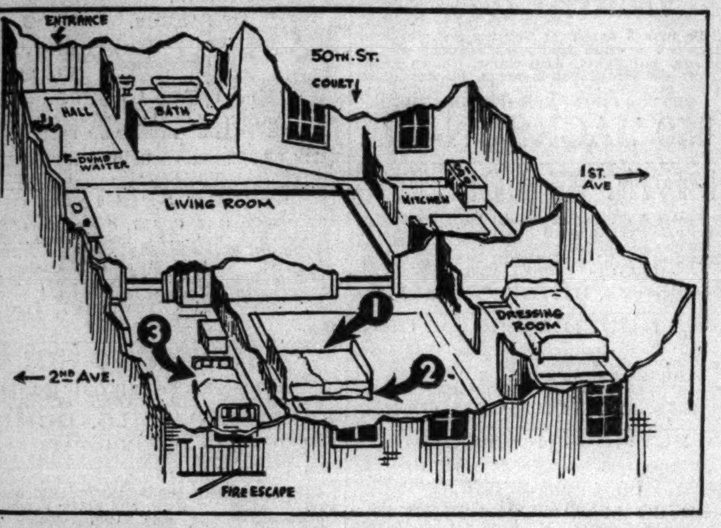

Diagram of the triple slayings. No. 1 shows where the girl's body was found on bed; No. 2 is where mother's body was found under bed, and No. 3 locates Byrnes' body in another room.

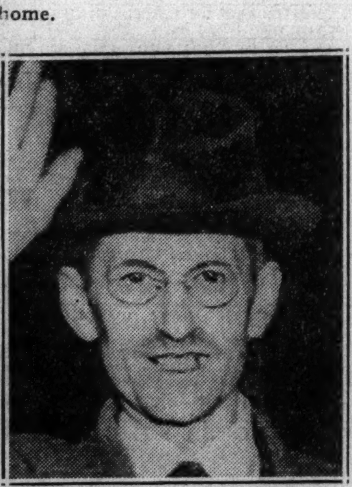
Another picture of the slain model. Police last night were without a definite clew in their hunt for the killer, all "suspects" being eliminated.

Mrs. Mary Gedeon, one of the three murder victims. Police report that she had been raped by the fiendish killer who entered her home.



Joseph Gedeon, the estranged husband who found the bodies when he called for Easter visit. He was questioned by the police in search for clews.

This Pekingese dog was a mute witness to the three murders. His loud barking greeted the policemen when they were called. Neighbors heard no dog bark.

The mysterious "Carol G.," co-respondent in the separation suit of Mrs. Gertrude Wood against Fire Captain David J. Wood of Winnetka. She was identified in court yesterday as Mrs. Carol de Windt Gardner, once of Winnetka and now of Barrington. Her amorous letter to the captain, "my dream prince" and "precious darling," was put in evidence. The letter was found in Wood's pocket by his wife.

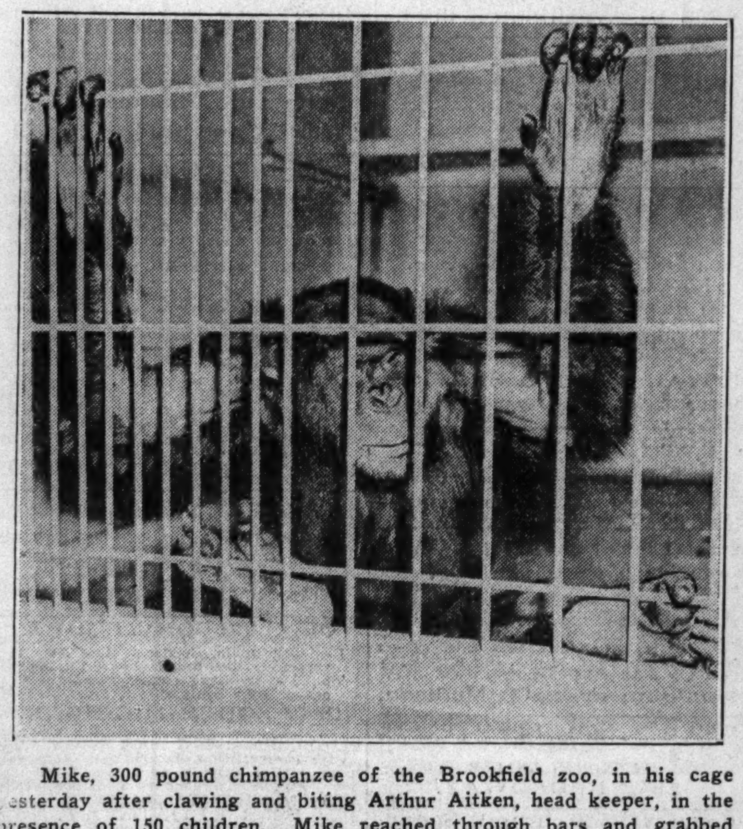
Mrs. Gertrude Wood, small, black haired, and determined, as she took the stand and named the woman whom she charges supplanted her in the affections of the dashing fire captain. "Yes, I know what a mistress is," she snapped at a lawyer, and when asked to define one retorted: "You should ask me." Accused of meeting her husband in pajamas when he came to pay alimony, she retorted: "I don't own a pair of silk pajamas." In testifying about love making with her husband she "didn't think it was the right thing to do so, but he reminded me I was still his wife." [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Capt. Wood, the "ethereal lover," was also on the stand. He told of his meetings with Mrs. Gardner, saying: "She often invited me home for meals." He denied any wrongdoings.

Richard Wood, 13, son of the embattled couple, took the stand in behalf of his mother. He said he would not speak to his father "because of the things he has done to mother." (Story on page 1.)

Marjorie Wood, 10, the daughter, was at court, but not in the courtroom to hear the testimony. She will be a witness later in the hearing, also on side of her mother.

ZOO MONKEY HOUSE IN AN UPROAR AS CHIMPANZEE ATTACKS KEEPER



Mike, 300 pound chimpanzee of the Brookfield zoo, in his cage yesterday after clawing and biting Arthur Aitken, head keeper, in the presence of 150 children. Mike reached through bars and grabbed Aitken as he passed carrying buckets of food.

MORE THAN 50,000 JAM WHITE HOUSE GROUNDS FOR EGG ROLLING—Crowd massed around the south portico yesterday when the President appeared at the annual Easter egg rolling event. There were almost as many adults as children. Inclement weather failed to hold down the attendance. (Story on page 17.)

IN ZINTAK PROBE

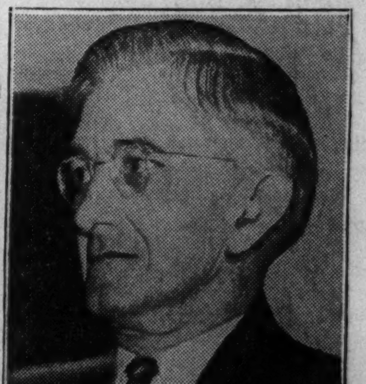
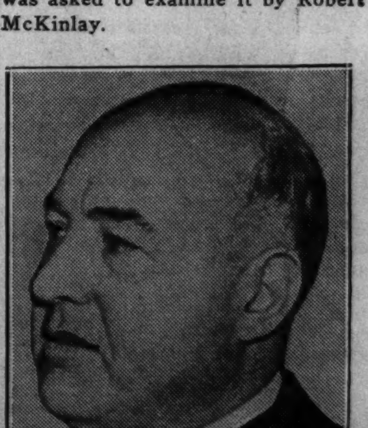
Leo Fahey, another juror and a teetotaler, told Judge Epstein about the visits to taverns and the liquor in the jury room.

This tavern owner, Nathan Hoffman, said the jurors drank beer and whisky in his place and tried to make way with a radio and bar stool.

William Kapustaka, another tavern owner, said the jurors had a party five weeks after the acquittal and that Zintak himself was there.



Attorney Theodore J. Reinert testified again about seeing the jury list for second trial. He said he was asked to examine it by Robert McKinlay.



Attorney Scott M. Hogan had the same story about the jury list as Attorney Reinert. McKinlay has so far refused to surrender for probe.
